Mellon's Report.

WAR seems more unpleasant in China than elsewhere—and it's bad enough everywhere.

In the besieged city of Sianfu, people buy and eat human flesh, as they recently ate horse and dog meat in Europe. Streets are lined with men and women, dead of hunger.

BLESSED is this country compared with all others.

Secretary Mellon, reporting to congress, says there is no ebb in our high wave of prosperity.

The nation's income is at a record level. Spending increases, also savings accounts, life insurance writing and purchase of sound investment securities by small investors—all as it should be.

"WE HAVE worked hard, and we have progressed," Mr. Mellon says, reporting the national debt reduced by more than five billion eight hundred millions of dollars.

Mr. Mellon works hard, and much progress, for which the nation should be grateful, is due to his work. He rejoices that the railroads have been restored to their proper place and calls that "the most notable improvement."

THE Egyptian chamber of deputies has passed a cotton limitation law, and for three years cotton planting in Egypt will be cut down two-thirds.

The government thinks that the best way to solve a low-price problem. Some may starve—but that is part of the game.

Here, thus far, the government decides that the best thing to do about cotton farmers is to do nothing. That also works, sometimes.

CLERGYMEN protest 'against the abbreviation "Xmas," which reduces the name of Christ to "X."

The abbreviation is disrespected to the most beautiful word in history, and it is disrespectful to the English language. Anybody in too much of a hurry to write out "Christmas" should not use the word.

OSMAN DIGNA, called "Osman the ugly," is dead in Cairo, aged 90. Forty years ago he was leading a "holy war" against the British started by the Mahdi, in the Sudan. That war was a

POTION KILLS MRS. ERICSON, 29, DETROIT HOTEL GUEST

MOTHER IS DEAD

Woman Cabaret Singer, Was Married Twice.

Mrs. Gertrude Ericson, 29, formerly of Lisbon, is dead in Detroit, Mich., today as the result of swallowing poison. It has not been determined if the poison was taken accidentally or purposely.

J. E. Miller, her father, said she had been despondent since her mother died last March.

Faced Larceny Charge.

Mrs. Erickson was living with her husband, Carl, at a downtown Detroit hotel.

Mrs. Ericson was at liberty under $500 bond pending a hearing before Justice M. K. Zimerman, at Lisbon, on January 20, upon a charge of grand larceny filed by her sister, Mrs. Alice Bradbury, Lisbon, who charged that Mrs. Ericson had stolen her fur coat, valued at $175, a diamond ring worth $75 and $20 in money upon a recent visit to her father's home.

When arraigned, she pleaded not guilty. She was defended by Attorney C. C. Connell, while Attorney Walter Beck represented Mrs. Bradbury.

Mrs. Ericson went to Detroit early this week after being discharged from the Central clinic at Salem, where she was admitted last Saturday afternoon after taking an overdose of sleeping tablets.

Found Unconscious.

Mrs. Ericson was found unconscious on a bed in her room by her father, who had been visiting in Detroit.

Mrs. Ericson resided in the Lisbon district until about two years ago when she went to Detroit to live with her husband, a garage owner. In Detroit the woman, it is claimed, has been working as a cabaret singer and dancer.

Ericson is her second husband, her first spouse having been divorced. She was married for the first time when she was 16 years of age, friends say.

SCOUT JAMBOREE NEXT TUESDAY

The Columbiana County Boy Scout jamboree, which was to have been held at Lisbon last night, has been postponed until next Tuesday evening. The affair will be held in the Rolloway Rink, beginning at 8 o'clock.

Eight troops, representing, all major cities and towns in the county, will take part in the tournament for the silver cup, now held by one of the Leetonia troops. Charles Felton, acting county executive, will have charge of the various events.

Appellate Court May Rule Monday On Anderson Trial

Decision Also Expected Next Week at Steubenville in First Ouster Fight Against Wellsville Police Chief.

Decision in the appealed cases of George Anderson, former East Liverpool automobile salesman, seeking a third trial on a charge of slaying Frank McLain, taxi-cab driver, on October 7, last, may be handed down when the appellate court meets at Steubenville Monday.

Ruling, too, is expected in the city of Wellsville's first ouster suit against Chief of Police John H. Fultz, who was installed by the Columbiana county common pleas court, but suspended for second time this week on new charges.

Papers Go to Steubenville.

Papers in the Anderson and Fultz cases have been forwarded to Steubenville, Judge Louis T. Farr, of Lisbon, said today.

"Just as soon as we finish the Jefferson county docket we intend to get down to the consideration of the appealed cases left over from Columbiana county," said the jurist. "We

BENEDUM PUTS BAN ON FIVE POOL ROOMS AS RAID PENALTY

Four Licenses are Suspended for Five Days.

ONE-10-DAY RULE

Four five-day and one 10-day suspensions in the license of five pool rooms were imposed by Mayor Ralph Benedum today as an aftermath of a police raid last Wednesday afternoon in which seven men, charged with gambling in connection with having punch boards in their possession, were arrested and fined.

The Liberty pool room, Market street, operated by John McLaughlin and Thomas McDonough, was closed for 10 days, while William Kane, operator of a room in Mulberry street, East End, Chris Anas, operator of the National pool room in East Sixth stret and James Kapotas, owner of the Unique pool room in Sixth street and the Academy pool room in Sixth street, were ordered to suspend business for five days. The order does not affect cigar counters, lunch or refreshments stands which are operated in connection with the rooms.

The suspension orders, which became effective at noon today were served by Captain Conley and Desk Sergeant George Toland this morning.

Second Offenses.

According to the police, the arrests were the second offenses for the operators of the Liberty pool room, Kane and Anas. Kapotas, police say, has been arrested and fined for three gambling offenses at the Unique pool room and for two offenses at the Academy establishment.

McDonough and McLaughlin, police claim, were operating a punch board known as "The California Gold Mine," offering cash prizes. Boards in the

LAY NEW WELLS SCHOOL STONE

Impressive Ceremonies Held on Newell Site.

Cornerstone of the new $105,000 Wells high and elementary school, Newell, was laid this afternoon with impressive ceremonies in charge of Dr ing the grand master of the West Virginia lodge of Masons, assisted by W. T. Morris, of Wheeling, represent- members of Chester lodge, No. 142, A. F. and A. M.

Rev. F. H. Magill, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, Wellsville, made an address.

The ceremonies were attended by County Superintendent of Schools H. O. Miller, of Pughtown, members of the Grant district board of education, citizens of the school district and a delegation of Masons.

Documents containing a history of the school district, a copy of the Review-Tribune and other articles were placed in the box under the stone.

J. H. FULTZ DECLARES HE IS ON WELLSVILLE JOB DESPITE OUSTER

Suspended Department Head Plans to Confer With Attorneys Preparatory to Demanding Civil Service Hearing on Mayor W. L. Fogo's Charges of Unbecoming Conduct, Disrespect and Disobedience.

EXECUTIVE, ACTING AS FORCE LEADER, ISSUES ORDERS TO HIS PATROLMEN

Accused Officer Announces That, Complying With Instructions of His Attorneys, He Will Report Regularly at City Hall and Direct Operations of Law Enforcement Branch of Government.

Asserting that John H. Fultz, suspended chief of police, has no further authority in the direction of law enforcement affairs, as a result of his suspension, Mayor W. L. Fogo, of Wellsville, last night backed members of the police department in their refusal to accept instructions from the deposed officer.

In conformity with this announcement that he was still on the job as chief of police, despite the mayor's order of suspension and the filing of charges of conduct unbecoming an officer, disrespect to a superior officer and disobedience, Fultz, it is said, last night conferred with Patrolman John Cole and the latter, together with Patrolman Edward Pugh, asserted that in order to avoid complications, they felt they could accept instructions only from the mayor.

Action of the patrolmen was approved by the Wellsville executive in his declaration that the suspended chief was without authority to act in behalf of the city.

Conference With Attorneys.

In spite of this fact, however, Fultz today asserted he would report regularly at the city hall for duty, upon advice of his attorneys.

The suspended officer said that he had taken no definite action in respect to appealing his case to the Wellsville Civil Service commission but added that he would confer this afternoon, probably, with his attorneys, W. A. O'Grady, of Wellsville, and Ben L. Bennett and Frank E. Grosshans, of East Liverpool. At that time, he said, it is possible that his course of action will be mapped out.

In the meantime, Mayor Fogo said that he will issue instructions to patrolmen.

Conductor Halts Crack Train When Engineer is Hurt

ALTOONA, Pa., Dec. 11.—The lives of scores of passengers were imperilled when Engineer R. E. Crum, 57, was fatally injured in leaning from the cab window as the crack Pennsylvania passenger train, known as the "Red Arrow," arrived here during the night. An examination today showed the engineer's skull was fractured when his head struck a baggage car on an adjoining track.

When the train did not stop at a point near here the conductor, using the emergency brake, brought it to a halt. Crum died in a local hospital half an hour later.

$1,000,000 FIRE HITS SILK MILLS

PATERSON, N. J., Dec. 11. — Fire early today destroyed the Van Kirk silk mills here with an estimated loss of more than $1,000,000. Origin of the blaze was not known, but because of several explosions during the fire an investigation was started.

A limited number of Mrs. Thurn's Cook Books are still on sale at The Review-Tribune.

J. C. NICHOLLS AGED 87, DIES

Funeral of War Vet Here Tuesday Afternoon.

James C. Nicholls, 87, Civil war veteran, former resident of East Liverpool and Chester, died today in the home of his daughter, Mrs. Ella Baker, Cleveland, after a long illness.

Mr. Nicholls, who was born at Wellsburg, served in the Civil war as a member of the First West Virginia Volunteer infantry. He was a member of General Lyon post, No. 46, G. A. R., and First Christian church, Chester, and was the oldest member of Stratton circle, Protected Home Circle.

He is survived by one son and seven daughters: Robert, Niles; Mrs. Ella Baker, Mrs. Laura Reed and Mrs. Pearl Schendel, all of Cleveland; Mrs. Harriet Bingham, Sperry, Okla.; Mrs. Blanche Adams, Yonkers, N. Y., and Mrs. Maude Logan, East Liverpool. He is also survived by 11 grandchildren and five great-grandchildren. His wife died six years ago.

Funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon in the home of his daughter, Mrs. Harry Logan, Fourth and Jefferson streets, in charge of Rev. A. E. Sims, pastor of the Chester Christian church, assisted by Rev. Frank G. Fowler, D. D., pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal church. Burial will be made in Riverview cemetery.

Friends may view the body Monday night.

Fire Destroys Gallon Home.

MARION, Dec. 11.—Fire early today completely destroyed the farm home of C. J. Fichhorn, west of Galion. The loss is placed at $5,000.

WITH OPINION DIVIDED, CHESTER AWAITS VOTE TUESDAY ON PROPOSED $60,000 BOND ISSUE FOR HIGH SCHOOL IMPROVEMENTS

With opinion seemingly divided, Chester electors today awaited the battle of ballots next Tuesday on a proposed $60,000 bond issue for school improvements.

Highlights today of the fight, in which interest is at fever heat, were Mayor Frank Riley's issuance of a proclamation, which endorses the proposal; an appeal from the board of education urging support of the plan, and a statement, signed "Committee of Citizens," calling for rejection of the issue.

The mayor's appeal pointed out that one of the important features of the school system is the department of athletics. He said that Chester is without a place to play basketball, thus in his opinion depriving girls and boys of the physical and moral benefits resulting from a properly directed training in this branch of athletics. He also said this lack of facilities also causes a break in the systematic training of boys whose work started at the beginning of the school term with football.

Riley also declared that if the bond issue were approved a suitable building will be provided for athletic sports and for use of the general public, and which could be used as an assembly room for students.

The mayor concludes his statement by saying :"Our schools cannot continue to progress unless the bond issue to be voted upon next Tuesday is approved, and acting as mayor of the city of Chester this bond issue meets with my most hearty endorsement and approval as being worthy of support."

The statement of a "committee of citizens" charged that the bond issue, including interest, will cost approximately $125,000 and will exhaust the school district's borrowing capacity. The claim is also set forth that the board of education has no authority to fix the 1927 tax levy at this time, but that it should be set in July, 1927.

The opponents of the proposal also urged home renters to vote against the issue on the ground that its approval will result in increased rents. Voters are advised "not to sacrifice necessities for the grade pupils in order to provide luxuries for high school athletics."

The board of education, in a letter to electors, appealed for approval of the issue, declaring that the proposed $60,000 means only 14 cents per year upon each $100 valuation, covering a period of 25 years, or the life of the bonds. The board also pointed out that if lavatories costing $6,500 were installed in one year it would mean a levy of 17½ cents per $100 valuation, while other necessary repairs listed would still be undone, whereas a levy of 14 cents for the proposed issue would make all repairs in addition to providing an assembly room.

Following are the figures of board on the tax of 1926 which has been paid and the levy for 1927 if the issue is approved, the 1926 tax appearing in the first colum and the 1927 in the second:

BENEDUM PUTS BAN ON FIVE POOL ROOMS AS RAID PENALTY

Four Licenses are Suspended for Five Days.

ONE-10-DAY RULE

Four five-day and one 10-day suspensions in the license of five pool rooms were imposed by Mayor Ralph Benedum today as an aftermath of a police raid last Wednesday afternoon in which seven men, charged with gambling in connection with having punch boards in their possession, were arrested and fined.

The Liberty pool room, Market street, operated by John McLaughlin and Thomas McDonough, was closed for 10 days, while William Kane, operator of a room in Mulberry street, East End, Chris Anas, operator of the National pool room in East Sixth stret and James Kapotas, owner of the Unique pool room in Sixth street and the Academy [illegible] street, were ordered to suspend business for five days. The order does not affect cigar counters, lunch or refreshments stands which are operated in connection with the rooms.

The suspension orders, which became effective at noon today were served by Captain Conley and Desk Sergeant George Toland this morning.

J. H. FULTZ DECLARES HE IS ON WELLSVILLE JOB DESPITE OUSTER

EXECUTIVE, ACTING AS FORCE LEADER, ISSUES ORDERS TO HIS PATROLMEN

Accused Officer Announces That, Complying With Instructions of His Attorneys, He Will Report Regularly at City Hall and Direct Operations of Law Enforcement Branch of Government.

Asserting that John H. Fultz, suspended chief of police, has no further authority in the direction of law enforcement affairs, as a result of his suspension, Mayor W. L. Fogo, of Wellsville, last night backed members of the police department in their refusal to accept instructions from the deposed officer.

In conformity with this announcement that he was still on the job as chief of police, despite the mayor's order of suspension and the filing of charges of conduct unbecoming an officer, disrespect to a superior officer and disobedience, Fultz, it is said, last night conferred with Patrolman John Cole and the latter, together with Patrolman Edward Pugh, asserted that in order to avoid complications, they felt they could accept instructions only from the mayor.

Action of the patrolmen was approved by the Wellsville executive in his declaration that the suspended chief was without authority to act in behalf of the city.

Conference With Attorneys.

In spite of this fact, however, Fultz today asserted he would report regularly at the city hall for duty, upon advice of his attorneys.

The suspended officer said that he had taken no definite action in respect to appealing his case to the Wellsville Civil Service commission but added that he would confer this afternoon, probably, with his attorneys, W. A. O'Grady, of Wellsville, and Ben L. Bennett and Frank E. Grosshans, of East Liverpool. At that time, he said, it is possible that his course of action will be mapped out.

In the meantime, Mayor Fogo said that he will issue instructions to patrolmen.

Mr. Nicholls, who was born at Wellsburg, served in the Civil war as a member of the First West Virginia Volunteer infantry. He was a member of General Lyon post, No. 46, G. A. R., and First Christian church, Chester, and was the oldest member of Stratton circle, Protected Home Circle.

He is survived by one son and seven daughters: Robert, Niles; Mrs. Ella Baker, Mrs. Laura Reed and Mrs. Pearl Schendel, all of Cleveland; Mrs. Harriet Bingham, Sperry, Okla.; Mrs. Blanche Adams, Yonkers, N. Y., and Mrs. Maude Logan, East Liverpool. He is also survived by 11 grandchildren and five great-grandchildren. His wife died six years ago.

Funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon in the home of his daughter, Mrs. Harry Logan, Fourth and Jefferson streets, in charge of Rev. A. E. Sims, pastor of the Chester Christian church, assisted by Rev. Frank G. Fowler, D. D., pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal church. Burial will be made in Riverview cemetery.

Friends may view the body Monday night.

WITH OPINION DIVIDED, CHESTER AWAITS VOTE TUESDAY ON PROPOSED $60,000 BOND ISSUE FOR HIGH SCHOOL IMPROVEMENTS

With opinion seemingly divided, Chester electors today awaited the battle of ballots next Tuesday on a proposed $60,000 bond issue for school improvements.

Highlights today of the fight, in which interest is at fever heat, were Mayor Frank Riley's issuance of a proclamation, which endorses the proposal; an appeal from the board of education urging support of the plan, and a statement, signed "Committee of Citizens," calling for rejection of the issue.

The mayor's appeal pointed out that one of the important features of the school system is the department of athletics. He said that Chester is without a place to play basketball, thus in his opinion depriving girls and boys of the physical and moral benefits resulting from a properly directed training in this branch of athletics. He also said this lack of facilities also causes a break in the systematic training of boys whose work started at the beginning of the school term with football.

Riley also declared that if the bond issue were approved a suitable building will be provided for athletic sports and for use of the general public, and which could be used as an assembly room for students.

The mayor concludes his statement by saying :"Our schools cannot continue to progress unless the bond issue to be voted upon next Tuesday is approved, and acting as mayor of the city of Chester this bond issue meets with my most hearty endorsement and approval as being worthy of support."

The statement of a "committee of citizens" charged that the bond issue, including interest, will cost approximately $125,000 and will exhaust the school district's borrowing capacity. The claim is also set forth that the board of education has no authority to fix the 1927 tax levy at this time, but that it should be set in July, 1927.

The opponents of the proposal also urged home renters to vote against the issue on the ground that its approval will result in increased rents. Voters are advised "not to sacrifice necessities for the grade pupils in order to provide luxuries for high school athletics."

The board of education, in a letter to electors, appealed for approval of the issue, declaring that the proposed $60,000 means only 14 cents per year upon each $100 valuation, covering a period of 25 years, or the life of the bonds. The board also pointed out that if lavatories costing $6,500 were installed in one year it would mean a levy of 17½ cents per $100 valuation, while other necessary repairs listed would still be undone, whereas a levy of 14 cents for the proposed issue would make all repairs in addition to providing an assembly room.

Following are the figures of board on the tax of 1926 which has been paid and the levy for 1927 if the issue is approved, the 1926 tax appearing in the first colum and the 1927 in the second:

Juvenile Bible Study

One question for each day is provided. The parent will find it interesting and helpful to have the child take up the question each day and aid it in finding the answer in the Scriptures, thus developing a knowledge of the Bible and where to find in it the things decided. Send or bring the little folks to the class Sunday at 1:45 p. m. The "Ceramic Cafeteria Auditorium." 121 West Fifth Street.

507. In Matthew 25:41, it is stated that the goat class are to go away "into everlasting fire prepared for the devil and his angels." What will Christ do with the devil?

Answer: He will destroy him. Fire is a symbol of destruction. See Hebrews 2:14, where it says that Christ is to "destroy him that hath the power of death, that is, the devil."

508. Is there any other Scripture which shows that the devil is to be destroyed utterly?

Answer: Yes. In Ezekiel 28:13-19, the Prophet is telling of the fall of Satan into sin, and in the 19th verse he says: "And never shalt thou be any more."

509. If the devil is to be destroyed what is meant by "everlasting fire prepared for the devil and his angels" (Matthew 25:41)?

Answer: "Everlasting fire" would mean everlasting destruction. We put rubbish and other things that are no good into the fire to destroy them.

510. In what language was the Old Testament written?

Answer: The Hebrew language.

511. What Hebrew word was translated hell thirty-one times in the Old Testament?

Answer: Sheol.

512. How else was sheol translated?

Answer: It was also translated thirty-one times grave and three times pit.

513. What is the meaning of the Hebrew word sheol?

Answer: The unseen state or condition.

Juvenile Bible Study

One question for each day is provided. The parent will find it interesting and helpful to have the child take up the question each day and aid it in finding the answer in the Scriptures, thus developing a knowledge of the Bible and where to find in it the things decided. Send or bring the little folks to the class Sunday at 1:45 p. m. The "Ceramic Cafeteria Auditorium," 121 West Fifth Street.

507. In Matthew 25:41, it is stated that the goat class are to go away "into everlasting fire prepared for the devil and his angels." What will Christ do with the devil?

Answer: He will destroy him. Fire is a symbol of destruction. See Hebrews 2:14, where it says that Christ is to "destroy him that hath the power of death, that is, the devil."

508. Is there any other Scripture which shows that the devil is to be destroyed utterly?

Answer: Yes. In Ezekiel 28:13-19, the Prophet is telling of the fall of Satan into sin, and in the 19th verse he says: "And never shalt thou be any more."

509. If the devil is to be destroyed what is meant by "everlasting fire prepared for the devil and his angels" (Matthew 25:41)?

Answer: "Everlasting fire" would mean everlasting destruction. We put rubbish and other things that are no good into the fire to destroy them.

510. In what language was the Old Testament written?

Answer: The Hebrew language.

511. What Hebrew word was translated hell thirty-one times in the Old Testament?

Answer: Sheol.

512. How else was sheol translated?

Answer: It was also translated thirty-one times grave and three times pit.

513. What is the meaning of the Hebrew word sheol?

Answer: The unseen state or condition.

CHAPTER TWENTY-THREE.

Sadie felt she wasn't putting it very clearly. But Julian surprisingly read her thought and turned squarely on her.

"Hester doesn't love that boy," he said brusquely. The tone of his voice thrilled her. If he'd only talked like that to Joe!

"No, in a way, of course, she doesn't.' '

How wonderfully he put things! Sometimes. When he was stirred like this . . . . She nodded, sobered and a little awed. "Yes," she said, "that's it."

The word "fun" came out with a curious force from that tense, white face. But he was right. Once again that elusive mind had swooped down from its clouds upon the perfect, the precis eword.

"I've been thinking pretty fast, Sadie," he went on. "Shaping a course. I've been wrong. All wrong. How could a girl like that love me, the way I've acted? I know now what I can do. It came to me while I was walking out here. All at once, the way my real ideas always come. Oh I felt the sure urge of it this noon, down there at the filling station, while I was talking with her. I knew I was going to do it, but the idea didn't clear up until just now. It's like being struck by lightning." She

"She doesn't love that boy," he said brusquely.

There was conviction in his voice. It was exciting. She couldn't take her wide eyes from his.

"I know exactly what I'm going to do. Begin now." He seemed to be talking to himself. She couldn't catch it all. With a start that made her jump, he threw open the door of the car, and leaping out rushed around behind it. Burning with curiosity, she slid along behind the wheel and followed. He was trying to open that rear compartment where all those bundles of letters were. Then he remembered that it was locked, and rushed back to get the key from the ignition switch. He was in a glow. "He doesn't know I'm here," thought Sadie mournfully.

He had the lid up now and was fumbling in there, tossing things about. Timidly her hand found his arm, but he didn't turn.

"Julian, dear,"—it was the eternal woman in her speaking, the mother—"I can't help worrying about all those letters. I just know you haven't answered one of them."

He looked up now, and that bright face clouded. "But, Sadie, I can't be bothered with those things now! .. . ." He was deep in the compartment, head first. In a moment he emerged with a black leather case. It had a battered look and was worn at the corners. She stared at it. Could it be a typewriter?

"I'm going," he said, and swallowed . . .. . he was again radiant, wonderful, "I am going to write her a play."

Sadie stepped back. Her knees sagged. Her mouth opened, but for a moment no sound came. The thing was heartbreaking. He'd be wrong to the last.

"But Julian, a play will take weeks . . . months. . . ."

He didn't hear her. "I can see it as plainly as if I were sitting in the theater. You don't know, Sadie!. .. . wistful, exquisite little figure a rose in a boiler factory. I'll call it .. . . yes, I'll call it 'Cobweb'! You remember what we were saying. Cobweb parties. Every life a thread in a tangle. All mixed up. Yes, that's the title. The whole thing must have a delicate shimmer about it, like a cobweb in the sun. Like her voice. Fragile. Wistful. Oh, Sadie, can't you see it?"

But here he had touched the one world she knew . . . . hostile managers with actual bars and even locked iron screens across the doors of their offices . . . delay, intrigue, blind chance, and again delays! . .. . hardboiled Broadway . . .. and that ingratiating boy at Hester's side every waking moment. "A fast worker, too," she thought.

"I wonder if any Broadway manager would give her a part like that!" said she. He was lugging that absurd machine around to the seat. She had to follow. Apparently, he was going to begin at once, right there in the machine, ten feet away from a cement sidewalk, and automobiles rolling by just beyond that. He didn't know where he was or care. . . . And then, leaning against the door, she added, raising her voice a little. "It's pretty hard to get a play produced nowadays, I'm afraid."

That sort of talk wouldn't do much good. Not with this wonderful madman. He didn't get it; merely gave her a happy smile that to her bewildered mind touched pure pathos.

"I had to find myself,' he was saying. "I had to. I've been pretty confused. You don't know. I had to find reality first. You know, something to hold to. Well, I found it in Hester. And now, at last. I've found the way t owork it out. My feet are on the earth at last." He had the machine out now, beside him on the seat. From a thin drawer at the bottom of the case he drew out paper and a carbon sheet. He was going to start right in. "You don't mind?" he asked gently.

It was a dismissal. She walked slowly away.

"He won't have me," she said to herself as she walked, "and he'll never, never get Hester. Never! . . . Sadie Hartnett, you're sunk."

She went into the tent and stretched out on her cot. The rehearsal was over. Some of the boys were lying about on the stage, but there was nobody in the tent to trouble her. Hester must have wandered off again with the symbol.

The fury was fairly on him. He was seen, during the course of the evening, pecking intently at that little typewriter, with his trouble light suspended by its twisted cord from the top of the car. He never knew that curious persons gathered at times on the sidewalk. It was an hour or more after the chill of evening reached his spare bones before he thought to put on his overcoat; and even then he got hastily into it, leaving the collar up on one side. When spoken to, he answered readily enough, but with the faraway smile of the eagerly creative spirit who needs only the smallest encouragement to read it all aloud, taking for granted a sympathetic audience.

Jim, short-handed backstage, spoke once to him. Julian replied and then utterly forgot. Jim gave him up as hopeless. After the performance, when the curious audience swarmed back to inspect the ingeniously compact stage truck, the draperies, cyclorama and lighting apapratus, he was aware of them only as he might hve been aware of flies or mosquitoes. The troupe had arranged to step over to a lunch room for a snack, and waited a few minutes. To Jim's question he replied, "I'll be along in a minute. Tell them not to wait." Then, as the stage manager turned to go, he added—he couldn't help telling—"I'm writing a play. For Hester. The title is 'Cobweb.' " And grinned nervously but happily.

Jim soberly considered this. So that was going to be the trouble! He might have known there would be a catch somewhere about this crazy generosity. And as he walked off he groaned softly. This appallingly naive young Maecenas would confidently expect them to put the play on of course. Just one more problem to handle. There was a chance that he might not get it finished. Amateurs seldom did. No good in shouldering that worry yet. But he didn't appear at the restaurant. An hour later, when they returned, he was still mercilessly at it. They went to bed. None of those in the men's tent knew when he crept in to his cot. He was there in the morning, sleeping heavily. Jim let him sleep on during the breakfast hour, but at picking up time had to awaken him. He was apologetic then, but still with that look of exaltation in his eyes.

She's wanted it so long

Long ago she probably expressed, at least to herself, a wish for a Hoover to take from her shoulders the wearisome toil of household cleaning. Yet she goes uncomplainingly ahead, taking upon herself the too-heavy burden, rather than ask you for this aid that should be there.

Now—this Christmas end her housecleaning toil forever! Call up now, and have us set aside one of the new Hoovers. They are remarkable in the greater cleaning efficiency which Positive Agitation has given. They remove, in ordinary cleaning time, 131% more dirt than any previous model.

The gift of the finest, the most efficient cleaner obtainable will be a source of pleasure to you and a joy to her. As for the cost—you can pay in small amounts, if need be. We'll give you full details when you phone, and deliver the Hoover any day you say. Only $6.25 down, complete with dusting tools.

The ENTERTAINING ANGEL

CHAPTER TWENTY-THREE.

Sadie felt she wasn't putting it very clearly. But Julian surprisingly read her thought and turned squarely on her.

"Hester doesn't love that boy," he said brusquely. The tone of his voice thrilled her. If he'd only talked like that to Joe!

"No, in a way, of course, she doesn't.' '

How wonderfully he put things! Sometimes. When he was stirred like this . . . . She nodded, sobered and a little awed. "Yes," she said, "that's it."

The word "fun" came out with a curious force from that tense, white face. But he was right. Once again that elusive mind had swooped down from its clouds upon the perfect, the precis eword.

"I've been thinking pretty fast, Sadie," he went on. "Shaping a course. I've been wrong. All wrong. How could a girl like that love me, the way I've acted? I know now what I can do. It came to me while I was walking out here. All at once, the way my real ideas always come. Oh I felt the sure urge of it this noon, down there at the filling station, while I was talking with her. I knew I was going to do it, but the idea didn't clear up until just now. It's like being struck by lightning." She

"She doesn't love that boy," he said brusquely.

There was conviction in his voice. It was exciting. She couldn't take her wide eyes from his.

"I know exactly what I'm going to do. Begin now." He seemed to be talking to himself. She couldn't catch it all. With a start that made her jump, he threw open the door of the car, and leaping out rushed around behind it. Burning with curiosity, she slid along behind the wheel and followed. He was trying to open that rear compartment where all those bundles of letters were. Then he remembered that it was locked, and rushed back to get the key from the ignition switch. He was in a glow. "He doesn't know I'm here," thought Sadie mournfully.

He had the lid up now and was fumbling in there, tossing things about. Timidly her hand found his arm, but he didn't turn.

"Julian, dear,"—it was the eternal woman in her speaking, the mother—"I can't help worrying about all those letters. I just know you haven't answered one of them."

He looked up now, and that bright face clouded. "But, Sadie, I can't be bothered with those things now! . . . ." He was deep in the compartment, head first. In a moment he emerged with a black leather case. It had a battered look and was worn at the corners. She stared at it. Could it be a typewriter?

"I'm going," he said, and swallowed . . . . he was again radiant, wonderful, "I am going to write her a play."

Sadie stepped back. Her knees sagged. Her mouth opened, but for a moment no sound came. The thing was heartbreaking. He'd be wrong to the last.

"But Julian, a play will take weeks . . . months. . . ."

He didn't hear her. "I can see it as plainly as if I were sitting in the theater. You don't know, Sadie!. . . . wistful, exquisite little figure a rose in a boiler factory. I'll call it .. . . yes, I'll call it 'Cobweb'! You remember what we were saying. Cobweb parties. Every life a thread in a tangle. All mixed up. Yes, that's the title. The whole thing must have a delicate shimmer about it, like a cobweb in the sun. Like her voice. Fragile. Wistful. Oh, Sadie, can't you see it?"

But here he had touched the one world she knew . . . . hostile managers with actual bars and even locked iron screens across the doors of their offices . . . delay, intrigue, blind chance, and again delays! . . . . hardboiled Broadway . . . . and that ingratiating boy at Hester's side every waking moment. "A fast worker, too," she thought.

"I wonder if any Broadway manager would give her a part like that!" said she. He was lugging that absurd machine around to the seat. She had to follow. Apparently, he was going to begin at once, right there in the machine, ten feet away from a cement sidewalk, and automobiles rolling by just beyond that. He didn't know where he was or care. . . . And then, leaning against the door, she added, raising her voice a little. "It's pretty hard to get a play produced nowadays, I'm afraid."

That sort of talk wouldn't do much good. Not with this wonderful madman. He didn't get it; merely gave her a happy smile that to her bewildered mind touched pure pathos.

"I had to find myself,' he was saying. "I had to. I've been pretty confused. You don't know. I had to find reality first. You know, something to hold to. Well, I found it in Hester. And now, at last. I've found the way t owork it out. My feet are on the earth at last." He had the machine out now, beside him on the seat. From a thin drawer at the bottom of the case he drew out paper and a carbon sheet. He was going to start right in. "You don't mind?" he asked gently.

It was a dismissal. She walked slowly away.

"He won't have me," she said to herself as she walked, "and he'll never, never get Hester. Never! . . . Sadie Hartnett, you're sunk."

She went into the tent and stretched out on her cot. The rehearsal was over. Some of the boys were lying about on the stage, but there was nobody in the tent to trouble her. Hester must have wandered off again with the symbol.

The fury was fairly on him. He was seen, during the course of the evening, pecking intently at that little typewriter, with his trouble light suspended by its twisted cord from the top of the car. He never knew that curious persons gathered at times on the sidewalk. It was an hour or more after the chill of evening reached his spare bones before he thought to put on his overcoat; and even then he got hastily into it, leaving the collar up on one side. When spoken to, he answered readily enough, but with the faraway smile of the eagerly creative spirit who needs only the smallest encouragement to read it all aloud, taking for granted a sympathetic audience.

Jim, short-handed backstage, spoke once to him. Julian replied and then utterly forgot. Jim gave him up as hopeless. After the performance, when the curious audience swarmed back to inspect the ingeniously compact stage truck, the draperies, cyclorama and lighting apapratus, he was aware of them only as he might hve been aware of flies or mosquitoes. The troupe had arranged to step over to a lunch room for a snack, and waited a few minutes. To Jim's question he replied, "I'll be along in a minute. Tell them not to wait." Then, as the stage manager turned to go, he added—he couldn't help telling—"I'm writing a play. For Hester. The title is 'Cobweb.' " And grinned nervously but happily.

Jim soberly considered this. So that was going to be the trouble! He might have known there would be a catch somewhere about this crazy generosity. And as he walked off he groaned softly. This appallingly naive young Maecenas would confidently expect them to put the play on of course. Just one more problem to handle. There was a chance that he might not get it finished. Amateurs seldom did. No good in shouldering that worry yet. But he didn't appear at the restaurant. An hour later, when they returned, he was still mercilessly at it. They went to bed. None of those in the men's tent knew when he crept in to his cot. He was there in the morning, sleeping heavily. Jim let him sleep on during the breakfast hour, but at picking up time had to awaken him. He was apologetic then, but still with that look of exaltation in his eyes.

EAST LIVERPOOL—AMERICA'S POTTERY CENTER

Get Your 1927 Auto License

Ohio's 1927 automobile licenses are now available.

Press dispatches today from Columbus announced that Secretary of State Thad H. Brown's office had shipped the grey and black plates to deputy commissioners, with the result that they are on sale in many municipalities.

Probably today or Monday, the East Liverpool district's supply should arrive at the office of Deputy Commissioner J. S. Hilbert, and immediately thereafter he will accept applications for the new tags.

And while the state registration department has warned that persons using next year's plate before January 1 will be prosecuted the wise motorist will not defer filing his request for the new licenses, for a flood of applications during the latter part of December is inevitable.

If you want to use your automobile on New Year's Day, when the 1926 tags are outlawed, get your 1927 plates.

Flourishing Redskins

The American Indian, contrary to general opinion, is multiplying instead of dying out. Furthermore, he is getting richer instead of poorer.

According to Edgar B. Merritt, assistant U. S. Indian Commissioner, the 270,000 Indians in the United States in 1900 have now become 349,000, and the race is increasing at the rate of 1,500 a year.

As for their wealth, the redskins are said to be the richest race in the world. Including live stock, timber, oil holdings, etc., their property per capita is computed to be worth $4,700 against $2,500 for the average American.

For their racial up-turn, presumably the Indians are to be congratulated, although the lot of such a backward race, crowded back into odd corners and oppressed by a civilization it can hardly assimilate, is not enviable.

Their wealth need not be envied or coveted. It is little enough for a race that once owned this whole continent and all it contents.

Electrified Farms

So far, the electrification of farms has lagged, largely because the farmers have desired electric current only for lighting purposes. With the enlagement of their demands to include power use, and with the spread of super-power systems, Mr. Pack says it will be possible to extend service to the rural sections throughout the United States.

It would cost billions of dollars to provide such facilities. But the money could be obtained readily enough. There is no industry today which is making more rapid progress, and which seems sounder to invest in, than the electrical industry.

Electrifying the country as the city is already electrified would revolutionize agriculture. The farmer would not necessarily be able to plow with electricity. But along with ample lighting, which in itself would ease his labors and speed up his production, he would have power in clean, flexible form for many kinds of work now done awkwardly and expensively. As he used more current, he would get it much cheaper—so cheap that eventually he might be able to use it for heating as well as light and power.

That would transform the farm more than any kind of material progress has yet done, increasing farm efficiency, shortening farm labor and making farm life more pleasant.

A Wise Jester

It was taken as a jest, when Charles Millar, a wealthy Toronto citizen with a reputation as a practical joker, left a will bequeathing $1,500,000 to the Toronto mother who, in the 10 years following his death, should have given birth to the greatest number of children. People said it was his last and biggest joke.

Careful inquiry has substantiated the genuineness of the will and the apparently serious intent of the testator, and its terms will be carried out.

Wisely considered, the proceeding is very far from funny. Future generations may regard that gay bachelor sportsman a far-sighted patriot.

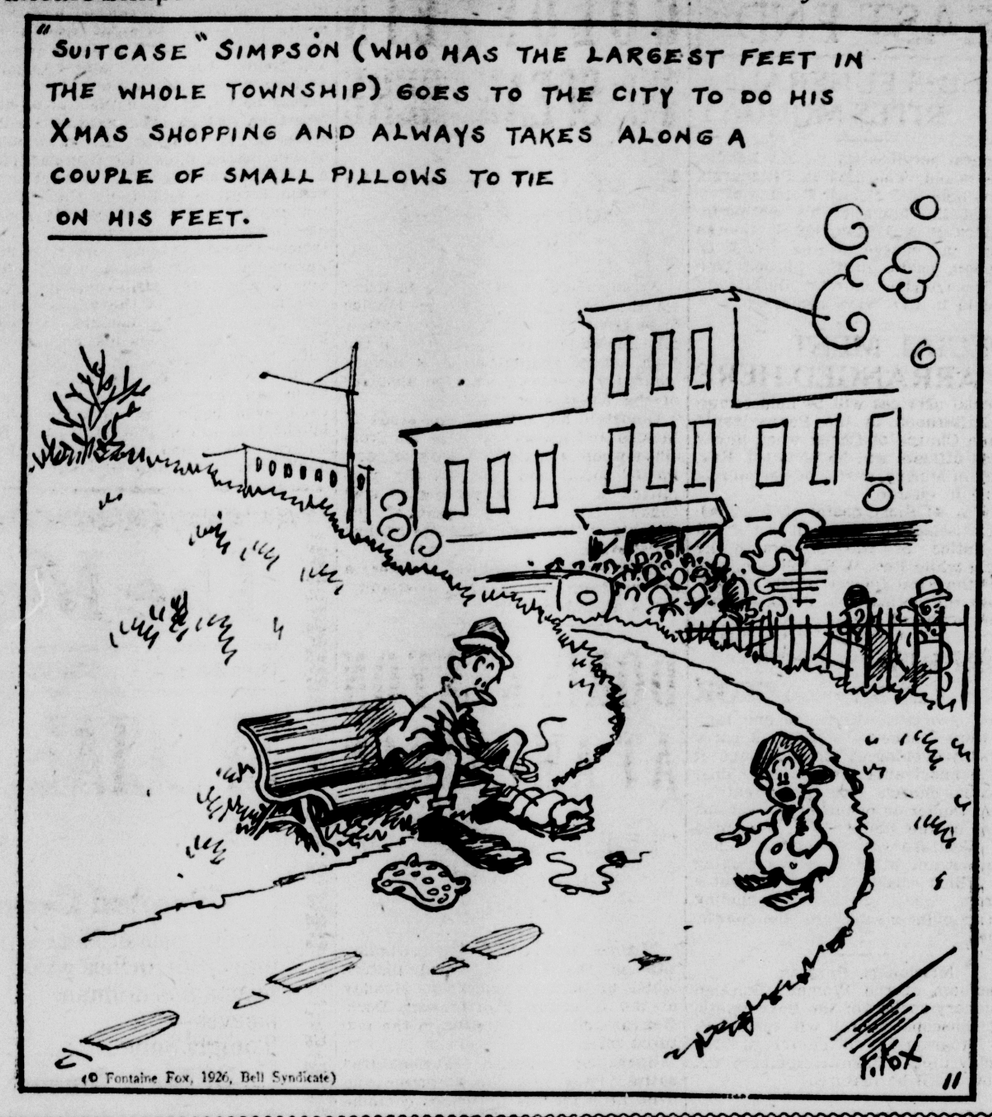

Canada might well follow the example, and offer big prizes in all the provinces for big families. It is population that makes national wealth, particularly in a new country like Canada. More rapid increase of population, if obtainable by the expenditure of millions, would produce billions.

Isn't it about time for a symposium on why women marry Charlie Chaplin?

Either Ferdinand is a royal fourflusher, or Marie is more of a wonderworker than she's been given credit for. She had to rush home because he was dying, and then he went and met her at the station.

My Favorite Stories
By IRVIN S. COBB

SAVING UP FOR THE BIG EVENT.

Malcolm McLeod, is as might be gathered from his name, a Scot. As he told the yarn to another man who in turn passed it along to me, there once lived in the town of Scotstown, Quebec, where Mr. McLeod was born, a citizen named Colin Campbell MacNabb, whose personality made him more than locally famous.

This Mr. MacNabb, while not exactly what the most kindly critic would call a finished, all-around athlete, nevertheless always entered as a contestant for each and every event at the annual Caledonian games on the remote chance tht he might capture one or two prizes of more value than the combined entrance fees, which totaled up to one dollar. On one occasion he manfully tossed the caber and ran in the distance races in the hope of coming out twenty-five cents ahead of his day's expenses; but in the mile race it was apparent to his most fervent admirers that he was not half trying. In fact, there were only eight runners and Colin Campbell MacNabb finished eighth.

"Run faster," he replied, "an' me resair'rving myself for the bagpipe competition!"

NEW YORK DAYBYDAY
By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Dec. 11.—Too many artists are going sad. They crack under the strane of fame. We read now and then of Charlie Chaplin roaming the Hollywood hills, like Banquo's ghost and lost in a travail of despair. A portrait painter has quit his Park avenue salon for an attic in Rue Copic.

Gloria Swanson has $20,000 a week and a Marquis and gazes down from a roof aerie on 57th street at the world sad-eyed and on the verge of tears. Her golden dream of success is suddenly realized and as suddenly freezes.

An author who topped the best selling list and was the life of every party—the little ray of sunshine in the darkened grills—turned moody and saw only hollow mockery in the gaiety he loved. He is now marooned in the Maine woods.

Even the irrepressible Michael Arlen who flashed out of wretched Armenia to dazzle the world and inspire men to gaudier weskits is reported sulking in Paris. He found the sweets of an unparallelled literary success mere wormwood.

Sinclair Lewis, as sunny as his flaming hair, is wearing a long face and hides in the forests several months a year. There are at least a dozen others who, having gone like a shot to dizzy triumphs, have taken to the hills.

It is all mystifying to those struggling up. What should they expect of life when those to whom it has offered so much find such disillusionment? It is not quite fair to say it is a pose. It is something far deeper.

Broadway is in reality just a name. To New Yorkers it encompasses the cafe, theatre and night club belt. The actual street is more or less fond memory. Only a few legitimate theatres are on it. The smartest cafes are often many blocks away. Two of the latest and biggest movie houses are not on the thoroughfare. Actually Brodway's real White Way is a lane of orange drink stands, florist shops, fudge counters, ticket agencies, haberdasheries, millinery shops, upstairs clothing parlors, chain drug stores and cafeterias, auction rooms and the like. There are only two hotels of importance in the brilliantly lighted district. Huge yap waggons hang with lanterns despoil its corners. Touts and tinhorn gamblers infest its curbs yet withal it sparkles with life and color. No matter how it changes with the years it will always be regarded sentimentally by New Yorkers as Broadway, the street that whips the universe.

I hastily add as a trade-last for Broadway that if there is a more inspiring sight than is to be seen looking northward from Times Square at 8 o'clock at night the most experienced globe trotters have never reported it. I have been watching it for 15 years and it continues to make the pulses leap.

In a few more years Broadway, many believe, is destined to become a street of small boxlike shops like those along the rue de Rivoli stretching from the Place de la Concorde to the Magazin du Louvre. Ground floors are being sliced into cubicles a block at a time. Three rents grow where one grew before. Windows flash with baubles that are not enduring but nevertheless beautiful. They are those worldly but fascinating trinkets known as "vanities." Salesmanship is done leisurely and with a studied courtesy. At midnight the biggest business seems to be done.

HASKIN'S LETTER
By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

A Notable Celebration.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11.—The Bureau of Standards, that wonder-working bureau of the Federal Government, has just celebrated its twenty-fifth anniversary. Just a quarter of a century ago this bureau, the activities of which are aiding not only the people of the United States, but those of other nations, had its humble beginning in an organization of fourteen employes. Their duties were performed in a few rooms in two buildings.

The staff now consists of some 850 employes housed in twenty-two buildings on a site of forty-three acres. In addition to the Washington plant there are now four branches of the Bureau located at Denver, San Francisco, Northampton, Pennsylvania, and Columbus, Ohio. Besides the regular staff of the Bureau, there are working there sixty-five research associates.

These researchers are sent by various industries having particular problems to solve. The solving of these problems is not intended to benefit any one firm, but is for the good of an entire industry. For instance, formerly the dry cleaning industry suffered a great loss through the evaporation of the gasoline used in cleaning, or because such gasoline was thrown away, it being too dirty to be used again. A representative was sent to the Bureau of Standards to work in cooperation with the experts there to try to evolve some method whereby this waste might be eliminated. Such a method was finally found and the recovery of this gasoline has saved millions of dollars.

The research associates work under the same rules and regulations as those on the regular government staff, but they are paid by the organizations which send them on this special work. It is explained that quite frequently it happens that a company may have a very complete laboratory in so far as its own particular industry is concerned. When study is begun, however, on some problem it is found that other fields are touched. It, therefore, is much more satisfactory to send a representative to the Bureau where he may avail himself of enormous laboratory facilities and the cooperation of government experts along many lines.

Many Tests Every Year.

The library contains 30,000 volumes and more than 700 periodicals. Where twenty-five years ago there were not over three divisions of work there are now eleven and these eleven are divided into sixty or more specialized

That would transform the farm more than any kind of material progress has yet done, increasing farm efficiency, shortening farm labor and making farm life more pleasant.

A Wise Jester

It was taken as a jest, when Charles Millar, a wealthy Toronto citizen with a reputation as a practical joker, left a will bequeathing $1,500,000 to the Toronto mother who, in the 10 years following his death, should have given birth to the greatest number of children. People said it was his last and biggest joke.

Careful inquiry has substantiated the genuineness of the will and the apparently serious intent of the testator, and its terms will be carried out.

Wisely considered, the proceeding is very far from funny. Future generations may regard that gay bachelor sportsman a far-sighted patriot.

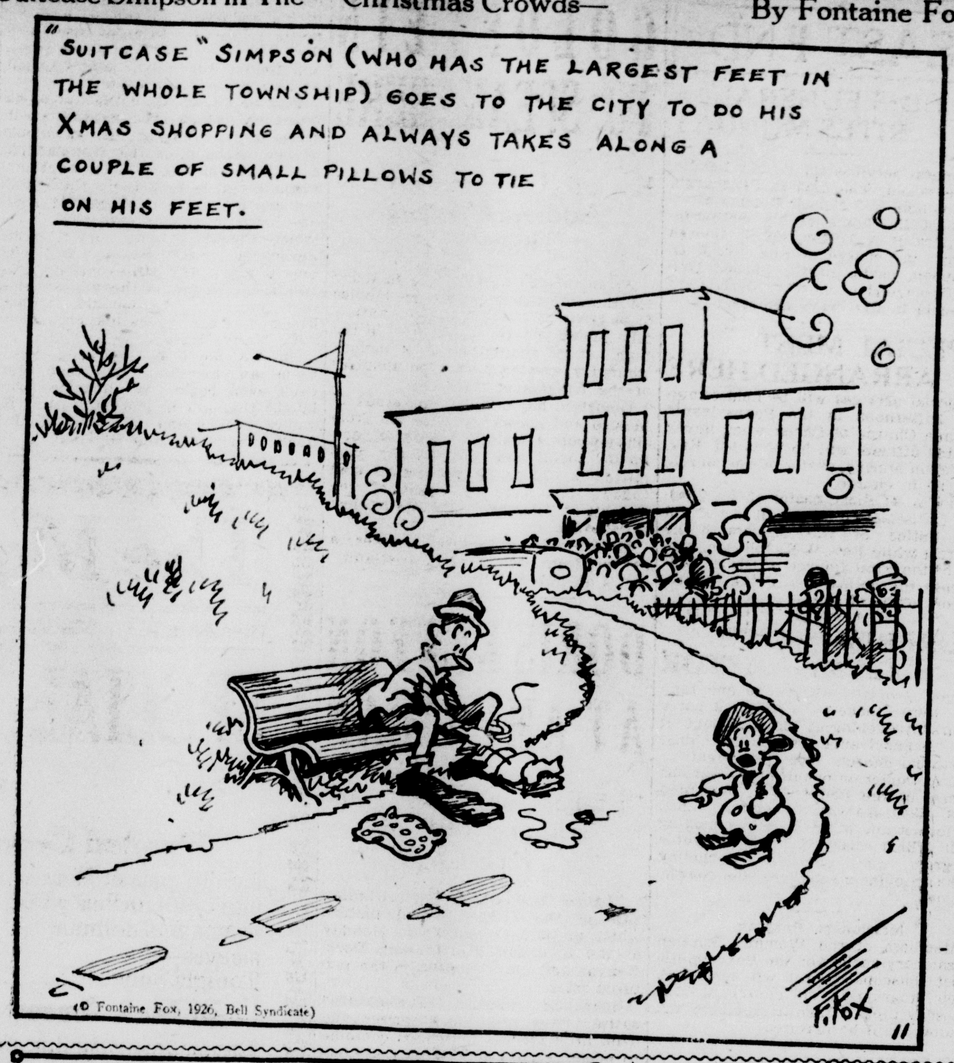

Canada might well follow the example, and offer big prizes in all the provinces for big families. It is population that makes national wealth, particularly in a new country like Canada. More rapid increase of population, if obtainable by the expenditure of millions, would produce billions.

Isn't it about time for a symposium on why women marry Charlie Chaplin?

Either Ferdinand is a royal fourflusher, or Marie is more of a wonderworker than she's been given credit for. She had to rush home because he was dying, and then he went and met her at the station.

SAVING UP FOR THE BIG EVENT.

Malcolm McLeod, is as might be gathered from his name, a Scot. As he told the yarn to another man who in turn passed it along to me, there once lived in the town of Scotstown, Quebec, where Mr. McLeod was born, a citizen named Colin Campbell MacNabb, whose personality made him more than locally famous.

This Mr. MacNabb, while not exactly what the most kindly critic would call a finished, all-around athlete, nevertheless always entered as a contestant for each and every event at the annual Caledonian games on the remote chance tht he might capture one or two prizes of more value than the combined entrance fees, which totaled up to one dollar. On one occasion he manfully tossed the caber and ran in the distance races in the hope of coming out twenty-five cents ahead of his day's expenses; but in the mile race it was apparent to his most fervent admirers that he was not half trying. In fact, there were only eight runners and Colin Campbell MacNabb finished eighth.

"Run faster," he replied, "an' me resair'rving myself for the bagpipe competition!"

NEW YORK DAYBYDAY
By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Dec. 11.—Too many artists are going sad. They crack under the strane of fame. We read now and then of Charlie Chaplin roaming the Hollywood hills, like Banquo's ghost and lost in a travail of despair. A portrait painter has quit his Park avenue salon for an attic in Rue Copic.

Gloria Swanson has $20,000 a week and a Marquis and gazes down from a roof aerie on 57th street at the world sad-eyed and on the verge of tears. Her golden dream of success is suddenly realized and as suddenly freezes.

An author who topped the best selling list and was the life of every party—the little ray of sunshine in the darkened grills—turned moody and saw only hollow mockery in the gaiety he loved. He is now marooned in the Maine woods.

Even the irrepressible Michael Arlen who flashed out of wretched Armenia to dazzle the world and inspire men to gaudier weskits is reported sulking in Paris. He found the sweets of an unparalleled literary success mere wormwood.

Sinclair Lewis, as sunny as his flaming hair, is wearing a long face and hides in the forests several months a year. There are at least a dozen others who, having gone like a shot to dizzy triumphs, have taken to the hills.

It is all mystifying to those struggling up. What should they expect of life when those to whom it has offered so much find such disillusionment? It is not quite fair to say it is a pose. It is something far deeper.

Broadway is in reality just a name. To New Yorkers it encompasses the cafe, theatre and night club belt. The actual street is more or less fond memory. Only a few legitimate theatres are on it. The smartest cafes are often many blocks away. Two of the latest and biggest movie houses are not on the thoroughfare. Actually Brodway's real White Way is a lane of orange drink stands, florist shops, fudge counters, ticket agencies, haberdasheries, millinery shops, upstairs clothing parlors, chain drug stores and cafeterias, auction rooms and the like. There are only two hotels of importance in the brilliantly lighted district. Huge yap waggons hung with lanterns despoil its corners. Touts and tinhorn gamblers infest its curbs yet withal it sparkles with life and color. No matter how it changes with the years it will always be regarded sentimentally by New Yorkers as Broadway, the street that whips the universe.

I hastily add as a trade-last for Broadway that if there is a more inspiring sight than is to be seen looking northward from Times Square at 8 o'clock at night the most experienced globe trotters have never reported it. I have been watching it for 15 years and it continues to make the pulses leap.

In a few more years Broadway, many believe, is destined to become a street of small boxlike shops like those along the rue de Rivoli stretching from the Place de la Concorde to the Magazin du Louvre. Ground floors are being sliced into cubicles a block at a time. Three rents grow where one grew before. Windows flash with baubles that are not enduring but nevertheless beautiful. They are those worldly but fascinating trinkets known as "vanities." Salesmanship is done leisurely and with a studied courtesy. At midnight the biggest business seems to be done.

HASKIN'S LETTER

A Notable Celebration.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11.—The Bureau of Standards, that wonder-working bureau of the Federal Government, has just celebrated its twenty-fifth anniversary. Just a quarter of a century ago this bureau, the activities of which are aiding not only the people of the United States, but those of other nations, had its humble beginning in an organization of fourteen employes. Their duties were performed in a few rooms in two buildings.

The staff now consists of some 850 employes housed in twenty-two buildings on a site of forty-three acres. In addition to the Washington plant there are now four branches of the Bureau located at Denver, San Francisco, Northampton, Pennsylvania, and Columbus, Ohio. Besides the regular staff of the Bureau, there are working there sixty-five research associates.

These researchers are sent by various industries having particular problems to solve. The solving of these problems is not intended to benefit any one firm, but is for the good of an entire industry. For instance, formerly the dry cleaning industry suffered a great loss through the evaporation of the gasoline used in cleaning, or because such gasoline was thrown away, it being too dirty to be used again. A representative was sent to the Bureau of Standards to work in cooperation with the experts there to try to evolve some method whereby this waste might be eliminated. Such a method was finally found and the recovery of this gasoline has saved millions of dollars.

The research associates work under the same rules and regulations as those on the regular government staff, but they are paid by the organizations which send them on this special work. It is explained that quite frequently it happens that a company may have a very complete laboratory in so far as its own particular industry is concerned. When study is begun, however, on some problem it is found that other fields are touched. It, therefore, is much more satisfactory to send a representative to the Bureau where he may avail himself of enormous laboratory facilities and the cooperation of government experts along many lines.

Many Tests Every Year.

The library contains 30,000 volumes and more than 700 periodicals. Where twenty-five years ago there were not over three divisions of work there are now eleven and these eleven are divided into sixty or more specialized

Feeling the Strain?

Overwork and Worry Tend to Overtax the System.

MODERN habits—overwork, worry, insufficient rest and exercise—all tend to overtax and slow up the bodily machinery. Good health requires good elimination. The kidneys filter the blood. Sluggish function, however, permits some retention of waste poisons. Such a "toxic condition" is inclined to make one languid and tired; there is sometimes toxic backache and headache. That the kidneys are not functioning properly is often shown by scanty or burning passages. Thousands recommend Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic in these conditions. Doan's act on the kidneys only. They are endorsed the country over. Ask your neighbor!

DORIS KENYON AT AMERICAN

"Ladies at Play" Intriguing Title of Picture.

"Ladies at Play" is the intriguing title of the First National picture which opens a three-day run Monday at the American theatre with Doris Kenyon and Lloyd Hughes in the featured roles.

Sparkling comedy, good-natured satire, thrills, suspense, surprises, and even little touches of pathos combine to make "Ladies at Play" a real comedy cocktail, and one that the whole family can see and enjoy.

Supporting the leading players are Philo McCollough, Louise Fazenda, Virginia Lee Corbin, Hallam Cooley, John Patrick and Ethel Wales, all in novel characterizations.

"Ladies at Play" was directed by Alfred E. Green under the production supervision of B. P. Fineman.

The story has to do with the inheritance by the heroine of six million dollars, on condition that she marry a man who meets with the approval of her two old-fashioned straight-laced spinster aunts.

"SO'S YOUR OLD MAN" BOOKED

W. C. Fields' Picture Comes to Ceramic Theatre.

The O. Henry Memorial Prize Short Story of 1925, Julian Street's "Mr. Bisbee's Princess," provides a fine vehicle for W. C. Fields, Paramount's comedy star, whose latest screen production is the offering at the Ceramic theatre Monday and Wednesday.

For screen purposes, the title has been changed and is now—"So's Your Old Man." It traces the life of Samuel Bisbee from the day he invents an unbreakable windshield, through his troubles while demonstrating it, in his endeavors to sell it, how he meets a beautiful Princess, what she does on landing in his home town, and finally, the social and financial success which come to him.

Imagine Fields, he of the ridiculous mustache and checked cutaway in a series of ridiculous situations. Think of him as he pulls the famous golf gag which won him so much applause in the Ziegfield Follies. To this,—add the histrionic efforts of beautiful Alice Joyce, a tender love affair between Charles Rogers, one of the Paramount Junior Stars; and Kittens Reichert, the strife between the two social factors of the village, and the continual hen-pecking which Fields receives from his harnessed wife, Marcia Harris.

In the words of the song, "Put them all together," and then you can't even begin to imagine the laughs that are in store for you. If you've ever neded a laugh tonic, don't miss "So's Your Old Man."

DORIS KENYON AT AMERICAN

"Ladies at Play" Intriguing Title of Picture.

"Ladies at Play" is the intriguing title of the First National picture which opens a three-day run Monday at the American theatre with Doris Kenyon and Lloyd Hughes in the featured roles.

Sparkling comedy, good-natured satire, thrills, suspense, surprises, and even little touches of pathos combine to make "Ladies at Play" a real comedy cocktail, and one that the whole family can see and enjoy.

Supporting the leading players are Philo McCollough, Louise Fazenda, Virginia Lee Corbin, Hallam Cooley, John Patrick and Ethel Wales, all in novel characterizations.

"Ladies at Play" was directed by Alfred E. Green under the production supervision of B. P. Fineman.

The story has to do with the inheritance by the heroine of six million dollars, on condition that she marry a man who meets with the approval of her two old-fashioned straight-laced spinster aunts.

"SO'S YOUR OLD MAN" BOOKED

W. C. Fields' Picture Comes to Ceramic Theatre.

The O. Henry Memorial Prize Short Story of 1925, Julian Street's "Mr. Bisbee's Princess," provides a fine vehicle for W. C. Fields, Paramount's comedy star, whose latest screen production is the offering at the Ceramic theatre Monday and Wednesday.

For screen purposes, the title has been changed and is now—"So's Your Old Man." It traces the life of Samuel Bisbee from the day he invents an unbreakable windshield, through his troubles while demonstrating it, in his endeavors to sell it, how he meets a beautiful Princess, what she does on landing in his home town, and finally, the social and financial success which come to him.

Imagine Fields, he of the ridiculous mustache and checked cutaway in a series of ridiculous situations. Think of him as he pulls the famous golf gag which won him so much applause in the Ziegfield Follies. To this,—add the histrionic efforts of beautiful Alice Joyce, a tender love affair between Charles Rogers, one of the Paramount Junior Stars; and Kittens Reichert, the strife between the two social factors of the village, and the continual hen-pecking which Fields receives from his harnessed wife, Marcia Harris.

In the words of the song, "Put them all together," and then you can't even begin to imagine the laughs that are in store for you. If you've ever needed a laugh tonic, don't miss "So's Your Old Man."

Feeling the Strain?

Overwork and Worry Tend to Overtax the System.

MODERN habits—overwork, worry, insufficient rest and exercise—all tend to overtax and slow up the bodily machinery. Good health requires good elimination. The kidneys filter the blood. Sluggish function, however, permits some retention of waste poisons. Such a "toxic condition" is inclined to make one languid and tired; there is sometimes toxic backache and headache. That the kidneys are not functioning properly is often shown by scanty or burning passages. Thousands recommend Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic in these conditions. Doan's act on the kidneys only. They are endorsed the country over. Ask your neighbor!

WELLSVILLE AUTOMOBILE THEFT COUNTS RETURNED

FRANK AMATO IS NAMED IN U. S. JURY BILL

Two Yorkville Men Also Indicted in Columbus.

$66,000. INVOLVED

Allege Cars Were Stolen in Pittsburgh and Sold Here.

Return of 55 indictments, including true bills charging Frank Amato, of Wellsville, Charles D. Frank and H. R. Weaver, of Yorkville, with the wholesale theft of automobiles, was made by the federal grand jury in Columbus yesterday after a four-day session.

Amato, Frank and Weaver were accused of having stolen approximately $66,000 worth of automobiles in and near Pittsburgh and removing them to Wellsville, Yorkville and other cities and communities in the valley where they were sold.

The cars were disposed of, it is claimed, after engine and body numbers were changed.

Recovery of the automobiles followed the arrest of Fred Schwartz, said to be a Pittsburgh gunman, who confessed complicity in the thefts and to selling cars in East Liverpool, Wellsville, Steubenville, Wellsburg, Beaver Falls and other nearby places.

Schwartz was sentenced to 20 years in the Western penitentiary at Rockville, Pa., in Allegheny county criminal courts at Pittsburgh about 10 days ago for his part in the auto ring deals

Schwartz also was accused of having kidnaped a Beaver motorcycle patrolman, taking him to a point near Vanport on the Midland road where he handcuffed him to a guard railing about a year ago when the officer attempted to arrest him.

In all, 136 witnesses were heard by the federal grand jury at its Columbus session, in a total of 92 cases. Twelve cases were passed and 25 ignored. Six of the indictments were sealed.

While most of the indictments allege violation of federal dry laws many of them charge sale of narcotics, railroad freight theft and automobile stealing.

FERNLEAF CLUB IS ENTERTAINED

Mrs. Albert Beech entertained members of the Fernleaf club last evening at her home in Anderson avenue. Fifteen members were present.

Games and music were diversions. Contests were won by Mrs. Homer Todd and Mrs. Nancy Kenney. Luncheon was served by the hostess, assisted by her daughters, Misses Evelyn and Phyllis.

Arrangements were made for the Christmas party which will be held Saturday, December 18, at the Episcopal church parish house, Eleventh and Center street, although the next regular meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Nancy Kenney, in Fifteenth street.

Eckler Awaits Hearing.

'REAL RELIGION' PASTOR'S TOPIC

Rev. H. A. Frye, conducting revivals at the Evangelical church, last night preached on the subject, "Is the Religion of Jesus Christ Real?" In connection with the services he announced that 32 persons had bowed at the altar to date.

Rev. Frye will preach at services tomorrow. His morning subject will be "Heaven, What Is It, Where Is It, and Who Is Going There?" His evening topic will be "Crossing the Dead Line."

Sunday school will meet at 9:45 a. m., in charge of Matthew Clark, superintendent. Communion service is scheduled for 10:45, with Christian league session carded for 6:30 p. m.

Rev. Frye took his last night's discourse from Hebrews 2:3, "How shall you escape if you neglect so great a salvation?"

He said:

"Some preachers and evangelists use hypnotic methods and influences to get folks to pray a little and call it salvation.

"Most people in modern churches will measure the success of a revival by counting accessions. About all that some folks are interested in is how many joiners did you have? They don't care a rap whether anybody gets saved or not, just so they join the church.

"Who can fathom the words of the text, 'so great salvation.' No man can understand that word 'so.'

"We are told of a mother whose baby was dying. She called for the pastor to come to pray for the child. The mother had carried the child in her arms until she was almost exhausted. The preacher wanted to relieve the mother for a while, asking her to let him hold the child. 'No, no,' said she, 'the child will soon be gone. I must not let it go out of my arms.' If human love is that strong what can you say of divine love? God's love goes deeper that that.

"If that which is real is neglected, then it will make a difference on the part of him who neglects it and such difference is an evidence that it is read. If salvation is real then it will make a difference on those who have it and those who have it not.

"You just watch men's lives and see if you cannot tell that the religion of Jesus Christ is real. Can't you see the difference between the sincere praying man and the man who curses and blasphemes God?

"Let me ask, is sin a reality? You find the answer the world over. Folks are well acquainted with sin. Now if sin is a reality, the that which removes sin must be a reality. Is life a reality? If it is not what is man—a mere fence post? Or what is he? Is pain real? How many ever had the toothache? Did you just imagine it? Is death real? If death is not real why all these cemeteries?

"It's not the loud shouting that counts, but the presence of Jesus in the heart."

The peak of absurdity is to suggest that we must not know about poison gases. Can we not trust ourselves? Is it not idiocy to say that our scientists shall not keep this country informed and protected by constant study of all important war-like weapons?

Children who desire to participate in the treat have been tendered an invitation to attend the mission Sunday afternoon and register.

NOVEL REVELRY CALLED "BOOK FOR ANARCHY"

Republican Organ Condemns Capital Life Fiction.

DEAD VILIFIED

Termed "Fit Text for Bolshevism and Revolution."

COLUMBUS, Dec. 11.—"Revelry," a novel of Washington official life, is condemned as a "fit text book for anarchy, bolshevism and revolution" in a blistering attack in the current issue of "The Week," official Republican organ, published here.

Charging that the author, Samuel Hopkins Adams, has produced a volume so improper that it cannot be purchased at many book stores and cannot be found in many public libraries, the editor interpets the novel as an attempt to picture what purports to be phases of the Harding administration.

The article is entitled, "Shall the Dead be Vilified?

"Here in Ohio where our dearest are attacked, we do not sit down and take it lightly—we want justice," The Week declares.

The article maintains the novel libels every family in the state and nation and declares it undoubtedly was written while the citizenry was pouring funds from private savings to erect a monument to the dead president "now held up to scorn."

Interpreted As Harding.

The character of the leading figure in the book, interpreted as Mr. Harding by The Week, is maligned for gross misconduct becoming to the days of Nero, according to the articles.

"To those who are acquainted with the real intent and purpose of the book and to those who know the character portrayed, it is clear that the whole object of the publication is political; that it meant to discredit in the most vicious manner, an administration whose accomplishments were the wonder of the civilized world, and whose program of reconstruction after the most disastrous period in the world's history, is without parallel," the Week continues.

Calls Wilson by Name.

"In other chapters," the articles continue, "he (the author) places the destiny of the country in the hands of bootleggers and grafters and has the timerity to mention the successor of the dead president and calls President Wilson by name."

According to the Week, Adams "puts into the mouths of his chief characters such language as to make the blood run cold."

"Yet this volume is allowed to go unchallenged through the mails of the country," the Week continues.

The article reaffirms that Harding "was well known in Ohio; the state loved him for what he was and for his conception of duty, his patriotism and his fidelity to things American, his friendly handclasp and his understanding of the masses of human beings."

Short Talks by Thoughtful Mothers.

An Indiana mother tells this: "We find nothing to compare with Foley's Honey and Tar Compound for coughs and colds. My little lad had trouble with his bronchial tubes from his third year, but since we started giving him Foley's Honey and Tar we have been able to control it. We know there is nothing to compare with Foley's Honey and Tar Compound." The very name tells a story. Good also for croup (spasmodic) and troublesome night coughs. Ask for it. Sold everywhere.

IRONDALE TEAMS WIN CAGE GAMES

Irondale High school basketball teams were victors in contests last night with Amsterdam squads—boys and girls—at Irondale, the girls getting a 49-7 verdict and the boys winning a close 9 to 6 decision.

Dec. 17—Smithfield; Dec. 18—At Salineville; Jan. 7—Open; Jan. 21—At Amsterdam; Jan. 28—East Liverpool Reserves; Feb. 4—Hanoverton Boys and East Liverpool Girls; Feb. 5—At East Liverpool (Reserves); Feb. 11—At New Cumberland; Feb. 18—New Cumberland; March 4—Salineville; March 11—Open; March 18—At Smithfield.

"The Jacknife Man" will be shown Monday night in the Irondale school, together with "Magic Gems"—a natural color picture. On Monday, December 20, the "Sky Pilot," from Ralph Connor's story will be shown, along with an educational reel, "Shanghai." Black's orchestra will furnish music.

The Wellsville Music club will give a concert on December 16 in the school gymnasium, for the benefit of the school.

School vacation period will start December 23 and conclude on Jan. 4.

A. F. Axe, Grave Neville and Ethel Wood will spend the week-end in Alliance.

Theron Miller, school instructor, has been called to Bowling Green by the death of a relative.

Mrs. L. X. Johnson was an East Liverpool shopper today.

REV. I. M. POLING AT LOCAL CHURCH

Evangelist I. M. Poling, of Barrackville, W. Va., will begin a series of meetings at the Church of Christ, Seventeenth and Commerce streets, tonight.

There will be preaching each evening at 7:30 o'clock and on Sundays at 11 a. m. The services will be public.

MRS. E. S. NOBLE CLUB HOSTESS

Gifts were exchanged by the members. A cover-dish supper was served, in charge of Mrs. James Leighton, Mrs. H. C. Taggart and Mrs. John Culp.

PERSONALS

Mrs. Henry Wooster, Clark avenue, who recently underwent an operation at the East Liverpool City hospital, has been removed to her home here. Her condition is reported to be improved.

Mrs. A. R. McCombs, Center street was a Pittsburgh visitor yesterday.

Mrs. John Haggerty, Eighth street, has been removed to her home from the East Liverpool City hospital where she has been a patient for several weeks.

Mrs. C. H. Aughinbaugh, Maple avenue, is confined to her home with illness.

Rev. W. S. Rowe, pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal church, is ill at the parsonage in Eighth and Main streets.

CANNON BALLS REMOVED FROM PENNSY RAILS

Police Seek Men Who Tampered With Monument.

REWARD OFFERED

City Ordinance Specifies $100 Fine for Offense.

For the third time within the past few months, city officials today were forced to remove a number of cannon balls, accessory equipment with the ornamental cannon which reposes at the Soldiers' and Sailors' monument in Fourth street and Riverside avenue, from the tracks and right of way of the Pennsylvania Railroad company.

Police authorities today announced that every effort will be made to apprehend the vandals who have been responsible for the disturbance of the monument equipment in the past. A cash reward recently was offered by Mayor W. L. Fogo for information leading to arrests.

An ordinance of the city places the maximum fine at $100 for a conviction on a charge of tampering with the monument, and, according to Mayor Fogo, it is likely that this amount will be imposed in the event that arrests are made.

The cannon balls weigh approximately 100 pounds each and authorities are at a loss to know the motive of any one who would roll them off the monument over on to the tracks, unless prompted by a spirit of destructiveness.

MOTHERS DINE GRID PLAYERS

Members of the high school football squad were banqueted Thursday night by mothers in the First Presbyterian church dining rooms, with fathers, school and board of education representatives as special guests.

Superintendent S. E. Daw presided as toastmaster. Captain Donald Hepp, in behalf of the team, presented Coach Earl Klinck with a traveling case in expression of the squad's appreciation for his services.

After a short talk Coach Klinck called upon members of the squad who played their last game Thanksgiving for brief remarks. This delegation included Charles Dickey, Gilbert Klavuhn, Henry Iddings, James Holliday, John Floto and Bruce Thorne.

Rev. Frank Magill, pastor of the First Presbyterian church gave a short address in which he hoped that the training of the game of football would aid in fitting the boys for the more serious things of life.

ASKS PAYMENT OF DOG TAXES

Deputy Sheriff J. L. McDevitt today announced completion of arrangements for the collection of dog taxes.

Payment of taxes, he announced, may be made to him at no cost to the dog owners, and this, he pointed out, should be done before January 1. On and after this date a one-dollar penalty will be assessed.

GEORGE KNOLL, AGED 85, DIES

George Knoll, 85 years old, died Thursday night in the home of his daughter, Mrs. Fred Kellog, in Salineville, following a year's illness, death being due to paralysis.

He was born in Rhinesburg, Germany, and had lived in Salineville for approximately 52 years. He was a member of the Church of Christ.

In addition to his daughter, Mrs. Kellog, he is survived by two stepchildren, Mrs. Allie Goddard, of Salineville, and John Wallace, of Redbluff, California.

Funeral services will be held Sunday afternoon at the Kellog residence in charge of Rev. A. M. Jenkins, pastor of the Church of Christ. Burial will be made in the Woodland cemetery.

MISSION MEET AT U. P. CHURCH

Woman's Missionary society of the First United Presbyterian church met last evening in the church parlors. Mrs. Charles Boyd was leader.

Devotionals were led by Mrs. Bell Booth and Mrs. M. McKim gave a talk on "The Possibilities of Prayer." A Christmas poem was read by Miss Mary Imbrie.

Mrs. H. B. Andrews, Mrs. R. W. Ustick and Mrs. C. Bainbridge were the hostesses.

CONVICT YOUTH FOR SLAYING

Pirring to be Sentenced to Life Imprisonment.

Albert Pirring, 21, Washington, Pa., was to be sentenced today to life imprisonment, following a verdict by a jury in Steubenville late last night, finding him guilty of the murder of Owen Burns, Steubenville policeman. The jury recommended mercy, carrying an automatic penalty of life imprisonment. Burns was shot with his own gun when he was called to stop a disturbance in a disorderly house.

"BREAKFAST" in Baker's Breakfast Cocoa

Means Something

The United States Food Standards define "Breakfast" cocoa as cocoa containing not less than 22 per cent of cocoa butter. Many cheap cocoas (which cannot be labelled "Breakfast" Cocoa) contain not more than 14 per cent or 15 per cent of butter.

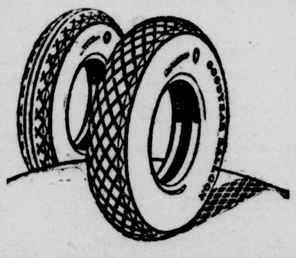

Baker's Breakfast Cocoa contains not less than 26 per cent of cocoa butter, almost one-fifth more than Government requirement. The phrase Baker's Breakfast Cocoa means a pure, delicious cocoa of high quality and possessing a considerable amount of nourishment.

WASHINGTON STEWART'S LETTER

CHARLES STEWART

Parliament does, in England. It's described, as to its restaurant, as the best and cheapest "club" in Europe. This isn't an exaggeration.

I don't say the congressional restaurants are the worst and most expensive in America, but I do say that their fodder is mighty mediocre, their service rather less than that, and their customers never would pay such prices for such chow at any ordinary beanery.

THERE are four of these fueling stations in the Capitol Building: A restaurant exclusively for senators and their guests; a restaurant exclusively for representatives and their guests; a restaurant reserved for members of the press and the capitol staff, and a public restaurant.

There is also a restaurant each in the Senate and House Office Buildings.

There isn't much to choose among them.

TAKE luncheon, for instance:

Each restaurant serves a 65-cent lunch and a 75-cent lunch. There's also an a la carte bill-of-fare which can be run as high as $1 or $1.50, if the diner can stand that quantity of the kind of provender he gets.

These aren't such fancy figures, but neither is the table fancy. It's a cheap boarding house table. It will sustain life but it doesn't tempt the appetite. It isn't at all the kind of grub that anybody would suppose the lawmakers for the world's premier power would consider themselves entitled to.

ALL these restaurants are everlastingly crowded at meal time—particularly the noon meal. Senators and representatives pay off plenty of political obligations to home-town visitors by inviting them to luncheon in their respective restaurants.

It's economical, from the senators' and representatives' standpoint, and there's a glamour to an out-of-town visitor —who doesn't see the check—about eating in a restaurant "for members only." What he eats is a secondary consideration, or none whatever.

Nevertheless, the crowding is uncomfortable when once the capitol's novelty has worn off. Conscious that others are waiting, you're impelled to gobble your food in a hurry and make way for new arrivals. Perhaps it's as well. It isn't anything to linger over, anyway.

THE capitol's Ethiopian waiters are the Ritzy-est lot in Washington. Even senators and representatives mean nothing in their young lives. What, then, do they care for common, unofficial mortals!

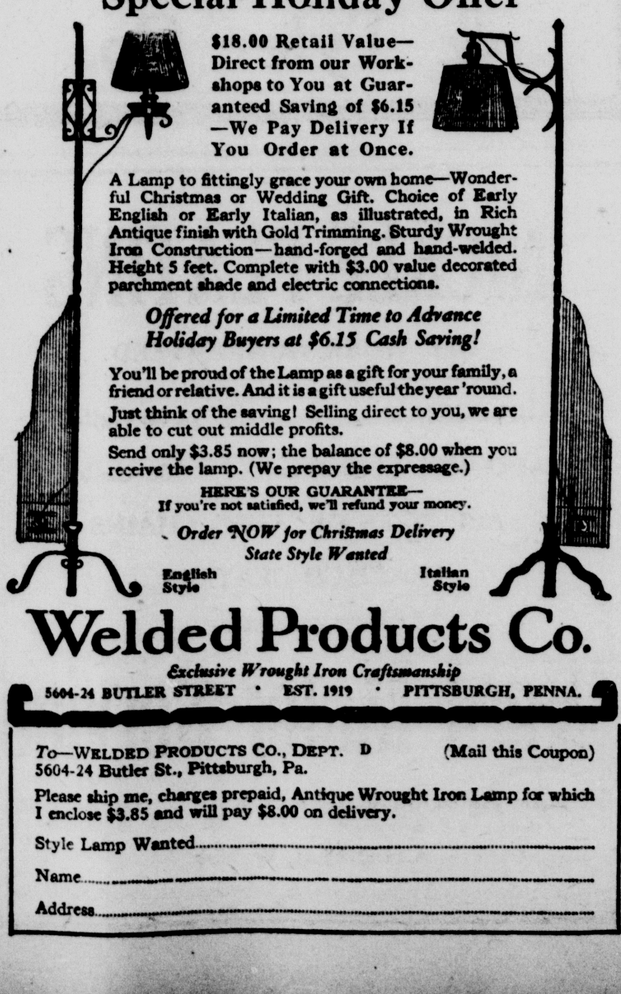

They're hurried, too — anxious to keep things moving. Nobody knows what minute he'll get the contents of a soup plate down his neck.

After the first relay of customers has been served the tables always are mussy. The cutlery and chinaware only get a lick and a promise from the dishwasher. But you're mixing with senators and representatives.

THE funny thing is that all these restaurants run at a loss, despite the business they do and the prices they charge for indifferent food and a grab-bag service. It must be because everything the government touches does lose. It's a cinch a Greek restaurant man could make lots of money out of them.

WELLSVILLE AUTOMOBILE THEFT COUNTS RETURNED

Two Yorkville Men Also Indicted in Columbus.

$66,000. INVOLVED

Allege Cars Were Stolen in Pittsburgh and Sold Here.

Return of 55 indictments, including true bills charging Frank Amato, of Wellsville, Charles D. Frank and H. R. Weaver, of Yorkville, with the wholesale theft of automobiles, was made by the federal grand jury in Columbus yesterday after a four-day session.

Amato, Frank and Weaver were accused of having stolen approximately $66,000 worth of automobiles in and near Pittsburgh and removing them to Wellsville, Yorkville and other cities and communities in the valley where they were sold.

The cars were disposed of, it is claimed, after engine and body numbers were changed.

Recovery of the automobiles followed the arrest of Fred Schwartz, said to be a Pittsburgh gunman, who confessed complicity in the thefts and to selling cars in East Liverpool, Wellsville, Steubenville, Wellsburg, Beaver Falls and other nearby places.

Schwartz was sentenced to 20 years in the Western penitentiary at Rockville, Pa., in Allegheny county criminal courts at Pittsburgh about 10 days ago for his part in the auto ring deals.

Schwartz also was accused of having kidnaped a Beaver motorcycle patrolman, taking him to a point near Vanport on the Midland road where he handcuffed him to a guard railing about a year ago when the officer attempted to arrest him.

In all, 136 witnesses were heard by the federal grand jury at its Columbus session, in a total of 92 cases. Twelve cases were passed and 25 ignored. Six of the indictments were sealed.

While most of the indictments allege violation of federal dry laws many of them charge sale of narcotics, railroad freight theft and automobile stealing.

FERNLEAF CLUB IS ENTERTAINED

Mrs. Albert Beech entertained members of the Fernleaf club last evening at her home in Anderson avenue. Fifteen members were present.

Games and music were diversions. Contests were won by Mrs. Homer Todd and Mrs. Nancy Kenney. Luncheon was served by the hostess, assisted by her daughters, Misses Evelyn and Phyllis.

Arrangements were made for the Christmas party which will be held Saturday, December 18, at the Episcopal church parish house, Eleventh and Center street, although the next regular meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Nancy Kenney, in Fifteenth street.

Eckler Awaits Hearing.

'REAL RELIGION' PASTOR'S TOPIC

Rev. H. A. Frye, conducting revivals at the Evangelical church, last night preached on the subject, "Is the Religion of Jesus Christ Real?" In connection with the services he announced that 32 persons had bowed at the altar to date.

Rev. Frye will preach at services tomorrow. His morning subject will be "Heaven, What Is It, Where Is It, and Who Is Going There?" His evening topic will be "Crossing the Dead Line."

Sunday school will meet at 9:45 a. m., in charge of Matthew Clark, superintendent. Communion service is scheduled for 10:45, with Christian league session carded for 6:30 p. m.

Rev. Frye took his last night's discourse from Hebrews 2:3, "How shall you escape if you neglect so great a salvation?"

He said:

"Some preachers and evangelists use hypnotic methods and influences to get folks to pray a little and call it salvation.

"Most people in modern churches will measure the success of a revival by counting accessions. About all that some folks are interested in is how many joiners did you have? They don't care a rap whether anybody gets saved or not, just so they join the church.

"Who can fathom the words of the text, 'so great salvation.' No man can understand that word 'so.'

"We are told of a mother whose baby was dying. She called for the pastor to come to pray for the child. The mother had carried the child in her arms until she was almost exhausted. The preacher wanted to relieve the mother for a while, asking her to let him hold the child. 'No, no,' said she, 'the child will soon be gone. I must not let it go out of my arms.' If human love is that strong what can you say of divine love? God's love goes deeper that that.

"If that which is real is neglected, then it will make a difference on the part of him who neglects it and such difference is an evidence that it is read. If salvation is real then it will make a difference on those who have it and those who have it not.

"You just watch men's lives and see if you cannot tell that the religion of Jesus Christ is real. Can't you see the difference between the sincere praying man and the man who curses and blasphemes God?

"Let me ask, is sin a reality? You find the answer the world over. Folks are well acquainted with sin. Now if sin is a reality, the that which removes sin must be a reality. Is life a reality? If it is not what is man—a mere fence post? Or what is he? Is pain real? How many ever had the toothache? Did you just imagine it? Is death real? If death is not real why all these cemeteries?

"It's not the loud shouting that counts, but the presence of Jesus in the heart."

ANOTHER suggestion before congress is to forbid experiment with and scientific study of poison gases.

The peak of absurdity is to suggest that we must not know about poison gases. Can we not trust ourselves? Is it not idiocy to say that our scientists shall not keep this country informed and protected by constant study of all important war-like weapons?

YULE TREAT TO BE GIVEN BY MISSION

Exercises Will be Held On Thursday, Dec. 23.

PLAN PROGRAM

Children are Asked to Register Here Sunday.

Special services will be held on Thursday evening, December 23, at 7 o'clock in the Nazarene Mission, Third and Main streets, when a Christmas treat will be tendered mission children and poor children.

The youngsters will be asked to go to the mission and register in order to take part in the treat. Pictures appropriate to the Christmas season will be exhibited.

A program will be featured in connection with the treat, including speaking by the children and special singing and short addresses by the adults.

Children who desire to participate in the treat have been tendered an invitation to attend the mission Sunday afternoon and register.

NOVEL REVELRY CALLED "BOOK FOR ANARCHY"

Republican Organ Condemns Capital Life Fiction.

DEAD VILIFIED

Termed "Fit Text for Bolshevism and Revolution."

COLUMBUS, Dec. 11.—"Revelry," a novel of Washington official life, is condemned as a "fit text book for anarchy, bolshevism and revolution" in a blistering attack in the current issue of "The Week," official Republican organ, published here.

Charging that the author, Samuel Hopkins Adams, has produced a volume so improper that it cannot be purchased at many book stores and cannot be found in many public libraries, the editor interpets the novel as an attempt to picture what purports to be phases of the Harding administration.

The article is entitled, "Shall the Dead be Vilified?

"Here in Ohio where our dearest are attacked, we do not sit down and take it lightly—we want justice," The Week declares.

The article maintains the novel libels every family in the state and nation and declares it undoubtedly was written while the citizenry was pouring funds from private savings to erect a monument to the dead president "now held up to scorn."

Interpreted As Harding.

The character of the leading figure in the book, interpreted as Mr. Harding by The Week, is maligned for gross misconduct becoming to the days of Nero, according to the articles.

"To those who are acquainted with the real intent and purpose of the book and to those who know the character portrayed, it is clear that the whole object of the publication is political; that it meant to discredit in the most vicious manner, an administration whose accomplishments were the wonder of the civilized world, and whose program of reconstruction after the most disastrous period in the world's history, is without parallel," the Week continues.

Calls Wilson by Name.

"In other chapters," the articles continue, "he (the author) places the destiny of the country in the hands of bootleggers and grafters and has the timerity to mention the successor of the dead president and calls President Wilson by name."

According to the Week, Adams "puts into the mouths of his chief characters such language as to make the blood run cold."

"Yet this volume is allowed to go unchallenged through the mails of the country," the Week continues.

The article reaffirms that Harding "was well known in Ohio; the state loved him for what he was and for his conception of duty, his patriotism and his fidelity to things American, his friendly handclasp and his understanding of the masses of human beings."

Short Talks by Thoughtful Mothers.

An Indiana mother tells this: "We find nothing to compare with Foley's Honey and Tar Compound for coughs and colds. My little lad had trouble with his bronchial tubes from his third year, but since we started giving him Foley's Honey and Tar we have been able to control it. We know there is nothing to compare with Foley's Honey and Tar Compound." The very name tells a story. Good also for croup (spasmodic) and troublesome night coughs. Ask for it. Sold everywhere.

IRONDALE TEAMS WIN CAGE GAMES

Irondale High school basketball teams were victors in contests last night with Amsterdam squads—boys and girls—at Irondale, the girls getting a 49-7 verdict and the boys winning a close 9 to 6 decision.

Dec. 17—Smithfield; Dec. 18—At Salineville; Jan. 7—Open; Jan. 21—At Amsterdam; Jan. 28—East Liverpool Reserves; Feb. 4—Hanoverton Boys and East Liverpool Girls; Feb. 5—At East Liverpool (Reserves); Feb. 11—At New Cumberland; Feb. 18—New Cumberland; March 4—Salineville; March 11—Open; March 18—At Smithfield.

The boys' team is coached by A. E. Axe and captained by Ferguson. Miss Mabel Wagner directs the girls team, which is captained by Miss Duck.

"The Jackknife Man" will be shown Monday night in the Irondale school, together with "Magic Gems"—a natural color picture. On Monday, December 20, the "Sky Pilot," from Ralph Connor's story will be shown, along with an educational reel, "Shanghai." Black's orchestra will furnish music.

The Wellsville Music club will give a concert on December 16 in the school gymnasium, for the benefit of the school.

School vacation period will start December 23 and conclude on Jan. 4.

A. F. Axe, Grave Neville and Ethel Wood will spend the week-end in Alliance.

Theron Miller, school instructor, has been called to Bowling Green by the death of a relative.

Mrs. L. X. Johnson was an East Liverpool shopper today.

REV. I. M. POLING AT LOCAL CHURCH

Evangelist I. M. Poling, of Barrackville, W. Va., will begin a series of meetings at the Church of Christ, Seventeenth and Commerce streets, tonight.

There will be preaching each evening at 7:30 o'clock and on Sundays at 11 a. m. The services will be public.

MRS. E. S. NOBLE CLUB HOSTESS

Gifts were exchanged by the members. A cover-dish supper was served, in charge of Mrs. James Leighton, Mrs. H. C. Taggart and Mrs. John Culp.

PERSONALS

Mrs. Henry Wooster, Clark avenue, who recently underwent an operation at the East Liverpool City hospital, has been removed to her home here. Her condition is reported to be improved.

Mrs. A. R. McCombs, Center street was a Pittsburgh visitor yesterday.

Mrs. John Haggerty, Eighth street, has been removed to her home from the East Liverpool City hospital where she has been a patient for several weeks.

Mrs. C. H. Aughinbaugh, Maple avenue, is confined to her home with illness.

Rev. W. S. Rowe, pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal church, is ill at the parsonage in Eighth and Main streets.

CANNON BALLS REMOVED FROM PENNSY RAILS

Police Seek Men Who Tampered With Monument.

REWARD OFFERED

City Ordinance Specifies $100 Fine for Offense.

For the third time within the past few months, city officials today were forced to remove a number of cannon balls, accessory equipment with the ornamental cannon which reposes at the Soldiers' and Sailors' monument in Fourth street and Riverside avenue, from the tracks and right of way of the Pennsylvania Railroad company.

Police authorities today announced that every effort will be made to apprehend the vandals who have been responsible for the disturbance of the monument equipment in the past. A cash reward recently was offered by Mayor W. L. Fogo for information leading to arrests.

An ordinance of the city places the maximum fine at $100 for a conviction on a charge of tampering with the monument, and, according to Mayor Fogo, it is likely that this amount will be imposed in the event that arrests are made.

The cannon balls weigh approximately 100 pounds each and authorities are at a loss to know the motive of any one who would roll them off the monument over on to the tracks, unless prompted by a spirit of destructiveness.

MOTHERS DINE GRID PLAYERS

Members of the high school football squad were banqueted Thursday night by mothers in the First Presbyterian church dining rooms, with fathers, school and board of education representatives as special guests.

Superintendent S. E. Daw presided as toastmaster. Captain Donald Hepp, in behalf of the team, presented Coach Earl Klinck with a traveling case in expression of the squad's appreciation for his services.

After a short talk Coach Klinck called upon members of the squad who played their last game Thanksgiving for brief remarks. This delegation included Charles Dickey, Gilbert Klavuhn, Henry Iddings, James Holliday, John Floto and Bruce Thorne.

Rev. Frank Magill, pastor of the First Presbyterian church gave a short address in which he hoped that the training of the game of football would aid in fitting the boys for the more serious things of life.

ASKS PAYMENT OF DOG TAXES

Deputy Sheriff J. L. McDevitt today announced completion of arrangements for the collection of dog taxes.

Payment of taxes, he announced, may be made to him at no cost to the dog owners, and this, he pointed out, should be done before January 1. On and after this date a one-dollar penalty will be assessed.

GEORGE KNOLL, AGED 85, DIES

George Knoll, 85 years old, died Thursday night in the home of his daughter, Mrs. Fred Kellog, in Salineville, following a year's illness, death being due to paralysis.

He was born in Rhinesburg, Germany, and had lived in Salineville for approximately 52 years. He was a member of the Church of Christ.

In addition to his daughter, Mrs. Kellog, he is survived by two stepchildren, Mrs. Allie Goddard, of Salineville, and John Wallace, of Redbluff, California.

Funeral services will be held Sunday afternoon at the Kellog residence in charge of Rev. A. M. Jenkins, pastor of the Church of Christ. Burial will be made in the Woodland cemetery.

MISSION MEET AT U. P. CHURCH

Woman's Missionary society of the First United Presbyterian church met last evening in the church parlors. Mrs. Charles Boyd was leader.

Devotionals were led by Mrs. Bell Booth and Mrs. M. McKim gave a talk on "The Possibilities of Prayer." A Christmas poem was read by Miss Mary Imbrie.

Mrs. H. B. Andrews, Mrs. R. W. Ustick and Mrs. C. Bainbridge were the hostesses.

CONVICT YOUTH FOR SLAYING

Pirring to be Sentenced to Life Imprisonment.

Albert Pirring, 21, Washington, Pa., was to be sentenced today to life imprisonment, following a verdict by a jury in Steubenville late last night, finding him guilty of the murder of Owen Burns, Steubenville policeman. The jury recommended mercy, carrying an automatic penalty of life imprisonment. Burns was shot with his own gun when he was called to stop a disturbance in a disorderly house.

FAITH MISSION SUNDAY PROGRAM

Customary program of services will be held Sunday in Faith Mission, 1213 Center street, in charge of A. W. Bonacci, superintendent. Sunday school will meet at 2:30 p. m. and preaching services will be held at 3:45 p. m.

scientific laboratories. It is estimated that there are made annually 180,000 tests, the results often saving the public millions of dollars. Thirteen hundred and fifty publications have been issued during the twenty-five years the Bureau has been in existence and these have materially aided industry and science.

The work of the Bureau of Standards with regard to automobile tires alone saved the American public $40,000,000 a year. The Bureau helped to develop both the fabric tire and the cord tire from specifications and tests. Later, comparison showed that the use of cord tires would save the public the tremendous amount cited, and the manufacturers withdrew the fabric tires. This is only one instance of what the Bureau is doing.

The range of work done at the Bureau of Standards is inconceivably wide. The studies of the scientific and technical experts range from atoms to stars—one measures the forces binding the atoms together and another the temperature on the continents and snow caps of the planet Mars. Last summer the Bureau experts achieved the actual temperature measurement of Mars and found that it was about the same as that of New York City at noon. This proved conclusively for the first time that life could exist on this much discussed planet.

The testing of the Stevenson Creek Dam in California has been placed in charge of the Bureau. This dam was built entirely for testing purpose and tests are being made to find the yielding point.

Not long ago a huge crushing machine at the Bureau was used to test the girders of the great Delaware river bridge. One of the most interesting sights at the Bureau is the giant testing machine which has a pulling power of 1,150,000 pounds and a crushing power of 2,300,000 pounds. It can crush to destruction a huge structural column or tear apart a steel shaft five inches in diameter. It will record the crushing force of a thousand tons or that required to crush an eggshell.

The Bureau not only makes high precision gages, but has evolved a method of testing them, so that they are now produced regularly with no error greater than one two-hundred thousandth of an inch. The Bureau actually ruled scales for the most famous gage-makers in the world, with divisions accurate to one-hundred-millionth of an inch. This was done without any material standard of length.

One of the latest accomplishments of this wonder-working institution is a radio-beacon which gives promise of the automatically steering by radio of a true course for airplanes. Since getting off the course is one of the particular dangers of night flying, this should prove a tremendous boon to aviation when it is finally developed to a point of common usage.

Studies at the Bureau of Standards made it possible to photograph through fog from a two-mile elevation in one one-hundredth of a second, when the object could not be seen with the eye. An automatic observer and recorder of sixteen items or road performance of automobiles was developed so that designers can study the efficiency of road performance of their cars.

It was here that the first radio direction finder was designed and operated. This device is for the purpose of promoting safety at sea.

The first regular radio broadcasting station in the world was established here and operated by the Bureau for the Department of Agriculture to demonstrate and inaugurate the national broadcasting of crop reports.

Levulose, sometimes called the supreme sugar, which is 75 per cent sweeter than ordinary sugar, was first crystallized by the Bureau of Standards from a water solution produced from an American weed. It is now being made at the Bureau on a semi-factory scale to determine experimentally the process standards for its economical industrial production, and thus to lay the scientific foundation of a new industry.

One might go on indefinitely naming the wonders and marvels, as well as the everyday aids to the people, which this bureau has performed. It has been called by none other than Thomas Edison, "the 100 per cent government bureau."

KENNETH ORMISTON FIGHTS MOVE TO EXTRADITE HIM

LOS ANGELES RADIO MAN IS IN CHICAGO

TRIAL WITNESS

"Keyes Wont Get Me Back to California," He Says.

CHICAGO, Dec. 11.—Kenneth G. Ormiston will fight extradition to California, it was announced today by Attorney Edward H. S. Martin following a conference with the one-time radio operator of Angelus Temple.

"Ormiston cannot be arrested until warrants, accompanied by copies of the indictments against him, reach Chicago," said Martin. "When he is arrested he will give bond and fight his removal to Los Angeles."

Martin declared Ormiston flatly denied that Mrs. McPherson was his sweetheart or that he spent ten days with her in a Carmel, Calif., cottage.

CHICAGO, Dec. 11.—Kenneth G. Ormiston, long sought radio operator wanted at Los Angeles in connection with the Aimee Semple McPherson case, was an interesting "visitor" in Chicago today.

The elusive former broadcaster at Aimee's Angelus Temple reached here last night from Harrisburg, Pa., where he was discovered last Wednesday, living under an assumed name, by a Chicago reporter and two detectives. Ormiston was induced to return with his "captors" to Chicago.

Immediately upon his arrival here, Ormiston went into conference with his attorney, Edward H. S. Martin. During the consultation it was decided that Ormiston will fight every effort to extradite him to California where he is under indictment charging subordination of perjury and conspiracy to defeat justice.

Extradition papers already are being prepared in Los Angeles, where Ormiston is wanted as a vital witness in the McPherson case now pending before the courts, according to telegrams from that city today.

Ormiston and the woman evangelist stand accused of having occupied a cottage at Carmel-By-the-Sea during the time Mrs. McPherson claims she was held by kidnapers in Mexico. Ormiston admits occupying the cottage, but claims his companion was not Mrs. McPherson, but a mysterious "Mrs. X."

After the conference with his attorney, Ormiston determined just how much he will tell about his association with Mrs. McPherson if District Attorney Asa Keyes of Los Angeles succeeds in obtaining an extradition order.

"But Keyes won't get me back to California," Ormiston said defiantly. "I don't believe he wants me back there. He hasn't proper material on which to base an extradition request. Keyes and his associates can't prove any crime against me. I have done nothing wrong and have nothing to fear."

It was decided at the conference that if a warrant for Ormiston is received here he will post a cash bond immediately. He will maintain headquarters here until the McPherson case is disposed of.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKETS

NEW YORK, Dec. 11.—Responding to the week-end reports of a broad expansion in retail trade throughout the country, and the ability of the market to maintain the higher price ranges established this week, stocks showed every evidence of improvement in the short session of the market today.

The railroad stocks swung along in the upward movement inaugurated on Friday, while copper stocks and motors reached the highest price level of the week in some sections in active trading, in which the outside public were reported to have participated. A slightly better tone was in evidence in the better grade of oil stocks, including the Standard oils and a few of the prominent independents which have figured in the favorable news dispatches of the week.

Continental Baking class A jumped 5¼ points to 72 on its first sale as a result of the action of the directors in declaring the regular $2 quarterly dividend this completes a 14-point rally from the low of the week, the stock having dropped to 58 on the "bear rumors" of an impending cut in the dividend rate.

Chile was a leader in the copper stocks, advancing 1 ⅛ to 36 1-4 on reports that the outstanding $35,000,000 of convertible 6 per cent debentures would be called and retired at 110 and accrued interest in April. Anaconda and American smelting were strong and active. Universal Pipe common was a feature in the specialties, with large scale buying above 30.

TREE-TRIMMING NECESSARY IN PHONE SERVICE

Leaves and Branches Affect Communication, Says H. C. Hyatt.

PLANT MEETING

Ohio Bell Supervisor Launches Educational Campaign.

"It was not until I joined the telephone company that I learned that leaves or branches touching telephone wires make telephonic communication bad and at times impossible."

The speaker was Harry C. Hyatt, of Cleveland, a plant supervisor for the Ohio Bell Telephone company, addressing a meeting of plant employes at the company's East Liverpool office.

The meeting signified the launching in East Liverpool of an educational program to teach telephone employes the scientific methods of tree-trimming, the objective being to keep trees and shrubbery from damaging contact with telephone lines and doing this work in such a way that it will not interfere with the natural growth.

Harry C. Hyatt

Classes in tree-trimming are being held through the company's territory. Speakers last night included Hyatt, who was formerly city forester of Cleveland, and F. C. Mohr, of Cleveland, Ohio Bell toll maintenance supervisor. Several employes from other wire-using companies in East Liverpool, Wellsville and the vicinity were present.

Conductor of Electricity.

"Before joining the telephone company I did not know of the damage to telephone service caused by leaves and branches touching the wires, although I have devoted my life to the study of horticulture," said Hyatt.

"A living tree, owing to the liquid sap in its branches, leaves and trunk, is a good conductor of electricity. When it is wet from rain or snow it is an even better conductor.

"When every one in Ohio knows that, realizing how important telephones are in daily life, and knows that when we trim their trees they will be trimmed as well as the highest paid so-called expert or tree surgeon could do the work, then our problem will be simpler.

"There are instances where it would be good business for us to pay the property owners to move their trees back. In such cases, we explain to them that their trees can't mature, we can't dodge them, and will pay them for the work of moving the trees.

"If property owners will grant us permission to trim their trees, we will trim them properly, as correctly as it is possible to trim them. Recently a great deal of experiment and development has been done along the lines of tree surgery, or arborculture. We want to standardize our tree-trimming methods throughout the state, so that our work will be of the highest type and along the latest scientific lines."

NEXT SATURDAY IS BUNDLE DAY

Boy Scouts Will Collect Cast Off Clothing, Toys.

Next Saturday will be "Bundle and Toy Day" for the Salvation Army.

Cast off clothing for men, women and children, so long as it is not too badly worn, and toys wil be collected by Boy Scouts and turned over to the Salvation Army for distribution.

Plans for the campaign were discussed at a meeting of representatives of the American Red Cross, Salvation Army and city officials, in the Chamber of Commerce rooms last evening. The meeting, called by Mayor Ralph Benedum, was to discuss plans for Christmas relief and also to take steps to prevent duplication of Yuletide relief activities. Rev. A. H. O'Brien, chairman of the Red Cross executive committee, presided.

An effort is being made to arrange for a clearing house at which various organizations participating in relief work will list the names of families securing assistance.

Another session will be held at the Chamber of Commerce rooms at 7 o'clock next Tuesday evening, which representatives of the B. P. O. Elks, Moose, Eagles and other lodges, church organizations and individuals, engaging in relief work will be invited to attend.

American Theatre Picture Coloring Winners Anounced

Ten show tickets were awarded the following:

HEALTH SEAL SALE NEAR END

School Pupils to Submit Reports Next Week.

Reports on the sale of Christmas health seals by East Liverpool school children this week are expected to be made to Mrs. Louis Steinfeld, seal committee chairman, early next week. Pupils in the public and parochial schools collected approximately $800 last year.

Funds derived from the sale of seals here are being used in helping to pay the salary of Mrs. R. H. Leeper, public health nurse, Mrs. Steinfeld said. Mrs. Leeper devotes part of her time in looking after persons afflicted or threatened with the white plague. She is now assisting in arranging for the chest clinic which will be held at the Baptist church next Tuesday when contact cases will be examined by physicians from Youngstown and Mt. Vernon sanitoriums.

Mrs. Leeper yesterday took an 11-year-old boy, suffering from tuberculosis of the hip, to a sanatorium, where he will undergo treatment. The Christmas seal committee is paying all expenses of this case.

Mrs. Steinfeld said that fraternal orders and other organizations are "responding splendidly" in the appeal for support of the drive. The lodges have been asked to purchase bonds which come in denominations of $5, $10, $25, $50 and $100.

The committee in charge of the booth at the postoffice yesterday collected $18.25. The workers included Mesdames W. H. Jack, Owen Buxton and James Hocking.

Dr. Mel Morris At Baptist Church Mission on Hilltop

Evangelist Mel Morris, Greensboro, Md., will preach at two services Sunday at the Pleasant Heights Baptist mission. There will be no service tonight.

Subject of his discourse for the afternoon meeting at 2:30 o'clock will be "The Divine Knocker." By special request, he will repeat his famous sermon, "The Second Coming of Christ," at 7:30 p. m.

The services this week have been largely attended despite the inclement weather conditions. Gospel chalk talks were featured each evening and already 24 persons have professed conversion.

The meetings will continue for another week, services being at 7:30 o'clock each evening with the exception of Saturday.

"The California Gold Mine," it is charged, contained 3,000 chances at 5 cents per chance, representing returns of $150. The prizes amounted to $67, leaving the proprietor a profit of $78. The owner, police say, also held a secret key which told where the big money chances were located.

Copy of Suspension Order.

Here is a copy of the order served on the Liberty and also on the other four with the exception of the term of suspension:

"In conformity to our admonition, given at a conference held in the city building early in the present year, it becomes my duty to enforce the provisions of Ordinance No. 1778, said measure being an ordinance to regulate and license billiard and pool rooms and bowling alleys.

"The measure above designated provides that for a second or subsequent offense, the mayor may revoke the license of such offender for the remainder of the year and that the matter of granting a license for the next or subsequent year is left to the discretion of the mayor.

"In lieu of the literal enforcement of the provisions of the said ordinance No. 1778, you are hereby commanded to suspend all privileges of the said license granted under the terms of said ordinance, as designated for a period of 10 days from 12 o'clock (noon) today, December 11, 1926, and not to resume said privileges until noon of December 21, 1926.

"If the penalty and conditions as stipulated above, are not willingly and promptly complied with, your license will be revoked for the remainder of the year 1926 and, as previously stated, the matter of granting a license for the year 1927 will, under the provisions of the said ordinance No. 1178, rest with the discretion of the mayor."

Rebuttal Begins in Sensational "Oil Scandal."

20-DAY FIGHT

Prosecutor Attacks Alleged "Secrecy Agreement."

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11.—The Fall-Doheny conspiracy case is ready for final presentation to the jury.

On the fourth anniversary of the signing of the naval oil reserve leases, for which E. L. Doheny, millionaire magnate, and former Secretary of the Interior Albert B. Fall are standing trial for conspiracy, opposing counsel today closed the presentation of evidence and their rebuttal, and court adjourned until Monday morning when final arraignments will be made to the jury.

BY GEORGE E. DURNO.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11.—Final determination of the guilt or innocence of former secretary of the Interior Albert B. Fall and E. L. Doheny, oil magnate, standing trial for conspiracy, drew near today, when, after 20 days or more or less sensational testimony, the defense rested and rebuttal began.

Soon after the day's session began, Frank J. Hogan and Wilton J. Lambert, chief of defense counsel, formally announced they had completed the presentation of their case.

The first defense angle Roberts attacked was the alleged "secrecy agreement" between Fall and former Admiral J. K. Robison, whereby the latter was to have withheld information from members of congress about the leasing activities in the naval oil reserves.

Robison's Letters Read.

Over defense objection, he read to the jury letters Roison had written to three congressmen in 1922, in answer to their requests for information.

Robison had stated it was to be the government's policy to keep drilling activities "as low as practicable," adding that offsets wells were to be sunk only where private wells were located directly across the border.

Roberts then offered the minutes of a navy council meeting at which Secretary of the Navy Denby said:

"This oil leasing business is both difficult and dangerous. It is full of dynamite, and I don't want to have anything to do with it."

have quite a lengthy docket at Steubenville and cannot say for a certainty when either of these two cases will be considered."

Ruling in the case of Anderson, twice convicted for manslaughter and under sentence of a term of from four years and eight months to 20 years in the penitentiary, was to have been handed down at the Harrison county term of court at Cadiz during the week of November 29, but because of the absence of Judge James Roberts of Ashtabula county, who was called to Cincinnati by the serious illness of his sister, the decision was deferred. Ruling in the Fultz case was to have been made at St. Clairsville this week.

Judge Roberts returned from Cincinnati this week and assisted in the Belmont county cases at St. Clairsville.

The Jefferson county session is the last scheduled for this year, although an extra session may be necessary. The first session in 1927 will be held in Ashtabula county during the last week in January.

"Wooster Day," Marking 1901 Fire, Is Observed Here

Dr. C. H. Bailey, of this city, was a student at Wooster college when the "Old Main," four-story building in which all classes were held, was destroyed by fire on December 11, 1901, just 25 years ago today.

The Presbyterian college then had an enrollment of 229 students, Dr. Bailey being a member of the class of 1904. The origin of the fire, causing a loss estimated at $250,000 with but $60,000 worth of insurance, was never determined.

To commemorate the fire, "Wooster Day" is being celebrated throughout the country today. This day was first celebrated in 1921 when a movement was started under the direction of John D. McKee, alumni secretary, and since then it has been an annual affair.

REVIVAL MEET CLOSES SUNDAY

Rev. O. A. Newlin Will Speak at Three Services.

"Goodbye, Lord! See you next Sunday in church if it is not too nice to go out in the car," is the mental attitude that epitomizes many so called Christians these days," affirmed Rev. O. A. Newlin, of Winona Lake, Ind., in an unequivocal resume of the responsibilities of parents in teaching Scriptural truths in their homes, at the First United Presbyterian revival last evening.

With teachers flanking their classes and many seated together "Sabbath School Night" as the occasion was arranged, fulfilled its purpose in greatly increased attendance.

With one day of the campaign remaining, the three services Sunday are certain to attract crowds in every instance. At all three meetings Rev. Mr. Newlin will speak. In the morning at 11 o'clock his theme will be, "A Royal Exhortation;" in the afternoon at 3 o'clock he will conclude his sermon began last Sunday afternoon on "The Triumphal Climax." His concluding message at 7:30 o'clock in the evening will be on the subject, "Crossing the Bar."

Following the usual song service Prof. John C. Ussher and Emmet Gaston, accompanied by the church organist, Miss Adda McLain, sang "My Soul Panteth for Thee." After a period of "silent prayers" Rev. L. J. Davison, the pastor, made the invocation.

Taking cognizance of the presence of many Sunday school pupils Rev Mr. Newlin paid a tribute to the Bible as the text book which they study. He deprecated the small amount of time available but 52 times in a year to its consideration in the average churches.

Infielder Bohne Released.

NEW YORK, Dec. 11.—Sammy Bohne, utility infielder of the Brooklyn Dodgers during the 1926 season, has been released outright to the Minneapolis club of the American association, it was announced today by Brooklyn officials.

STATE CALLS 40 WITNESSES FOR TRIAL OF PAT M'DERMOTT

Coroner and Mellett's Widow to Testify Monday.

KASCHOLK STAR

Prosecution Hints Surprise Testimony May be Offered.

By Paul E. Brokaw.

CANTON, O., Dec. 11.—The first of approximately 40 witnesses who will be relied upon by the state of Ohio to convict Patrick E. McDermott, of the murder of Don R. Mellett, publisher of the Canton Daily News, were to be subpoenaed today.

Coroner T. C. McQuate and Mrs. Mellett, widow of the slain man, and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Vail, who were in the Mellett home when the editor was slain last July, were to be the first ones subpoenaed, it was announced.

It is known that the state will depend largely the stories of Steve Kascholk, Nanty Glo, Pa., miner, and Peggy Cavanaugh, pretty Cleveland waitress and girl friend of the dapper Pat.

Surprise Witness.

McClintock, indicated today that one surprise witness, whose name has never figured in the case, might offer testimony that would eclipse Kascholk's tale—as far as sensational revelations are concerned.

The state's attorney refused to identify the surprise witness or even hint at the possible trend of the testimony he will offer. Ora Slater, Cincinnati detective, several Canton policemen, who went to the Mellett home shortly after the murder was reported, and perhaps one or two newspapermen, were also expected to be included in the list of state's witnesses.

With the court adjourned until Monday, the light of interest in the case shifted temporarily to Laredo, Texas, where a man who claims knowledge of the Mellett murder was being held.

The man, Jack Lopez, thought possibly to be a brother-in-law of Carl Studer, underworld "dandy" now under a prison sentence, was taken by immigration authorities in the Lone Star state yesterday, according to reports reaching police officials here from Texas authorities.

County Prosecutor C. B. McClintock did not place much credence in the story of Lopez but was awaiting further word of any additional developments on the matter.

KENNETH ORMISTON FIGHTS MOVE TO EXTRADITE HIM

LOS ANGELES RADIO MAN IS IN CHICAGO

TRIAL WITNESS

"Keyes Wont Get Me Back to California," He Says.

CHICAGO, Dec. 11.—Kenneth G. Ormiston will fight extradition to California, it was announced today by Attorney Edward H. S. Martin following a conference with the one-time radio operator of Angelus Temple.

"Ormiston cannot be arrested until warrants, accompanied by copies of the indictments against him, reach Chicago," said Martin. "When he is arrested he will give bond and fight his removal to Los Angeles."

Martin declared Ormiston flatly denied that Mrs. McPherson was his sweetheart or that he spent ten days with her in a Carmel, Calif., cottage.

CHICAGO, Dec. 11.—Kenneth G. Ormiston, long sought radio operator wanted at Los Angeles in connection with the Aimee Semple McPherson case, was an interesting "visitor" in Chicago today.

The elusive former broadcaster at Aimee's Angelus Temple reached here last night from Harrisburg, Pa., where he was discovered last Wednesday, living under an assumed name, by a Chicago reporter and two detectives. Ormiston was induced to return with his "captors" to Chicago.

Immediately upon his arrival here, Ormiston went into conference with his attorney, Edward H. S. Martin. During the consultation it was decided that Ormiston will fight every effort to extradite him to California where he is under indictment charging subordination of perjury and conspiracy to defeat justice.

Extradition papers already are being prepared in Los Angeles, where Ormiston is wanted as a vital witness in the McPherson case now pending before the courts, according to telegrams from that city today.

Ormiston and the woman evangelist stand accused of having occupied a cottage at Carmel-By-the-Sea during the time Mrs. McPherson claims she was held by kidnapers in Mexico. Ormiston admits occupying the cottage, but claims his companion was not Mrs. McPherson, but a mysterious "Mrs. X."

After the conference with his attorney, Ormiston determined just how much he will tell about his association with Mrs. McPherson if District Attorney Asa Keyes of Los Angeles succeeds in obtaining an extradition order.

"But Keyes won't get me back to California," Ormiston said defiantly. "I don't believe he wants me back there. He hasn't proper material on which to base an extradition request. Keyes and his associates can't prove any crime against me. I have done nothing wrong and have nothing to fear."

It was decided at the conference that if a warrant for Ormiston is received here he will post a cash bond immediately. He will maintain headquarters here until the McPherson case is disposed of.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKETS

NEW YORK, Dec. 11.—Responding to the week-end reports of a broad expansion in retail trade throughout the country, and the ability of the market to maintain the higher price ranges established this week, stocks showed every evidence of improvement in the short session of the market today.

The railroad stocks swung along in the upward movement inaugurated on Friday, while copper stocks and motors reached the highest price level of the week in some sections in active trading, in which the outside public were reported to have participated. A slightly better tone was in evidence in the better grade of oil stocks, including the Standard oils and a few of the prominent independents which have figured in the favorable news dispatches of the week.

Continental Baking class A jumped 5½ points to 72 on its first sale as a result of the action of the directors in declaring the regular $2 quarterly dividend this completes a 14-point rally from the low of the week, the stock having dropped to 58 on the "bear rumors" of an impending cut in the dividend rate.

Chile was a leader in the copper stocks, advancing 1 ¼ to 36 1-4 on reports that the outstanding $35,000,000 of convertible 6 per cent debentures would be called and retired at 110 and accrued interest in April. Anaconda and American smelting were strong and active. Universal Pipe common was a feature in the specialities, with large scale buying above 30.

TREE-TRIMMING NECESSARY IN PHONE SERVICE

Leaves and Branches Affect Communication, Says H. C. Hyatt.

PLANT MEETING

Ohio Bell Supervisor Launches Educational Campaign.

"It was not until I joined the telephone company that I learned that leaves or branches touching telephone wires make telephonic communication bad and at times impossible."

The speaker was Harry C. Hyatt, of Cleveland, a plant supervisor for the Ohio Bell Telephone company, addressing a meeting of plant employes at the company's East Liverpool office.

The meeting signified the launching in East Liverpool of an educational program to teach telephone employes the scientific methods of tree-trimming, the objective being to keep trees and shrubbery from damaging contact with telephone lines and doing this work in such a way that it will not interfere with the natural growth.

Harry C. Hyatt

Classes in tree-trimming are being held through the company's territory. Speakers last night included Hyatt, who was formerly city forester of Cleveland, and F. C. Mohr, of Cleveland, Ohio Bell toll maintenance supervisor. Several employes from other wire-using companies in East Liverpool, Wellsville and the vicinity were present.

Conductor of Electricity.

"Before joining the telephone company I did not know of the damage to telephone service caused by leaves and branches touching the wires, although I have devoted my life to the study of horticulture," said Hyatt.

"A living tree, owing to the liquid sap in its branches, leaves and trunk, is a good conductor of electricity. When it is wet from rain or snow it is an even better conductor.

"When every one in Ohio knows that, realizing how important telephones are in daily life, and knows that when we trim their trees they will be trimmed as well as the highest paid so-called expert or tree surgeon could do the work, then our problem will be simpler.

"There are instances where it would be good business for us to pay the property owners to move their trees back. In such cases, we explain to them that their trees can't mature, we can't dodge them, and will pay them for the work of moving the trees.

"If property owners will grant us permission to trim their trees, we will trim them properly, as correctly as it is possible to trim them. Recently a great deal of experiment and development has been done along the lines of tree surgery, or arborculture. We want to standardize our tree-trimming methods throughout the state, so that our work will be of the highest type and along the latest scientific lines."

NEXT SATURDAY IS BUNDLE DAY

Boy Scouts Will Collect Cast Off Clothing, Toys.

Next Saturday will be "Bundle and Toy Day" for the Salvation Army.

Cast off clothing for men, women and children, so long as it is not too badly worn, and toys wil be collected by Boy Scouts and turned over to the Salvation Army for distribution.

Plans for the campaign were discussed at a meeting of representatives of the American Red Cross, Salvation Army and city officials, in the Chamber of Commerce rooms last evening. The meeting, called by Mayor Ralph Benedum, was to discuss plans for Christmas relief and also to take steps to prevent duplication of Yuletide relief activities. Rev. A. H. O'Brien, chairman of the Red Cross executive committee, presided.

An effort is being made to arrange for a clearing house at which various organizations participating in relief work will list the names of families securing assistance.

Another session will be held at the Chamber of Commerce rooms at 7 o'clock next Tuesday evening, which representatives of the B. P. O. Elks, Moose, Eagles and other lodges, church organizations and individuals, engaging in relief work will be invited to attend.

HEALTH SEAL SALE NEAR END

School Pupils to Submit Reports Next Week.

Reports on the sale of Christmas health seals by East Liverpool school children this week are expected to be made to Mrs. Louis Steinfeld, seal committee chairman, early next week. Pupils in the public and parochial schools collected approximately $800 last year.

Funds derived from the sale of seals here are being used in helping to pay the salary of Mrs. R. H. Leeper, public health nurse, Mrs. Steinfeld said. Mrs. Leeper devotes part of her time in looking after persons afflicted or threatened with the white plague. She is now assisting in arranging for the chest clinic which will be held at the Baptist church next Tuesday when contact cases will be examined by physicians from Youngstown and Mt. To commemorate the fire, "Wooster Day" is being celebrated throughout the country today. This day was first celebrated in 1921 when a movement was started under the direction of John D. McKee, alumni secretary, and since then it has been an annual affair.

REVIVAL MEET CLOSES SUNDAY

Rev. O. A. Newlin Will Speak at Three Services.

"Goodbye, Lord! See you next Sunday in church if it is not too nice to go out in the car," is the mental attitude that epitomizes many so called Christians these days," affirmed Rev. O. A. Newlin, of Winona Lake, Ind., in an unequivocal resume of the responsibilities of parents in teaching Scriptural truths in their homes, at the First United Presbyterian revival last evening.

With teachers flanking their classes and many seated together "Sabbath School Night" as the occasion was arranged, fulfilled its purpose in greatly increased attendance.

With one day of the campaign remaining, the three services Sunday are certain to attract crowds in every instance. At all three meetings Rev. Mr. Newlin will speak. In the morning at 11 o'clock his theme will be, "A Royal Exhortation;" in the afternoon at 3 o'clock he will conclude his sermon began last Sunday afternoon on "The Triumphal Climax." His concluding message at 7:30 o'clock in the evening will be on the subject, "Crossing the Bar."

Following the usual song service Prof. John C. Ussher and Emmet Gaston, accompanied by the church organist, Miss Adda McLain, sang "My Soul Panteth for Thee." After a period of "silent prayers" Rev. L. J. Davison, the pastor, made the invocation.

Taking cognizance of the presence of many Sunday school pupils Rev Mr. Newlin paid a tribute to the Bible as the text book which they study. He deprecated the small amount of time available but 52 times in a year to its consideration in the average churches.

STATE CALLS 40 WITNESSES FOR TRIAL OF PAT M'DERMOTT

Coroner and Mellett's Widow to Testify Monday.

KASCHOLK STAR

Prosecution Hints Surprise Testimony May be Offered.

By Paul E. Brokaw.

CANTON, O., Dec. 11.—The first of approximately 40 witnesses who will be relied upon by the state of Ohio to convict Patrick E. McDermott, of the murder of Don R. Mellett, publisher of the Canton Daily News, were to be subpoenaed today.

Coroner T. C. McQuate and Mrs. Mellett, widow of the slain man, and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Vail, who were in the Mellett home when the editor was slain last July, were to be the first ones subpoenaed, it was announced.

It is known that the state will depend largely the stories of Steve Kascholk, Nanty Glo, Pa., miner, and Peggy Cavanaugh, pretty Cleveland waitress and girl friend of the dapper Pat.

Surprise Witness.

McClintock, indicated today that one surprise witness, whose name has never figured in the case, might offer testimony that would eclipse Kascholk's tale—as far as sensational revelations are concerned.

The state's attorney refused to identify the surprise witness or even hint at the possible trend of the testimony he will offer. Ora Slater, Cincinnati detective, several Canton policemen, who went to the Mellett home shortly after the murder was reported, and perhaps one or two newspapermen, were also expected to be included in the list of state's witnesses.

With the court adjourned until Monday, the light of interest in the case shifted temporarily to Laredo, Texas, where a man who claims knowledge of the Mellett murder was being held.

The man, Jack Lopez, thought possibly to be a brother-in-law of Carl Studer, underworld "dandy" now under a prison sentence, was taken by immigration authorities in the Lone Star state yesterday, according to reports reaching police officials here from Texas authorities.

County Prosecutor C. B. McClintock did not place much credence in the story of Lopez but was awaiting further word of any additional developments on the matter.

BLACKSTONE'S KING OF MAGIC

Great Showman Closes Ceramic Engagement Today.

Herrman and Keller were remarkable exponents of the magic art but today it is almost universally conceded that the palm of 'foremost magician of the world' must be awarded to Harry Blackstone, who closes his engagement at the Ceramic.

Blackstone is a great showman. His dynamic personality is felt as he appears on the stage and during the whole of his performance he grips you with that compelling magnetism which makes you believe you are being taken into his confidence and that you are to learn his precious secrets, only to realize at the finish that you have been utterly mystified and astounded by his extraordinary cleverness.

Audiences marvel at the sensational illusion of "The Bride's Chamber," the Vanishing Horse" and his latest spectacular effect, "Broadcasting a Woman," all of which are carried out and shown with more than the usual detail and scenic effects. Blackstone carries a wealth of scenery, a company of 25 artists and assistants as well as flocks of pigeons and ducks, and a horse. He offers an entertainment of the highest order, varied to suit the taste of the most blase theatre-goer.

RECORD IS MADE BY FARM CLUBS

Eighty and three-tenths percent, or 22,675 of the 28,229 boys and girls finished the task they started last spring as members of 4-H clubs in Ohio. The national average for club completions last year was less than 60 percent, according to County Agent Floyd Lower.

Mr. Lower stated that in Columbiana county 430 boys and girls enrolled last spring and 305 or 70.9 percent, finished their project at the county fair exhibit last September. The enrollment for the state was larger this year by 3,578 than last year, Mr. Lower pointed out. In the 88 counties in the state interested in this 4-H club work, Columbiana county held 15th place.

Damage Case Dismissed.

The $10,000 automobile damage case that has been pending in common pleas court since Sept. 1st, 1924, has been dismissed on the motion of Ralph Wolf, the plaintiff in the case against James Heckathorne. Judgment for the costs in this action has been rendered against Wolf. The action was the outgrowth of an automobile accident wherein the plaintiff claimed he was injured.

FOUR DIVORCE DECREES GRANTED

The divorce action pending in common pleas court since May 12 last wherein Helen E. Robinson sought a decree of divorce from her husband, Donald Robinson, has been finally disposed of by the court granting the plaintiff a decree on the grounds of extreme cruelty and gross neglect of duty. The matter of alimony has been agreed to by counsel. The custody of minors has been awarded the plaintiff.

On the grounds of gross neglect of duty, a decree of divorce has been granted Rose Whitaker against her husband, John A. Whitaker. Judgment for costs in this case has been entered against the plaintiff.

Wilful absence for over a period of three years was charged against Charles Edwin Williams in the divorce petition filed against him Oct. 15th last by his wife, Floy Williams. She has also been restored to her maiden name, that of Floy Bruner.

Extreme cruelty and gross neglect of duty were the grounds upon which Judge Lones has granted Frances R. Holcomb a decree of divorce against her husband, Frederick R. Holcomb, the original petition having been filed Sept. 24 last.

Custody of minors in this action was awarded the plaintiff, and Holcomb has been ordered by the court to pay $10 per week for the support of the children, this payment to begin Dec. 10th.

Sheep Claims Paid.

Checks totaling $4,593.40 were mailed from the county auditors' office Saturday in the settlement of sheep and animal claims as recently approved by the county commissioners. Other claims will also be paid before the close of the year, it has been announced.

DIVORCE RULING IS DEFERRED

A temporary order of injunction has been issued by the court in the divorce action filed in common pleas court by Mrs. Lucy Tucker against her husband, Dallas Tucker, under the prayer of the petition, and without bond on the part of the plaintiff.

In the divorce action there has been a trial of the case to the court, but a decision has been reserved until Dec. 17. This action was filed in common pleas court Oct. 23, last.

Divorce Granted.

On the grounds of gross neglect of duty, a decree of divorce has been granted by Judge W. F. Lones to Joseph F. Clunk against his wife, Mildred L. Clunk, the petition being made a matter of record Oct. 21 last. In this case the court has ordered the plaintiff to pay the costs.

RECORD IS MADE BY FARM CLUBS

Eighty and three-tenths percent, or 22,675 of the 28,229 boys and girls finished the task they started last spring as members of 4-H clubs in Ohio. The national average for club completions last year was less than 60 percent, according to County Agent Floyd Lower.

Mr. Lower stated that in Columbiana county 430 boys and girls enrolled last spring and 305 or 70.9 percent, finished their project at the county fair exhibit last September. The enrollment for the state was larger this year by 3,578 than last year, Mr. Lower pointed out. In the 88 counties in the state interested in this 4-H club work, Columbiana county held 15th place.

Damage Case Dismissed.

The $10,000 automobile damage case that has been pending in common pleas court since Sept. 1st, 1924, has been dismissed on the motion of Ralph Wolf, the plaintiff in the case against James Heckathorne. Judgment for the costs in this action has been rendered against Wolf. The action was the outgrowth of an automobile accident wherein the plaintiff claimed he was injured.

FOUR DIVORCE DECREES GRANTED

The divorce action pending in common pleas court since May 12 last wherein Helen E. Robinson sought a decree of divorce from her husband, Donald Robinson, has been finally disposed of by the court granting the plaintiff a decree on the grounds of extreme cruelty and gross neglect of duty. The matter of alimony has been agreed to by counsel. The custody of minors has been awarded the plaintiff.

On the grounds of gross neglect of duty, a decree of divorce has been granted Rose Whitaker against her husband, John A. Whitaker. Judgment for costs in this case has been entered against the plaintiff.

Wilful absence for over a period of three years was charged against Charles Edwin Williams in the divorce petition filed against him Oct. 15th last by his wife, Floy Williams. She has also been restored to her maiden name, that of Floy Bruner.

Extreme cruelty and gross neglect of duty were the grounds upon which Judge Lones has granted Frances R. Holcomb a decree of divorce against her husband, Frederick R. Holcomb, the original petition having been filed Sept. 24 last.

Custody of minors in this action was awarded the plaintiff, and Holcomb has been ordered by the court to pay $10 per week for the support of the children, this payment to begin Dec. 10th.

Sheep Claims Paid.

Checks totaling $4,593.40 were mailed from the county auditors' office Saturday in the settlement of sheep and animal claims as recently approved by the county commissioners. Other claims will also be paid before the close of the year, it has been announced.

DIVORCE RULING IS DEFERRED

A temporary order of injunction has been issued by the court in the divorce action filed in common pleas court by Mrs. Lucy Tucker against her husband, Dallas Tucker, under the prayer of the petition, and without bond on the part of the plaintiff.

In the divorce action there has been a trial of the case to the court, but a decision has been reserved until Dec. 17. This action was filed in common pleas court Oct. 23, last.

Divorce Granted.

On the grounds of gross neglect of duty, a decree of divorce has been granted by Judge W. F. Lones to Joseph F. Clunk against his wife, Mildred L. Clunk, the petition being made a matter of record Oct. 21 last. In this case the court has ordered the plaintiff to pay the costs.

Highs Complete Plans For Two-Game Trip To Cleveland

Will Battle Rocky River And Marshall In Opening Clashes

Ten-man Squad, in Charge of Coach N. F. Lorah and Faculty Manager Decker Will Make Trip, Leaving Next Friday Morning; Squad Shows Form in Workouts.

WITH less than a week of practice days intervening before the first clash of the campaign, high school's court squad is rapidly rounding into shape for what is expected to be an exceptionally good season. In charge of Coach N. F. Lorah, who has been assisted in recent days by Bill Watkins, Tri-State referee, the Blue squad has been performing diligently and results of its efforts thus far indicate that Captain Jimmy Hamilton will lead one of the most efficient outfits in recent years.

According to present arrangements, both Pusey and Larkins will play the floor with Todd dropping back to defensive guard. This outfit forms one of the most balanced squads in several years, with every man a potential scorer; plenty of speed and a strong defense trio in Larkins, Todd and Pusey.

The opening of the campaign will find the Blue in action at Cleveland on a two-game trip next Friday and Saturday, playing John Marshall in the first tilt and Rocky River in the second.

A 10-man squad will make the trip, it was announced today, in charge of Coach Lorah and Faculty Manager Decker, and the following players: Hamilton, McKeever, Todd, Larkins, Pusey, Deidrick, English, Wilblood and McConville, accompanied by Manager Bill Swaney. The team will leave next Friday morning in automobiles.

Outfits—10 in all—arrived here yesterday. The team will be clad in white jerseys, trimmed in blue, with "Liverpool" diagonally across the front; and white trunks, trimmed in blue. The sweat jerseys will be blue, with white trimming, adorned with an eight-inch "L."

Jerseys and other equipment used by the varsity last season will be given over to the Reserves who will play out a regular schedule this winter.

INSIDE GOLF

By CHESTER HORTON,
Maker of 51 Golf Champions.
"Golf's most successful teacher," says "Chick" Evans.

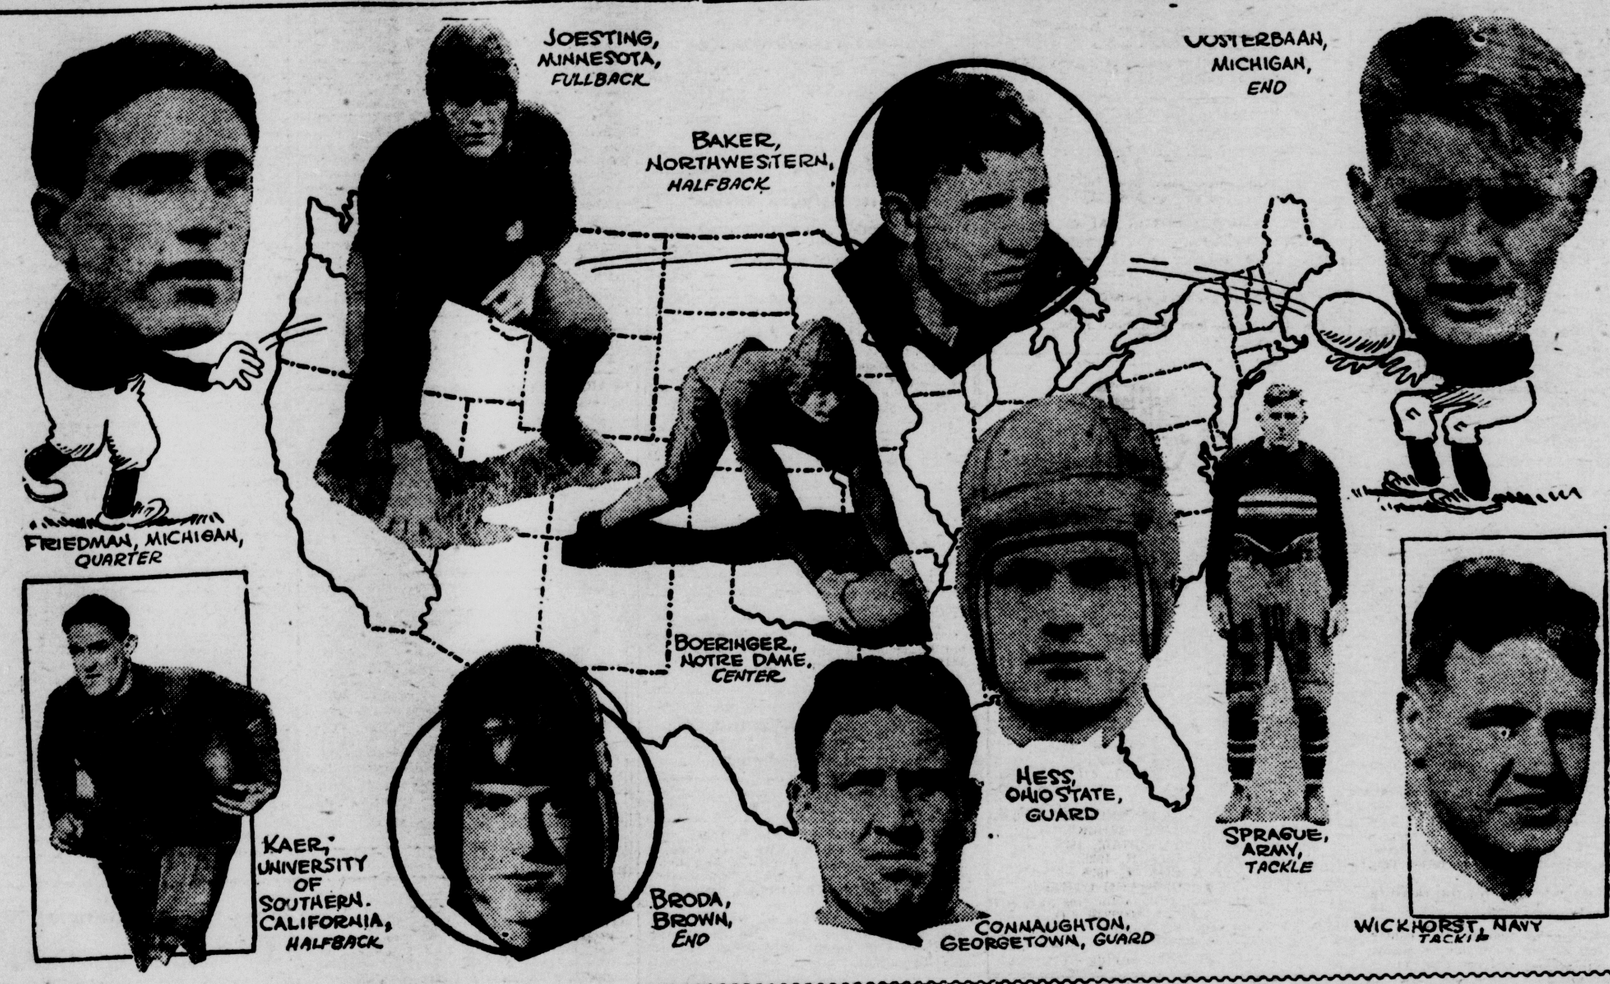

Now we will observe the effect of a right grip on the right arm in the back swing. You can readily demonstrate this by taking a club and trying out what I shall here detail for you. With the right hand tucked up close against the left, so that the V of the right thumb and forefinger are directly in front of the V of the left humb and forefinger, and both pointing slightly to the right of your face, you will note as you start the club back that the natural tendency of the right forearm is to keep tucked in close to the side. If anything the right hand pushes forward against the left hand, instead of pulling backward and upward. Then, as you sweep the club upward the right elbow keeps its place—pointing to the ground—and ultimately you find it—at the top of the back swing—directly under the shaft, the forearm pointing straight down and the elbow out, say, six or eight inches from the side. This is correct position. Now try it over again, and this time take the wrong grip with the right hand, letting the wrist point directly away from the shaft, the right palm not touching the left thumb. Then observe where your right arm goes to in the back swing, and note how easily it slips in back of you and out of correct position.

Stanford Eleven To be Togged Out With Silk Pants

PALO ALTO, Calif., Dec. 11.—Following the innovation by Purdue and Notre Dame, the Stanford football squad will wear silk football pants henceforth. The new equipment will probably be used when the Cardinals play Alabama at Pasadena on New Year's day, it was revealed today.

Over Million Grid Fans Picked This All-American Eleven

CLEVELAND, Dec. 11.—Announcement was made today of the final results of the first All-American football team selected by over a million football fans throughout the country. The poll was conducted through the medium of 400 newspapers, clients of the Central Press association, under the supervision of Norman E. Brown, sports authority.

And the poll shows these facts to be true:

That the American football fan knows his game. He is familiar with it wherever played, from the upper Peninsula of Michigan to the skirts of the everglade region in Florida.

That the fans themselves were glad of a chance not only to have a hand in selecting the real All-American eleven, but were confident they could do it as evidence by the flood of ballots.

That sentiment is not sectional, that is, fans in any given part of the country have a fair perspective on the outstanding figures of the other sections.

That the fan gets as much pleasure, and probably more satisfaction out of making up his own All-American than he does in reading the opinions of a single expert or a group of experts.

That the quick and efficient coverage by the newspapers of the games in all parts of the country is appreciated and digested by these fans.

ALTMANS BOW TO ROSELAWNS

Clothiers Lose Three Straight in Liberty Matches.

Roselawn bowlers of the Liberty Duck league copped three in a row from the Altmans in last night's matches, the Clothiers giving their foes a run for their money at that. Wurtzell, of the Roselawns, was high with a score of 427 for the series.

The Standing:

	W.	L.	Pct.
Chryslers	11	1	.917
Smith News	5	4	.555
Bankers	6	6	.500
Turk Nash	4	5	.444
Roselawns	5	7	.417
Altmans	2	10	.167

Monday—Altmans vs Smith News.
Tuesday—Roselawns vs Turk-Nash.
Friday—Chryslers vs Bankers.

Next week's contests will complete the first quarter of play in the circuit. The teams will play around then once more to complete the first half, after which play will be started all over. Winners of the second half season will clash with the first section champs for the title.

Fred Adams established a new duck pin mark for the Christmas award by rolling 222 last night, topping the previous mark of 218 held by Bill Welch. Nate Simms still is high in tenpins with a score of 245.

SCHALK SEEKS SECOND SACKER

That, in effect, was the S. O. S. of Schalk when he let it be known today that he is in the market for an all-around, A-number one, second sacker.

Ray Morehart, who alternated with former Manager Eddie Collins on second base last season, is a polished fielder, Schalk said, but is a little light at bat.

Aaron Ward, of the Yankees, Schalk said, is the man he would like to have, but when Col. Ruppert talked of trading him only for Ted Lyons, ace of the White Sox pitching staff, the hose pilot declared the deal was "all off."

Fight Results

Sammy Vogel, of New York, won decision over Clicky Clark, of Holyoke, Mass., eight rounds.

AT GRAND RAPIDS, Mich.—Mike McTigue, former light-heavyweight champion, knocked out John (Soldier) King of Grand Rapids, in the fourth round.

DELANEY PLANS WINTER DRIVE

Although he had been out of the ring for some time because of an injury, the champion outclassed his colored opponent from the start and knocked him out in the third round of their scheduled 15-round bout.

Delaney floored the "Kid" four times in the final round and won after 1 minute 13 2-5 seconds of fighting. A right to the jaw was the finishing blow.

MEHLHORN SETS TOURNEY PACE

Only Entry to Make Par in Monterey Open.

DEL MONTE, Cal., Dec. 11.—Strangely quiet, "Wild Bill" Mehlhorn, of Chicago, who once showed a penchant for climbing trees during golf tournaments, today was out in front in the Monterey Peninsula open, with the pleasing prospect of cashing in on a portion of the $5,000 prize money.

Mehlhorn was the only golfer to make par on the pebble beach course yesterday. He made the first 18 holes in 72 strokes, leading his fellow townsman, Al Espinosa, by one stroke. Hutt Martin, of Los Angeles, also had a 73.

Willie Hunter, of Los Angeles, Bobby Cruickshank, of New York, and Curley Hueston, of Seattle, were in a triple tie, each taking 74 strokes. One stroke behind them came Jack Hart, of Fresno; Bert Wilde, Washington; Johnny Golden, New York; Tommy Armour, Washington; Cyril Walker, Harry Cooper, Al Watrous and Charley Guest.

The final 18 holes will be played today.

More Value than the Price Suggests

Yet during this period more important improvements were incorporated than in any year in Dodge Brothers history. Advances were made in engineering and body designs. The cars possess a greater degree of smoothness, silence and ease. They are more comfortable, more beautiful.

Current prices — made possible, of course, by constantly mounting sales — are therefore not an obvious measure of value. Prices, in fact, have never told the full story of Dodge Brothers dependability and basic worth.

But now, more than ever before, there is far more value than the price suggests.

Maker of 51 Golf Champions.
"Golf's most successful teacher," says "Chick" Evans.

Now we will observe the effect of a right grip on the right arm in the back swing. You can readily demonstrate this by taking a club and trying out what I shall here detail for you. With the right hand tucked up close against the left, so that the V of the right thumb and forefinger are directly in front of the V of the left humb and forefiner, and both pointing slightly to the ight of your face, you will note as you start the club back that the natural tenden y of the right forearm is to keep tucked in close to the side. If anything the right hand pushes forward against the left hand, instead of pulling backward and upward. Then, as you sweep the club upward the right elbow keeps its place—pointing to the ground—and ultimately you find it—at the top of the back swing—directly under the shaft, the forearm pointing straight down and the elbow out, say, six or eight inches from the side. This is correct position. Now try it over again, and this time take the wrong grip with the right hand, letting the wrist point directly away from the shaft, the right palm not touching the left thumb. Then observe where your right arm goes to in the back swing, and note how easily it slips in back of you and out of correct position.

Over Million Grid Fans Picked This All-American Eleven

CLEVELAND, Dec. 11.—Announcement was made today of the final results of the first All-American football team selected by over a million football fans throughout the country. The poll was conducted through the medium of 400 newspapers, clients of the Central Press association, under the supervision of Norman E. Brown, sports authority.

And the poll shows these facts to be true:

That the American football fan knows his game. He is familiar with it wherever played, from the upper Peninsula of Michigan to the skirts of the everglade region in Florida.

That the fans themselves were glad of a chance not only to have a hand in selecting the real All-American eleven, but were confident they could do it as evidence by the flood of ballots.

That sentiment is not sectional, that is, fans in any given part of the country have a fair perspective on the outstanding figures of the other sections.

That the fan gets as much pleasure, and probably more satisfaction out of making up his own All-American than he does in reading the opinions of a single expert or a group of experts.

That the quick and efficient coverage by the newspapers of the games in all parts of the country is appreciated and digested by these fans.

ALTMANS BOW TO ROSELAWNS

Clothiers Lose Three Straight in Liberty Matches.

Roselawn bowlers of the Liberty Duck league copped three in a row from the Altmans in last night's matches, the Clothiers giving their foes a run for their money at that. Wurtzell, of the Roselawns, was high with a score of 427 for the series.

The Standing:

	W.	L.	Pct.
Chryslers	11	1	.917
Smith News	5	4	.555
Bankers	6	6	.500
Turk Nash	4	5	.444
Roselawns	5	7	.417
Altmans	2	10	.167

Monday—Altmans vs Smith News.
Friday—Chrysters vs Bankers.

Next week's contests will complete the first quarter of play in the circuit. The teams will play around then once more to complete the first half, after which play will be started all over. Winners of the second half season will clash with the first section champs for the title.

Fred Adams established a new duck pin mark for the Christmas award by rolling 222 last night, topping the previous mark of .218 held by Bill Welch. Nate Simms still is high in tenpins with a score of 245.

SCHALK SEEKS SECOND SACKER

That, in effect, was the S. O. S. of Schalk when he let it be known today that he is in the market for an all-around, A-number one, second sacker.

Ray Morehart, who alternated with former Manager Eddie Collins on second base last season, is a polished fielder, Schalk said, but is a little light at bat.

Aaron Ward, of the Yankees, Schalk said, is the man he would like to have, but when Col. Ruppert talked of trading him only for Ted Lyons, ace of the White Sox pitching staff, the hose pilot declared the deal was "all off."

Fight Results

Sammy Vogel, of New York, won decision over Clicky Clark, of Holyoke, Mass., eight rounds.

AT GRAND RAPIDS, Mich.—Mike McTigue, former light-heavyweight champion, knocked out John (Soldier) King of Grand Rapids, in the fourth round.

DELANEY PLANS WINTER DRIVE

Although he had been out of the ring for some time because of an injury, the champion outclassed his colored opponent from the start and knocked him out in the third round of their scheduled 15-round bout.

Delaney floored the "Kid" four times in the final round and won after 1 minute 13 2-5 seconds of fighting. A right to the jaw was the finishing blow.

MEHLHORN SETS TOURNEY PACE

Only Entry to Make Par in Monterey Open.

DEL MONTE, Cal., Dec. 11.—Strangely quiet, "Wild Bill" Mehlhorn, of Chicago, who once showed a penchant for climbing trees during golf tournaments, today was out in front in the Monterey Peninsula open, with the pleasing prospect of cashing in on a portion of the $5,000 prize money.

Mehlhorn was the only golfer to make par on the pebble beach course yesterday. He made the first 18 holes in 72 strokes, leading his fellow townsman, Al Espinosa, by one stroke. Hutt Martin, of Los Angeles, also had a 73.

Willie Hunter, of Los Angeles, Bobby Cruickshank, of New York, and Curley Hueston, of Seattle, were in a triple tie, each taking 74 strokes. One stroke behind them came Jack Hart, of Fresno; Bert Wilde, Washington; Johnny Golden, New York; Tommy Armour, Washington; Cyril Walker, Harry Cooper, Al Watrous and Charley Guest.

The final 18 holes will be played today.

More Value than the Price Suggests

Yet during this period more important improvements were incorporated than in any year in Dodge Brothers history. Advances were made in engineering and body designs. The cars possess a greater degree of smoothness, silence and ease. They are more comfortable, more beautiful.

Current prices — made possible, of course, by constantly mounting sales — are therefore not an obvious measure of value. Prices, in fact, have never told the full story of Dodge Brothers dependability and basic worth.

But now, more than ever before, there is far more value than the price suggests.

CLAIM BONDS COST $125,000

Committee of Citizens Cites Points in School Election.

The following statement relative to the proposed school bond issue of $60,000 to be voted on at a special election next Tuesday, was issued today by a committee of Chester citizens:

"The school board asks for a bond issue of $60,000 that will cost tax payers over $125,000, including interest. These improvements provide for an assembly room, auditorium, gymnasium and athletic field, and do not provide for much needed class rooms or paring present indebtedness on the present high school building.

"The bond issue if carried will exhaust the school district's borrowing capacity. What are we to do in the very near future with no class rooms provided?

"The board of education has attempted to fix this levy for 1927 taxes at this time. This is clearly illegal as the law provides the fixing of these levies in July, 1927, when they have all the facts before them—and they do not have these facts before them at this time and they threaten you with an increase in taxes for 1927 if you do not vote them the $60,000.

"If we pass the bond issue are we not sacrificing necessities for the grade pupils in order to provide luxuries for high school athletics?

"Mr. Renter you are interested, as increased taxes means increased rents. One prominent landlord who favors the bond issue has made the remark openly, "I will increase my rents if the bond issues carries." Don't do something in the voting booth Tuesday that you will have cause to regret for the next 25 years, beginning in 1928.

"Now voters think when you go to the polls to vote on Tuesday, December 14."

Stop Coughing—Very Quickly Effective.

Here is the basic reason why, without opiates or chloroform, Foley's Honey and Tar Compound stops coughs so quickly and heals the distressing cause. Because it combines the curative virtues of pure Pine Tar and other healing ingredients, together with the mollifying demulcent effect of clear fresh Honey—a valuable combination. Coughs and throat irritations bronchial and "flu" coughs, croup (spasmodic) and troublesome night coughs are quickly controlled by Foley's Honey and Tar. The name tells the story. Ask for it. INDIAN MEDICINE INCREASES MAN'S WEIGHT QUICKLY

Erie Restaurant Proprietor Comes Out With a Joyous Message.

To increase your weight there is nothing quite as good as Redwood's Tepee Tonic, which contains upwards of fifty different kinds of rare roots, barks and herbs, is the claim of many thousands who have used this medicine.

Redwood

Nick Poppas, 152 E. Tenth St., Erie, Penna., says: "My stomach had too much acid in it and about everything I ate soured and caused a disagreeable taste in my mouth. It was natural that I should keep on losing weight. I often had attacks of indigestion that lasted for hours. My nerves were so restless that I couldn't sleep soundly and I usually woke up with a headache. But I am not nervous any more and I feel better than I have felt for six years. I am gaining weight right along and I am thankful to Tepee Herb Tonic as it is the only medicine that ever gave me any relief."

If you don't feel well try Redwood's Tepee Tonic. It is recommended and sold by Carnahan's Drug Store in East Liverpool and by other well stocked drug stores everywhere.

WAGES REDUCED BY SMALL MINES

The demand for coal miners has fallen off 50 per cent in the last 10 days and some of the smaller companies are cutting wages from 15 to 20 per cent under the general increase authorized several week ago, it was said at the federal state labor bureau yesterday at Charleston.

The wage cuts, however, are being made only by small, independent companies, it was said, the reduction putting the wages of the miners employed by them at about 10 per cent above the 1917 scale.

None of the larger coal companies have announced any change in the present wage scale, although it was said that the market price of coal has gone far under what it was when the general increase in wages was granted.

The decrease in the demand for coal miners became noticeable at the labor bureau two weeks ago and by yesterday, it was said, the demand had fallen 50 per cent under the demand of a few weeks ago.

DEPUTY SHERIFF WRIGHT RESIGNS

His successor has not been named.

SETTING MARRIAGE LICENSE RECORD

The Brooke county marriage license bureau expects this year to break all standing records for marriage license issued in that county. Thus far 2,859 licenses have been issued, with but 153 being required to reach the high mark set last year, when 2,948 were issued. Each year for the past several years the marriage license business in Brooke county has been steadily growing, and many records have been broken.

HERRINGTON'S MOTOR SALES HOME OPENED

HERE 18 YEARS

Butter and Egg Man First to Drive Truck in City.

"A square deal for everybody" is the policy of the O. J. Herrington Motor Sales company, which recently took over the distribution of the Oakland and Pontiac cars in the East Liverpool district with headquarters at the corner of East Fifth street and Broadway.

Herrington, general manager of the company, has been a resident of East Liverpool for about 18 years, coming here from Pittsburgh on December 1, 1908. He launched a butter and egg business, soliciting orders and making deliveries with a basket at the beginning. At this time, the country was in the midst of a panic and pottery workers were being paid in script instead of money.

Despite hard times, Herrington's business prospered and within a few months he purchased a hrose and buggy. Later he acquired a wagon. In 1913 a horse-drawn equipment was disposed of and a light motor truck purchased. Herrington's machine is said to have been the first light delivery truck used in East Liverpool.

In 1917 a second truck was added to the business and since then two trucks, manned by four men, have been used in the business, which now includes butter, eggs, cheese and other dairy products.

Resigns from Council.

Two years ago Herrington was elected councilman-at-large. Because of the automobile business to which he intends to devote his entire time, he tendered his resignation about a month ago.

Herrington has turned his butter and egg business over to his son, Oliver J. Herrington, jr. The business at the present has approximately 2,400 customers, daily deliveries being made in East Liverpool, Wellsville, Newell, Chester and as far down the river as Steubenville.

The elder Herrington has announced the same policies in his automobile business that have featured his butter and egg enterprise. Associated with him in the business is J. S. Logan, sales manager, and Marshall Morgan, service manager.

Interior of the sales rooms and service department of the garage formerly occupied by the McCamon Motor Car company, has been redecorated. A new lighting arrangement has been installed.

The company has the exclusive Oakland and Pontiac agency for the southern half of Columbiana county and the upper section of Hancock county from a point just above Weirton. Associate dealers will be appointed in Wellsville, Salineville and New Cumberland.

Formal opening of the garage and sales headquarters was held last Saturday, between 750 and 850 persons visiting the establishment during the day.

Shortage of bricklayers and plasterers in England has caused a desertion by home builders from the usual brick to the wooden or concrete house.

Stop Coughing—Very Quickly Effective.

Here is the basic reason why, without opiates or chloroform, Foley's Honey and Tar Compound stops coughs so quickly and heals the distressing cause. Because it combines the curative virtues of pure Pine Tar and other healing ingredients, together with the mollifying demulcent effect of clear fresh Honey—a valuable combination. Coughs and throat irritations bronchial and "flu" coughs, croup (spasmodic) and troublesome night coughs are quickly controlled by Foley's Honey and Tar. The name tells the story. Ask for it. Sold everywhere.

WAGES REDUCED BY SMALL MINES

The demand for coal miners has fallen off 50 per cent in the last 10 days and some of the smaller companies are cutting wages from 15 to 20 per cent under the general increase authorized several week ago, it was said at the federal state labor bureau yesterday at Charleston.

The wage cuts, however, are being made only by small, independent companies, it was said, the reduction putting the wages of the miners employed by them at about 10 per cent above the 1917 scale.

None of the larger coal companies have announced any change in the present wage scale, although it was said that the market price of coal has gone far under what it was when the general increase in wages was granted.

The decrease in the demand for coal miners became noticeable at the labor bureau two weeks ago and by yesterday, it was said, the demand had fallen 50 per cent under the demand of a few weeks ago.

DEPUTY SHERIFF WRIGHT RESIGNS

Wright, who succeeded George Tope, brothers of the sheriff, was formerly connected with the Weirton police department. He had been a deputy for the past two months.

His successor has not been named.

SETTING MARRIAGE LICENSE RECORD

The Brooke county marriage license bureau expects this year to break all standing records for marriage license issued in that county. Thus far 2,859 licenses have been issued, with but 153 being required to reach the high mark set last year, when 2,948 were issued. Each year for the past several years the marriage license business in Brooke county has been steadily growing, and many records have been broken.

HERRINGTON'S MOTOR SALES HOME OPENED

HERE 18 YEARS

Butter and Egg Man First to Drive Truck in City.

"A square deal for everybody" is the policy of the O. J. Herrington Motor Sales company, which recently took over the distribution of the Oakland and Pontiac cars in the East Liverpool district with headquarters at the corner of East Fifth street and Broadway.

Herrington, general manager of the company, has been a resident of East Liverpool for about 18 years, coming here from Pittsburgh on December 1, 1908. He launched a butter and egg business, soliciting orders and making deliveries with a basket at the beginning. At this time, the country was in the midst of a panic and pottery workers were being paid in script insteady of money.

Despite hard times, Herrington's business prospered and within a few months he purchased a hrose and buggy. Later he acquired a wagon. In 1913 a horse-drawn equipment was disposed of and a light motor truck purchased. Herrington's machine is said to have been the first light delivery truck used in East Liverpool.

In 1917 a second truck was added to the business and since then two trucks, manned by four men, have been used in the business, which now includes butter, eggs, cheese and other dairy products.

Resigns from Council.

Two years ago Herrington was elected councilman-at-large. Because of the automobile business to which he intends to devote his entire time, he tendered his resignation about a month ago.

Herrington has turned his butter and egg business over to his son, Oliver J. Herrington, jr. The business at the present has approximately 2,400 customers, daily deliveries being made in East Liverpool, Wellsville, Newell, Chester and as far down the river as Steubenville.

The elder Herrington has announced the same policies in his automobile business that have featured his butter and egg enterprise. Associated with him in the business is J. S. Logan, sales manager, and Marshall Morgan, service manager.

Interior of the sales rooms and service department of the garage formerly occupied by the McCamon Motor Car company, has been redecorated. A new lighting arrangement has been installed.

The company has the exclusive Oakland and Pontiac agency for the southern half of Columbiana county and the upper section of Hancock county from a point just above Weirton. Associate dealers will be appointed in Wellsville, Salineville and New Cumberland.

Formal opening of the garage and sales headquarters was held last Saturday, between 750 and 850 persons visiting the establishment during the day.

Services Here Tomorrow.

Services will be held tomorrow at the usual hours in the various churches of the city. Pulpits will be occupied at the morning and evening services by the respective pastors.

Christmas Programs.

Rehearsals for the annual Christmas entertainments will be held next week in the local churches. Programs in keeping with the season are being arranged by Sunday school and choir leaders.

Mellon's Report.
Cotton Farming.

In the besieged city of Sianfu, people buy and eat human flesh, as they recently ate horse and dog meat in Europe. Streets are lined with men and women, dead of hunger.

Secretary Mellon, reporting to congress, says there is no ebb in our high wave of prosperity.

The nation's income is at a record level. Spending increases, also savings accounts, life insurance writing and purchase of sound investment securities by small investors—all as it should be.

"WE HAVE worked hard, and we have progressed," Mr. Mellon says, reporting the national debt reduced by more than five billion eight hundred millions of dollars.

Mr. Mellon works hard, and much progress, for which the nation should be grateful, is due to his work. He rejoices that the railroads have been restored to their proper place and calls that "the most notable improvement."

THE Egyptian chamber of deputies has passed a cotton limitation law, and for three years cotton planting in Egypt will be cut down two-thirds.

The government thinks that the best way to solve a low-price problem. Some may starve—but that is part of the game.

Here, thus far, the government decides that the best thing to do about cotton farmers is to do nothing. That also works, sometimes.

The abbreviation is disrespected to the most beautiful word in history, and it is disrespectful to the English language. Anybody in too much of a hurry to write out "Christmas" should not use the word.

POTION KILLS MRS. ERICSON, 29, DETROIT HOTEL GUEST

MOTHER IS DEAD

Woman Cabaret Singer, Was Married Twice.

Mrs. Gertrude Ericson, 29, formerly of Lisbon, is dead in Detroit, Mich., today as the result of swallowing poison. It has not been determined if the poison was taken accidentally or purposely.

J. E. Miller, her father, said she had been despondent since her mother died last March.

Faced Larceny Charge.

Mrs. Erickson was living with her husband, Carl, at a downtown Detroit hotel.

Mrs. Ericson was at liberty under $500 bond pending a hearing before Justice M. K. Zimerman, at Lisbon, on January 20, upon a charge of grand larceny filed by her sister, Mrs. Alice Bradbury, Lisbon, who charged that Mrs. Ericson had stolen her fur coat, valued at $175, a diamond ring worth $75 and $20 in money upon a recent visit to her father's home.

When arraigned, she pleaded not guilty. She was defended by Attorney C. C. Connell, while Attorney Walter Beck represented Mrs. Bradbury.

Mrs. Ericson went to Detroit early this week after being discharged from the Central clinic at Salem, where she was admitted last Saturday afternoon after taking an overdose of sleeping tablets.

Found Unconscious.

Mrs. Ericson was found unconscious on a bed in her room by her father, who had been visiting in Detroit.

Mrs. Ericson resided in the Lisbon district until about two years ago when she went to Detroit to live with her husband, a garage owner. In Detroit the woman, it is claimed, has been working as a cabaret singer and dancer.

Ericson is her second husband, her first spouse having been divorced. She was married for the first time when she was 16 years of age, friends say.

SCOUT JAMBOREE NEXT TUESDAY

Decision Also Expected Next Week at Steubenville in First Ouster Fight Against Wellsville Police Chief.

Decision in the appealed cases of George Anderson, former East Liverpool automobile salesman, seeking a third trial on a charge of slaying Frank McLain, taxi-cab driver, on October 7, last, may be handed down when the appellate court meets at Steubenville Monday.

Ruling, too, is expected in the city of Wellsville's first ouster suit against Chief of Police John H. Fultz, who was installed by the Columbiana county common pleas court, but suspended for second time this week on new charges.

Papers Go to Steubenville.

Papers in the Anderson and Fultz cases have been forwarded to Steubenville, Judge Louis T. Farr, of Lisbon, said today.

"Just as soon as we finish the Jefferson county docket we intend to get down to the consideration of the appealed cases left over from Columbiana county," said the jurist. "We

BENEDUM PUTS BAN ON FIVE POOL ROOMS AS RAID PENALTY

Four Licenses are Suspended for Five Days.

ONE-10-DAY RULE

Action Follows Seizure of Cash-Merchandise Punch Boards.

Four five-day and one 10-day suspensions in the license of five pool rooms were imposed by Mayor Ralph Benedum today as an aftermath of a police raid last Wednesday afternoon in which seven men, charged with gambling in connection with having punch boards in their possession, were arrested and fined.

The Liberty pool room, Market street, operated by John McLaughlin and Thomas McDonough, was closed for 10 days, while William Kane, operator of a room in Mulberry street, East End, Chris Anas, operator of the National pool room in East Sixth stret and James Kapotas, owner of the Unique pool room in Sixth street and the Academy [illegible] with street, were ordered to suspend business for five days. The order does not affect cigar counters, lunch or refreshments stands which are operated in connection with the rooms.

The suspension orders, which became effective at noon today were served by Captain Conley and Desk Sergeant George Toland this morning.

Second Offenses.

According to the police, the arrests were the second offenses for the operators of the Liberty pool room, Kane and Anas. Kapotas, police say, has been arrested and fined for three gambling offenses at the Unique pool room and for two offenses at the Academy establishment.

McDonough and McLaughlin, police claim, were operating a punch board known as "The California Gold Mine," offering cash prizes. Boards in the

J. H. FULTZ DECLARES HE IS ON WELLSVILLE JOB DESPITE OUSTER

EXECUTIVE, ACTING AS FORCE LEADER, ISSUES ORDERS TO HIS PATROLMEN

Accused Officer Announces That, Complying With Instructions of His Attorneys, He Will Report Regularly at City Hall and Direct Operations of Law Enforcement Branch of Government.

Asserting that John H. Fultz, suspended chief of police, has no further authority in the direction of law enforcement affairs, as a result of his suspension, Mayor W. L. Fogo, of Wellsville, last night backed members of the police department in their refusal to accept instructions from the deposed officer.

In conformity with this announcement that he was still on the job as chief of police, despite the mayor's order of suspension and the filing of charges of conduct unbecoming an officer, disrespect to a superior officer and disobedience, Fultz, it is said, last night conferred with Patrolman John Cole and the latter, together with Patrolman Edward Pugh, asserted that in order to avoid complications, they felt they could accept instructions only from the mayor.

Action of the patrolmen was approved by the Wellsville executive in his declaration that the suspended chief was without authority to act in behalf of the city.

Conference With Attorneys.

In spite of this fact, however, Fultz today asserted he would report regularly at the city hall for duty, upon advice of his attorneys.

The suspended officer said that he had taken no definite action in respect to appealing his case to the Wellsville Civil Service commission but added that he would confer this afternoon, probably, with his attorneys, W. A. O'Grady, of Wellsville, and Ben L. Bennett and Frank E. Grosshans, of East Liverpool. At that time, he said, it is possible that his course of action will be mapped out.

In the meantime, Mayor Fogo said that he will issue instructions to patrolmen.

Conductor Halts Crack Train When Engineer is Hurt

ALTOONA, Pa., Dec. 11.—The lives of scores of passengers were imperilled when Engineer R. E. Crum, 57, was fatally injured in leaning from the cab window as the crack Pennsylvania passenger train, known as the "Red Arrow," arrived here during the night. An examination today showed the engineer's skull was fractured when his head struck a baggage car on an adjoining track.

When the train did not stop at a point near here the conductor, using the emergency brake, brought it to a halt. Crum died in a local hospital half an hour later.

J. C. NICHOLLS AGED 87, DIES

Funeral of War Vet Here Tuesday Afternoon.

James C. Nicholls, 87, Civil war veteran, former resident of East Liverpool and Chester, died today in the home of his daughter, Mrs. Ella Baker, Cleveland, after a long illness.

Mr. Nicholls, who was born at Wellsburg, served in the Civil war as a member of the First West Virginia Volunteer infantry. He was a member of General Lyon post, No. 46, G. A. R., and First Christian church, Chester, and was the oldest member of Stratton circle, Protected Home Circle.

He is survived by one son and seven daughters: Robert, Niles; Mrs. Ella Baker, Mrs. Laura Reed and Mrs. Pearl Schendel, all of Cleveland; Mrs. Harriet Bingham, Sperry, Okla.; Mrs. Blanche Adams, Yonkers, N. Y., and Mrs. Maude Logan, East Liverpool. He is also survived by 11 grandchildren and five great-grandchildren. His wife died six years ago.

Funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon in the home of his daughter, Mrs. Harry Logan, Fourth and Jefferson streets, in charge of Rev. A. E. Sims, pastor of the Chester Christian church, assisted by Rev. Frank G. Fowler, D. D., pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal church. Burial will be made in Riverview cemetery.

Friends may view the body Monday night.

Fire Destroys Gallon Home.

MARION, Dec. 11.—Fire early today completely destroyed the farm home of C. J. Fichhorn, west of Galion. The loss is placed at $5,000.

WITH OPINION DIVIDED, CHESTER AWAITS VOTE TUESDAY ON PROPOSED $60,000 BOND ISSUE FOR HIGH SCHOOL IMPROVEMENTS

With opinion seemingly divided, Chester electors today awaited the battle of ballots next Tuesday on a proposed $60,000 bond issue for school improvements.

Highlights today of the fight, in which interest is at fever heat, were Mayor Frank Riley's issuance of a proclamation, which endorses the proposal; an appeal from the board of education urging support of the plan, and a statement, signed "Committee of Citizens," calling for rejection of the issue.

The mayor's appeal pointed out that one of the important features of the school system is the department of athletics. He said that Chester is without a place to play basketball, thus in his opinion depriving girls and boys of the physical and moral benefits resulting from a properly directed training in this branch of athletics. He also said this lack of facilities also causes a break in the systematic training of boys whose work started at the beginning of the school term with football.

Riley also declared that if the bond issue were approved a suitable building will be provided for athletic sports and for use of the general public, and which could be used as an assembly room for students.

The mayor concludes his statement by saying :"Our schools cannot continue to progress unless the bond issue to be voted upon next Tuesday is approved, and acting as mayor of the city of Chester this bond issue meets with my most hearty endorsement and approval as being worthy of support."

The statement of a "committee of citizens" charged that the bond issue, including interest, will cost approximately $125,000 and will exhaust the school district's borrowing capacity. The claim is also set forth that the board of education has no authority to fix the 1927 tax levy at this time, but that it should be set in July, 1927.

The opponents of the proposal also urged home renters to vote against the issue on the ground that its approval will result in increased rents. Voters are advised "not to sacrifice necessities for the grade pupils in order to provide luxuries for high school athletics."

The board of education, in a letter to electors, appealed for approval of the issue, declaring that the proposed $60,000 means only 14 cents per year upon each $100 valuation, covering a period of 25 years, or the life of the bonds. The board also pointed out that if lavatories costing $6,500 were installed in one year it would mean a levy of 17½ cents per $100 valuation, while other necessary repairs listed would still be undone, whereas a levy of 14 cents for the proposed issue would make all repairs in addition to providing an assembly room.

Following are the figures of board on the tax of 1926 which has been paid and the levy for 1927 if the issue is approved, the 1926 tax appearing in the first colum and the 1927 in the second:

Juvenile Bible Study

One question for each day is provided. The parent will find it interesting and helpful to have the child take up the question each day and aid it in finding the answer in the Scriptures, thus developing a knowledge of the Bible and where to find in it the things decided. Send or bring the little folks to the class Sunday at 1:45 p. m. The "Ceramic Cafeteria Auditorium," 121 West Fifth Street.

507. In Matthew 25:41, it is stated that the goat class are to go away "into everlasting fire prepared for the devil and his angels." What will Christ do with the devil?

Answer: He will destroy him. Fire is a symbol of destruction. See Hebrews 2:14, where it says that Christ is to "destroy him that hath the power of death, that is, the devil."

508. Is there any other Scripture which shows that the devil is to be destroyed utterly?

Answer: Yes. In Ezekiel 28:13-19, the Prophet is telling of the fall of Satan into sin, and in the 19th verse he says: "And never shalt thou be any more."

509. If the devil is to be destroyed what is meant by "everlasting fire prepared for the devil and his angels" (Matthew 25:41)?

Answer: "Everlasting fire" would mean everlasting destruction. We put rubbish and other things that are no good into the fire to destroy them.

510. In what language was the Old Testament written?

Answer: The Hebrew language.

511. What Hebrew word was translated hell thirty-one times in the Old Testament?

Answer: Sheol.

512. How else was sheol translated?

Answer: It was also translated thirty-one times grave and three times pit.

513. What is the meaning of the Hebrew word sheol?

Answer: The unseen state or condition.

CHAPTER TWENTY-THREE.

Sadie felt she wasn't putting it very clearly. But Julian surprisingly read her thought and turned squarely on her.

"Hester doesn't love that boy," he said brusquely. The tone of his voice thrilled her. If he'd only talked like that to Joe!

"No, in a way, of course, she doesn't.' '

How wonderfully he put things! Sometimes. When he was stirred like this . . . . She nodded, sobered and a little awed. "Yes," she said, "that's it."

The word "fun" came out with a curious force from that tense, white face. But he was right. Once again that elusive mind had swooped down from its clouds upon the perfect, the precis eword.

"I've been thinking pretty fast, Sadie," he went on. "Shaping a course. I've been wrong. All wrong. How could a girl like that love me, the way I've acted? I know now what I can do. It came to me while I was walking out here. All at once, the way my real ideas always come. Oh I felt the sure urge of it this noon, down there at the filling station, while I was talking with her. I knew I was going to do it, but the idea didn't clear up until just now. It's like being struck by lightning." She

"She doesn't love that boy," he said brusquely.

There was conviction in his voice. It was exciting. She couldn't take her wide eyes from his.

"I know exactly what I'm going to do. Begin now." He seemed to be talking to himself. She couldn't catch it all. With a start that made her jump, he threw open the door of the car, and leaping out rushed around behind it. Burning with curiosity, she slid along behind the wheel and followed. He was trying to open that rear compartment where all those bundles of letters were. Then he remembered that it was locked, and rushed back to get the key from the ignition switch. He was in a glow. "He doesn't know I'm here," thought Sadie mournfully.

He had the lid up now and was fumbling in there, tossing things about. Timidly her hand found his arm, but he didn't turn.

"Julian, dear,"—it was the eternal woman in her speaking, the mother—"I can't help worrying about all those letters. I just know you haven't answered one of them."

He looked up now, and that bright face clouded. "But, Sadie, I can't be bothered with those things now! . . ." He was deep in the compartment, head first. In a moment he emerged with a black leather case. It had a battered look and was worn at the corners. She stared at it. Could it be a typewriter?

"I'm going," he said, and swallowed . . . . he was again radiant, wonderful, "I am going to write her a play."

Sadie stepped back. Her knees sagged. Her mouth opened, but for a moment no sound came. The thing was heartbreaking. He'd be wrong to the last.

"But Julian, a play will take weeks . . . months. . . ."

He didn't hear her. "I can see it as plainly as if I were sitting in the theater. You don't know, Sadie! . . . . wistful, exquisite little figure a rose in a boiler factory. I'll call it . . . . yes, I'll call it 'Cobweb'! You remember what we were saying. Cobweb parties. Every life a thread in a tangle. All mixed up. Yes, that's the title. The whole thing must have a delicate shimmer about it, like a cobweb in the sun. Like her voice. Fragile. Wistful. Oh, Sadie, can't you see it?"

But here he had touched the one world she knew . . . . hostile managers with actual bars and even locked iron screens across the doors of their offices . . . delay, intrigue, blind chance, and again delays! . . . . hardboiled Broadway . . . . and that ingratiating boy at Hester's side every waking moment. "A fast worker, too," she thought.

"I wonder if any Broadway manager would give her a part like that!" said she. He was lugging that absurd machine around to the seat. She had to follow. Apparently, he was going to begin at once, right there in the machine, ten feet away from a cement sidewalk, and automobiles rolling by just beyond that. He didn't know where he was or care. . . . And then, leaning against the door, she added, raising her voice a little. "It's pretty hard to get a play produced nowadays, I'm afraid."

That sort of talk wouldn't do much good. Not with this wonderful madman. He didn't get it; merely gave her a happy smile that to her bewildered mind touched pure pathos.

"I had to find myself,' he was saying. "I had to. I've been pretty confused. You don't know. I had to find reality first. You know, something to hold to. Well, I found it in Hester. And now, at last. I've found the way t owork it out. My feet are on the earth at last." He had the machine out now, beside him on the seat. From a thin drawer at the bottom of the case he drew out paper and a carbon sheet. He was going to start right in. "You don't mind?" he asked gently.

It was a dismissal. She walked slowly away.

"He won't have me," she said to herself as she walked, "and he'll never, never get Hester. Never! . . . Sadie Hartnett, you're sunk."

She went into the tent and stretched out on her cot. The rehearsal was over. Some of the boys were lying about on the stage, but there was nobody in the tent to trouble her. Hester must have wandered off again with the symbol.

The fury was fairly on him. He was seen, during the course of the evening, pecking intently at that little typewriter, with his trouble light suspended by its twisted cord from the top of the car. He never knew that curious persons gathered at times on the sidewalk. It was an hour or more after the chill of evening reached his spare bones before he thought to put on his overcoat; and even then he got hastily into it, leaving the collar up on one side. When spoken to, he answered readily enough, but with the faraway smile of the eagerly creative spirit who needs only the smallest encouragement to read it all aloud, taking for granted a sympathetic audience.

Jim, short-handed backstage, spoke once to him. Julian replied and then utterly forgot. Jim gave him up as hopeless. After the performance, when the curious audience swarmed back to inspect the ingeniously compact stage truck, the draperies, cyclorama and lighting apapratus, he was aware of them only as he might hve been aware of flies or mosquitoes. The troupe had arranged to step over to a lunch room for a snack, and waited a few minutes. To Jim's question he replied, "I'll be along in a minute. Tell them not to wait." Then, as the stage manager turned to go, he added—he couldn't help telling—"I'm writing a play. For Hester. The title is 'Cobweb.' " And grinned nervously but happily.

Jim soberly considered this. So that was going to be the trouble! He might have known there would be a catch somewhere about this crazy generosity. And as he walked off he groaned softly. This appallingly naive young Maecenas would confidently expect them to put the play on of course. Just one more problem to handle. There was a chance that he might not get it finished. Amateurs seldom did. No good in shouldering that worry yet. But he didn't appear at the restaurant. An hour later, when they returned, he was still mercilessly at it. They went to bed. None of those in the men's tent knew when he crept in to his cot. He was there in the morning, sleeping heavily. Jim let him sleep on during the breakfast hour, but at picking up time had to awaken him. He was apologetic then, but still with that look of exaltation in his eyes.

She's wanted it so long
Long ago she probably expressed, at least to herself, a wish for a Hoover to take from her shoulders the wearisome toil of household cleaning. Yet she goes uncomplainingly ahead, taking upon herself the too-heavy burden, rather than ask you for this aid that should be there.
Now—this Christmas end her housecleaning toil forever! Call up now, and have us set aside one of the new Hoovers. They are remarkable in the greater cleaning efficiency which Positive Agitation has given. They remove, in ordinary cleaning time, 131% more dirt than any previous model.
The gift of the finest, the most efficient cleaner obtainable will be a source of pleasure to you and a joy to her. As for the cost—you can pay in small amounts, if need be. We'll give you full details when you phone, and deliver the Hoover any day you say. Only $6.25 down, complete with dusting tools.

Get Your 1927 Auto License

Ohio's 1927 automobile licenses are now available.

Press dispatches today from Columbus announced that Secretary of State Thad H. Brown's office had shipped the grey and black plates to deputy commissioners, with the result that they are on sale in many municipalities.

Probably today or Monday, the East Liverpool district's supply should arrive at the office of Deputy Commissioner J. S. Hilbert, and immediately thereafter he will accept applications for the new tags.

And while the state registration department has warned that persons using next year's plate before January 1 will be prosecuted the wise motorist will not defer filing his request for the new licenses, for a flood of applications during the latter part of December is inevitable.

If you want to use your automobile on New Year's Day, when the 1926 tags are outlawed, get your 1927 plates.

Flourishing Redskins

The American Indian, contrary to general opinion, is multiplying instead of dying out. Furthermore, he is getting richer instead of poorer.

According to Edgar B. Merritt, assistant U. S. Indian Commissioner, the 270,000 Indians in the United States in 1900 have now become 349,000, and the race is increasing at the rate of 1,500 a year.

As for their wealth, the redskins are said to be the richest race in the world. Including live stock, timber, oil holdings, etc., their property per capita is computed to be worth $4,700 against $2,500 for the average American.

For their racial up-turn, presumably the Indians are to be congratulated, although the lot of such a backward race, crowded back into odd corners and oppressed by a civilization it can hardly assimilate, is not enviable.

Their wealth need not be envied or coveted. It is little enough for a race that once owned this whole continent and all it contents.

Electrified Farms

So far, the electrification of farms has lagged, largely because the farmers have desired electric current only for lighting purposes. With the enlagement of their demands to include power use, and with the spread of super-power systems, Mr. Pack says it will be possible to extend service to the rural sections throughout the United States.

It would cost billions of dollars to provide such facilities. But the money could be obtained readily enough. There is no industry today which is making more rapid progress, and which seems sounder to invest in, than the electrical industry.

Electrifying the country as the city is already electrified would revolutionize agriculture. The farmer would not necessarily be able to plow with electricity. But along with ample lighting, which in itself would ease his labors and speed up his production, he would have power in clean, flexible form for many kinds of work now done awkwardly and expensively. As he used more current, he would get it much cheaper—so cheap that eventually he might be able to use it for heating as well as light and power.

That would transform the farm more than any kind of material progress has yet done, increasing farm efficiency, shortening farm labor and making farm life more pleasant.

A Wise Jester

It was taken as a jest, when Charles Millar, a wealthy Toronto citizen with a reputation as a practical joker, left a will bequeathing $1,500,000 to the Toronto mother who, in the 10 years following his death, should have given birth to the greatest number of children. People said it was his last and biggest joke.

Careful inquiry has substantiated the genuineness of the will and the apparently serious intent of the testator, and its terms will be carried out.

Wisely considered, the proceeding is very far from funny. Future generations may regard that gay bachelor sportsman a far-sighted patriot.

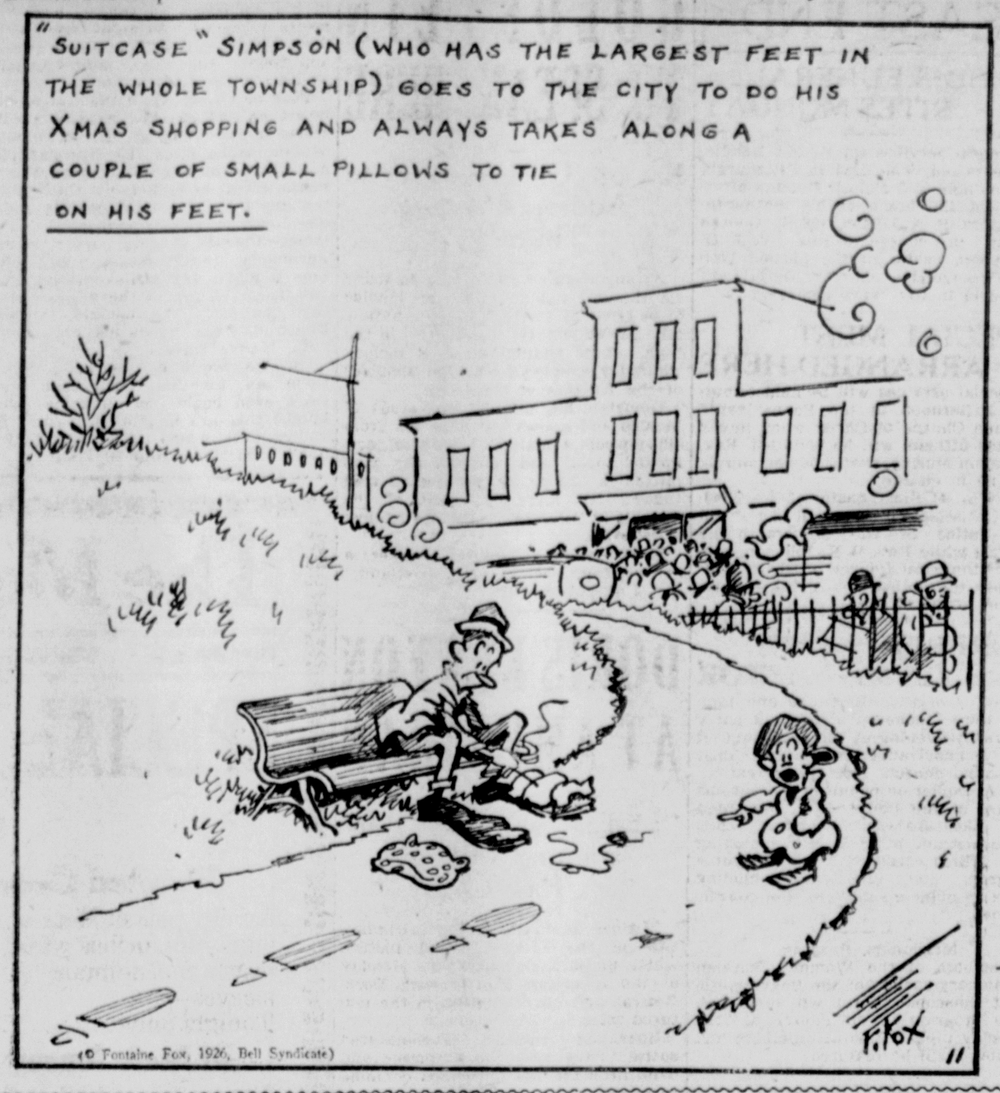

Canada might well follow the example, and offer big prizes in all the provinces for big families. It is population that makes national wealth, particularly in a new country like Canada. More rapid increase of population, if obtainable by the expenditure of millions, would produce billions.

Isn't it about time for a symposium on why women marry Charlie Chaplin?

Either Ferdinand is a royal fourflusher, or Marie is more of a wonderworker than she's been given credit for. She had to rush home because he was dying, and then he went and met her at the station.

SAVING UP FOR THE BIG EVENT.

Malcolm McLeod, is as might be gathered from his name, a Scot. As he told the yarn to another man who in turn passed it along to me, there once lived in the town of Scotstown, Quebec, where Mr. McLeod was born, a citizen named Colin Campbell MacNabb, whose personality made him more than locally famous.

This Mr. MacNabb, while not exactly what the most kindly critic would call a finished, all-around athlete, nevertheless always entered as a contestant for each and every event at the annual Caledonian games on the remote chance tht he might capture one or two prizes of more value than the combined entrance fees, which totaled up to one dollar. On one occasion he manfully tossed the caber and ran in the distance races in the hope of coming out twenty-five cents ahead of his day's expenses; but in the mile race it was apparent to his most fervent admirers that he was not half trying. In fact, there were only eight runners and Colin Campbell MacNabb finished eighth.

"Run faster," he replied, "an' me resair'rving myself for the bagpipe competition!"

NEW YORK DAYBYDAY
By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Dec. 11.—Too many artists are going sad. They crack under the strane of fame. We read now and then of Charlie Chaplin roaming the Hollywood hills, like Banquo's ghost and lost in a travail of despair. A portrait painter has quit his Park avenue salon for an attic in Rue Copic.

Gloria Swanson has $20,000 a week and a Marquis and gazes down from a roof aerie on 57th street at the world sad-eyed and on the verge of tears. Her golden dream of success is suddenly realized and as suddenly freezes.

An author who topped the best selling list and was the life of every party—the little ray of sunshine in the darkened grills—turned moody and saw only hollow mockery in the gaiety he loved. He is now marooned in the Maine woods.

Even the irrepressible Michael Arlen who flashed out of wretched Armenia to dazzle the world and inspire men to gaudier weskits is reported sulking in Paris. He found the sweets of an unparallelled literary success mere wormwood.

Sinclair Lewis, as sunny as his flaming hair, is wearing a long face and hides in the forests several months a year. There are at least a dozen others who, having gone like a shot to dizzy triumphs, have taken to the hills.

It is all mystifying to those struggling up. What should they expect of life when those to whom it has offered so much find such disillusionment? It is not quite fair to say it is a pose. It is something far deeper.

Broadway is in reality just a name. To New Yorkers it encompasses the cafe, theatre and night club belt. The actual street is more or less fond memory. Only a few legitimate theatres are on it. The smartest cafes are often many blocks away. Two of the latest and biggest movie houses are not on the thoroughfare. Actually Brodway's real White Way is a lane of orange drink stands, florist shops, fudge counters, ticket agencies, haberdasheries, millinery shops, upstairs clothing parlors, chain drug stores and cafeterias, auction rooms and the like. There are only two hotels of importance in the brilliantly lighted district. Huge yap waggons hung with lanterns despoil its corners. Touts and tinhorn gamblers infest its curbs yet withal it sparkles with life and color. No matter how it changes with the years it will always be regarded sentimentally by New Yorkers as Broadway, the street that whips the universe.

I hastily add as a trade-last for Broadway that if there is a more inspiring sight than is to be seen looking northward from Times Square at 8 o'clock at night the most experienced globe trotters have never reported it. I have been watching it for 15 years and it continues to make the pulses leap.

In a few more years Broadway, many believe, is destined to become a street of small boxlike shops like those along the rue de Rivoli stretching from the Place de la Concorde to the Magazin du Louvre. Ground floors are being sliced into cubicles a block at a time. Three rents grow where one grew before. Windows flash with baubles that are not enduring but nevertheless beautiful. They are those worldly but fascinating trinkets known as "vanities." Salesmanship is done leisurely and with a studied courtesy. At midnight the biggest business seems to be done.

HASKIN'S LETTER

A Notable Celebration.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11.—The Bureau of Standards, that wonder-working bureau of the Federal Government, has just celebrated its twenty-fifth anniversary. Just a quarter of a century ago this bureau, the activities of which are aiding not only the people of the United States, but those of other nations, had its humble beginning in an organization of fourteen employes. Their duties were performed in a few rooms in two buildings.

The staff now consists of some 850 employes housed in twenty-two buildings on a site of forty-three acres. In addition to the Washington plant there are now four branches of the Bureau located at Denver, San Francisco, Northampton, Pennsylvania, and Columbus, Ohio. Besides the regular staff of the Bureau, there are working there sixty-five research associates.

These researchers are sent by various industries having particular problems to solve. The solving of these problems is not intended to benefit any one firm, but is for the good of an entire industry. For instance, formerly the dry cleaning industry suffered a great loss through the evaporation of the gasoline used in cleaning, or because such gasoline was thrown away, it being too dirty to be used again. A representative was sent to the Bureau of Standards to work in cooperation with the experts there to try to evolve some method whereby this waste might be eliminated. Such a method was finally found and the recovery of this gasoline has saved millions of dollars.

The research associates work under the same rules and regulations as those on the regular government staff, but they are paid by the organizations which send them on this special work. It is explained that quite frequently it happens that a company may have a very complete laboratory in so far as its own particular industry is concerned. When study is begun, however, on some problem it is found that other fields are touched. It, therefore, is much more satisfactory to send a representative to the Bureau where he may avail himself of enormous laboratory facilities and the cooperation of government experts along many lines.

Many Tests Every Year.

The library contains 30,000 volumes and more than 700 periodicals. Where twenty-five years ago there were not over three divisions of work there are now eleven and these eleven are divided into sixty or more specialized

DORIS KENYON AT AMERICAN

"Ladies at Play" Intriguing Title of Picture.

"Ladies at Play" is the intriguing title of the First National picture which opens a three-day run Monday at the American theatre with Doris Kenyon and Lloyd Hughes in the featured roles.

Sparkling comedy, good-natured satire, thrills, suspense, surprises, and even little touches of pathos combine to make "Ladies at Play" a real comedy cocktail, and one that the whole family can see and enjoy.

Supporting the leading players are Philo McCollough, Louise Fazenda, Virginia Lee Corbin, Hallam Cooley, John Patrick and Ethel Wales, all in novel characterizations.

The story has to do with the inheritance by the heroine of six million dollars, on condition that she marry a man who meets with the approval of her two old-fashioned straight-laced spinster aunts.

"SO'S YOUR OLD MAN" BOOKED

W. C. Fields' Picture Comes to Ceramic Theatre.

The O. Henry Memorial Prize Short Story of 1925, Julian Street's "Mr. Bisbee's Princess," provides a fine vehicle for W. C. Fields, Paramount's comedy star, whose latest screen production is the offering at the Ceramic theatre Monday and Wednesday.

For screen purposes, the title has been changed and is now—"So's Your Old Man." It traces the life of Samuel Bisbee from the day he invents an unbreakable windshield, through his troubles while demonstrating it, in his endeavors to sell it, how he meets a beautiful Princess, what she does on landing in his home town, and finally, the social and financial success which come to him.

Imagine Fields, he of the ridiculous mustache and checked cutaway in a series of ridiculous situations. Think of him as he pulls the famous golf gag which won him so much applause in the Ziegfield Follies. To this,—add the histrionic efforts of beautiful Alice Joyce, a tender love affair between Charles Rogers, one of the Paramount Junior Stars; and Kittens Reichert, the strife between the two social factors of the village, and the continual hen-pecking which Fields receives from his harnessed wife, Marcia Harris.

In the words of the song, "Put them all together," and then you can't even begin to imagine the laughs that are in store for you. If you've ever needed a laugh tonic, don't miss "So's Your Old Man."

Feeling the Strain?

Overwork and Worry Tend to Overtax the System.

MODERN habits—overwork, worry, insufficient rest and exercise—all tend to overtax and slow up the bodily machinery. Good health requires good elimination. The kidneys filter the blood. Sluggish function, however, permits some retention of waste poisons. Such a "toxic condition" is inclined to make one languid and tired; there is sometimes toxic backache and headache. That the kidneys are not functioning properly is often shown by scanty or burning passages. Thousands recommend Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic in these conditions. Doan's act on the kidneys only. They are endorsed the country over. Ask your neighbor!

Hall-Mills Murder Cases Wiped Out as Two More are Freed

SOMERVILLE, N. J., Dec. 11.—Common Pleas Judge Frank L. Cleary yesterday dismissed the charges against Felix di Martini, private detective, and Mrs. Minna Clark, who had been accused as accesories after the fact of the Hall-Mills murders. This wipes out the final criminal charges in connection with the famous murder investigation.

WELLSVILLE AUTOMOBILE THEFT COUNTS RETURNED

Two Yorkville Men Also Indicted in Columbus.

$66,000. INVOLVED

Allege Cars Were Stolen in Pittsburgh and Sold Here.

Return of 55 indictments, including true bills charging Frank Amato, of Wellsville, Charles D. Frank and H. R. Weaver, of Yorkville, with the wholesale theft of automobiles, was made by the federal grand jury in Columbus yesterday after a four-day session.

Amato, Frank and Weaver were accused of having stolen approximately $66,000 worth of automobiles in and near Pittsburgh and removing them to Wellsville, Yorkville and other cities and communities in the valley where they were sold.

The cars were disposed of, it is claimed, after engine and body numbers were changed.

Recovery of the automobiles followed the arrest of Fred Schwartz, said to be a Pittsburgh gunman, who confessed complicity in the thefts and to selling cars in East Liverpool, Wellsville, Steubenville, Wellsburg, Beaver Falls and other nearby places.

Schwartz was sentenced to 20 years in the Western penitentiary at Rockville, Pa., in Allegheny county criminal courts at Pittsburgh about 10 days ago for his part in the auto ring deals.

Schwartz also was accused of having kidnaped a Beaver motorcycle patrolman, taking him to a point near Vanport on the Midland road where he handcuffed him to a guard railing about a year ago when the officer attempted to arrest him.

In all, 136 witnesses were heard by the federal grand jury at its Columbus session, in a total of 92 cases. Twelve cases were passed and 25 ignored. Six of the indictments were sealed.

While most of the indictments allege violation of federal dry laws many of them charge sale of narcotics, railroad freight theft and automobile stealing.

FERNLEAF CLUB IS ENTERTAINED

Games and music were diversions. Contests were won by Mrs. Homer Todd and Mrs. Nancy Kenney. Luncheon was served by the hostess, assisted by her daughters, Misses Evelyn and Phyllis.

Arrangements were made for the Christmas party which will be held Saturday, December 18, at the Episcopal church parish house, Eleventh and Center street, although the next regular meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Nancy Kenney, in Fifteenth street.

Eckler Awaits Hearing.

'REAL RELIGION' PASTOR'S TOPIC

Rev. H. A. Frye, conducting revivals at the Evangelical church, last night preached on the subject, "Is the Religion of Jesus Christ Real?" In connection with the services he announced that 32 persons had bowed at the altar to date.

Rev. Frye will preach at services tomorrow. His morning subject will be "Heaven, What Is It, Where Is It, and Who Is Going There?" His evening topic will be "Crossing the Dead Line."

Sunday school will meet at 9:45 a. m., in charge of Matthew Clark, superintendent. Communion service is scheduled for 10:45, with Christian league session carded for 6:30 p. m.

Rev. Frye took his last night's discourse from Hebrews 2:3, "How shall you escape if you neglect so great a salvation?"

He said:

"Some preachers and evangelists use hypnotic methods and influences to get folks to pray a little and call it salvation.

"Most people in modern churches will measure the success of a revival by counting accessions. About all that some folks are interested in is how many joiners did you have? They don't care a rap whether anybody gets saved or not, just so they join the church.

"Who can fathom the words of the text, 'so great salvation.' No man can understand that word 'so.'

"We are told of a mother whose baby was dying. She called for the pastor to come to pray for the child. The mother had carried the child in her arms until she was almost exhausted. The preacher wanted to relieve the mother for a while, asking her to let him hold the child. 'No, no,' said she, 'the child will soon be gone. I must not let it go out of my arms.' If human love is that strong what can you say of divine love? God's love goes deeper that that.

"If that which is real is neglected, then it will make a difference on the part of him who neglects it and such difference is an evidence that it is read. If salvation is real then it will make a difference on those who have it and those who have it not.

"You just watch men's lives and see if you cannot tell that the religion of Jesus Christ is real. Can't you see the difference between the sincere praying man and the man who curses and blasphemes God?

"Let me ask, is sin a reality? You find the answer the world over. Folks are well acquainted with sin. Now if sin is a reality, the that which removes sin must be a reality. Is life a reality? If it is not what is man—a mere fence post? Or what is he? Is pain real? How many ever had the toothache? Did you just imagine it? Is death real? If death is not real why all these cemeteries?

"It's not the loud shouting that counts, but the presence of Jesus in the heart."

The peak of absurdity is to suggest that we must not know about poison gases. Can we not trust ourselves? Is it not idiocy to say that our scientists shall not keep this country informed and protected by constant study of all important war-like weapons?

YULE TREAT TO BE GIVEN BY MISSION

Exercises Will be Held On Thursday, Dec. 23.

PLAN PROGRAM

Children are Asked to Register Here Sunday.

Special services will be held on Thursday evening, December 23, at 7 o'clock in the Nazarene Mission, Third and Main streets, when a Christmas treat will be tendered mission children and poor children.

The youngsters will be asked to go to the mission and register in order to take part in the treat. Pictures appropriate to the Christmas season will be exhibited.

A program will be featured in connection with the treat, including speaking by the children and special singing and short addresses by the adults.

Children who desire to participate in the treat have been tendered an invitation to attend the mission Sunday afternoon and register.

Republican Organ Condemns Capital Life Fiction.

DEAD VILIFIED

Termed "Fit Text for Bolshevism and Revolution."

COLUMBUS, Dec. 11.—"Revelry," a novel of Washington official life, is condemned as a "fit text book for anarchy, bolshevism and revolution" in a blistering attack in the current issue of "The Week," official Republican organ, published here.

Charging that the author, Samuel Hopkins Adams, has produced a volume so improper that it cannot be purchased at many book stores and cannot be found in many public libraries, the editor interpets the novel as an attempt to picture what purports to be phases of the Harding administration.

The article is entitled, "Shall the Dead be Vilified?

"Here in Ohio where our dearest are attacked, we do not sit down and take it lightly—we want justice," The Week declares.

The article maintains the novel libels every family in the state and nation and declares it undoubtedly was written while the citizenry was pouring funds from private savings to erect a monument to the dead president "now held up to scorn."

Interpreted As Harding.

The character of the leading figure in the book, interpreted as Mr. Harding by The Week, is maligned for gross misconduct becoming to the days of Nero, according to the articles.

"To those who are acquainted with the real intent and purpose of the book and to those who know the character portrayed, it is clear that the whole object of the publication is political; that it meant to discredit in the most vicious manner, an administration whose accomplishments were the wonder of the civilized world, and whose program of reconstruction after the most disastrous period in the world's history, is without parallel," the Week continues.

Calls Wilson by Name.

"In other chapters," the articles continue, "he (the author) places the destiny of the country in the hands of bootleggers and grafters and has the timerity to mention the successor of the dead president and calls President Wilson by name."

According to the Week, Adams "puts into the mouths of his chief characters such language as to make the blood run cold."

"Yet this volume is allowed to go unchallenged through the mails of the country," the Week continues.

The article reaffirms that Harding "was well known in Ohio; the state loved him for what he was and for his conception of duty, his patriotism and his fidelity to things American, his friendly handclasp and his understanding of the masses of human beings."

Short Talks by Thoughtful Mothers.

An Indiana mother tells this: "We find nothing to compare with Foley's Honey and Tar Compound for coughs and colds. My little lad had trouble with his bronchial tubes from his third year, but since we started giving him Foley's Honey and Tar we have been able to control it. We know there is nothing to compare with Foley's Honey and Tar Compound." The very name tells a story. Good also for croup (spasmodic) and troublesome night coughs. Ask for it. Sold everywhere.

IRONDALE TEAMS WIN CAGE GAMES

Irondale High school basketball teams were victors in contests last night with Amsterdam squads—boys and girls—at Irondale, the girls getting a 49-7 verdict and the boys winning a close 9 to 6 decision.

Dec. 17—Smithfield; Dec. 18—At Salineville; Jan. 7—Open; Jan. 21—At Amsterdam; Jan. 28—East Liverpool Reserves; Feb. 4—Hanoverton Boys and East Liverpool Girls; Feb. 5—At East Liverpool (Reserves); Feb. 11—At New Cumberland; Feb. 18—New Cumberland; March 4—Salineville; March 11—Open; March 18—At Smithfield.

"The Jacknife Man" will be shown Monday night in the Irondale school, together with "Magic Gems"—a natural color picture. On Monday, December 20, the "Sky Pilot," from Ralph Connor's story will be shown, along with an educational reel, "Shanghai." Black's orchestra will furnish music.

The Wellsville Music club will give a concert on December 16 in the school gymnasium, for the benefit of the school.

School vacation period will start December 23 and conclude on Jan. 4.

A. F. Axe, Grave Neville and Ethel Wood will spend the week-end in Alliance.

Theron Miller, school instructor, has been called to Bowling Green by the death of a relative.

REV. I. M. POLING AT LOCAL CHURCH

Evangelist I. M. Poling, of Barrackville, W. Va., will begin a series of meetings at the Church of Christ, Seventeenth and Commerce streets, tonight.

There will be preaching each evening at 7:30 o'clock and on Sundays at 11 a. m. The services will be public.

MRS. E. S. NOBLE CLUB HOSTESS

Gifts were exchanged by the members. A cover-dish supper was served, in charge of Mrs. James Leighton, Mrs. H. C. Taggart and Mrs. John Culp.

PERSONALS

Mrs. Henry Wooster, Clark avenue, who recently underwent an operation at the East Liverpool City hospital, has been removed to her home here. Her condition is reported to be improved.

Mrs. A. R. McCombs, Center street was a Pittsburgh visitor yesterday.

Mrs. John Haggerty, Eighth street, has been removed to her home from the East Liverpool City hospital where she has been a patient for several weeks.

Mrs. C. H. Aughinbaugh, Maple avenue, is confined to her home with illness.

Rev. W. S. Rowe, pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal church, is ill at the parsonage in Eighth and Main streets.

CANNON BALLS REMOVED FROM PENNSY RAILS

Police Seek Men Who Tampered With Monument.

REWARD OFFERED

City Ordinance Specifies $100 Fine for Offense.

For the third time within the past few months, city officials today were forced to remove a number of cannon balls, accessory equipment with the ornamental cannon which reposes at the Soldiers' and Sailors' monument in Fourth street and Riverside avenue, from the tracks and right of way of the Pennsylvania Railroad company.

Police authorities today announced that every effort will be made to apprehend the vandals who have been responsible for the disturbance of the monument equipment in the past. A cash reward recently was offered by Mayor W. L. Fogo for information leading to arrests.

An ordinance of the city places the maximum fine at $100 for a conviction on a charge of tampering with the monument, and, according to Mayor Fogo, it is likely that this amount will be imposed in the event that arrests are made.

The cannon balls weigh approximately 100 pounds each and authorities are at a loss to know the motive of any one who would roll them off the monument over on to the tracks, unless prompted by a spirit of destructiveness.

MOTHERS DINE GRID PLAYERS

Members of the high school football squad were banqueted Thursday night by mothers in the First Presbyterian church dining rooms, with fathers, school and board of education representatives as special guests.

Superintendent S. E. Daw presided as toastmaster. Captain Donald Hepp, in behalf of the team, presented Coach Earl Klinck with a traveling case in expression of the squad's appreciation for his services.

After a short talk Coach Klinck called upon members of the squad who played their last game Thanksgiving for brief remarks. This delegation included Charles Dickey, Gilbert Klavuhn, Henry Iddings, James Holliday, John Floto and Bruce Thorne.

Rev. Frank Magill, pastor of the First Presbyterian church gave a short address in which he hoped that the training of the game of football would aid in fitting the boys for the more serious things of life.

ASKS PAYMENT OF DOG TAXES

Payment of taxes, he announced, may be made to him at no cost to the dog owners, and this, he pointed out, should be done before January 1. On and after this date a one-dollar penalty will be assessed.

GEORGE KNOLL, AGED 85, DIES

George Knoll, 85 years old, died Thursday night in the home of his daughter, Mrs. Fred Kellog, in Salineville, following a year's illness, death being due to paralysis.

He was born in Rhinesburg, Germany, and had lived in Salineville for approximately 52 years. He was a member of the Church of Christ.

In addition to his daughter, Mrs. Kellog, he is survived by two stepchildren, Mrs. Allie Goddard, of Salineville, and John Wallace, of Redbluff, California.

Funeral services will be held Sunday afternoon at the Kellog residence in charge of Rev. A. M. Jenkins, pastor of the Church of Christ. Burial will be made in the Woodland cemetery.

MISSION MEET AT U. P. CHURCH

Woman's Missionary society of the First United Presbyterian church met last evening in the church parlors. Mrs. Charles Boyd was leader.

Devotionals were led by Mrs. Bell Booth and Mrs. M. McKim gave a talk on "The Possibilities of Prayer." A Christmas poem was read by Miss Mary Imbrie.

Mrs. H. B. Andrews, Mrs. R. W. Ustick and Mrs. C. Bainbridge were the hostesses.

CONVICT YOUTH FOR SLAYING

Pirring to be Sentenced to Life Imprisonment.

Albert Pirring, 21, Washington, Pa., was to be sentenced today to life imprisonment, following a verdict by a jury in Steubenville late last night, finding him guilty of the murder of Owen Burns, Steubenville policeman. The jury recommended mercy, carrying an automatic penalty of life imprisonment. Burns was shot with his own gun when he was called to stop a disturbance in a disorderly house.

FAITH MISSION SUNDAY PROGRAM

Customary program of services will be held Sunday in Faith Mission, 1213 Center street, in charge of A. W. Bonacci, superintendent. Sunday school will meet at 2:30 p. m. and preaching services will be held at 3:45 p. m.

Community meeting will be held next Tuesday night and a Bible study class on Thursday at 7:30 p. m.

Practice for the Christmas entertainment will be held on Tuesday and Thursday afternoons at 4 o'clock.

"BREAKFAST" in

Baker's Breakfast Cocoa

Means Something

The United States Food Standards define "Breakfast" cocoa as cocoa containing not less than 22 per cent of cocoa butter. Many cheap cocoas (which cannot be labelled "Breakfast" Cocoa) contain not more than 14 per cent or 15 per cent of butter.

Baker's Breakfast Cocoa contains not less than 26 per cent of cocoa butter, almost one-fifth more than Government requirement. The phrase Baker's Breakfast Cocoa means a pure, delicious cocoa of high quality and possessing a considerable amount of nourishment.

WASHINGTON STEWART'S LETTER

CHARLES STEWART

Parliament does, in England. It's described, as to its restaurant, as the best and cheapest "club" in Europe. This isn't an exaggeration.

I don't say the congressional restaurants are the worst and most expensive in America, but I do say that their fodder is mighty mediocre, their service rather less than that, and their customers never would pay such prices for such chow at any ordinary beanery.

THERE are four of these fueling stations in the Capitol Building: A restaurant exclusively for senators and their guests; a restaurant exclusively for representatives and their guests; a restaurant reserved for members of the press and the capitol staff, and a public restaurant.

There is also a restaurant each in the Senate and House Office Buildings.

There isn't much to choose among them.

TAKE luncheon, for instance:

Each restaurant serves a 65-cent lunch and a 75-cent lunch. There's also an a la carte bill-of-fare which can be run as high as $1 or $1.50, if the diner can stand that quantity of the kind of provender he gets.

These aren't such fancy figures, but neither is the table fancy. It's a cheap boarding house table. It will sustain life but it doesn't tempt the appetite. It isn't at all the kind of grub that anybody would suppose the lawmakers for the world's premier power would consider themselves entitled to.

ALL these restaurants are everlastingly crowded at meal time—particularly the noon meal. Senators and representatives pay off plenty of political obligations to home-town visitors by inviting them to luncheon in their respective restaurants.

It's economical, from the senators' and representatives' standpoint, and there's a glamour to an out-of-town visitor —who doesn't see the check—about eating in a restaurant "for members only." What he eats is a secondary consideration, or none whatever.

Nevertheless, the crowding is uncomfortable when once the capitol's novelty has worn off. Conscious that others are waiting, you're impelled to gobble your food in a hurry and make way for new arrivals. Perhaps it's as well. It isn't anything to linger over, anyway.

THE capitol's Ethiopian waiters are the Ritzy-est lot in Washington. Even senators and representatives mean nothing in their young lives. What, then, do they care for common, unofficial mortals!

After the first relay of customers has been served the tables always are mussy. The cutlery and chinaware only get a lick and a promise from the dishwasher. But you're mixing with senators and representatives.

THE funny thing is that all these restaurants run at a loss, despite the business they do and the prices they charge for indifferent food and a grab-bag service. It must be because everything the government touches does lose. It's a cinch a Greek restaurant man could make lots of money out of them.

BELGRADE, Jugo-Slavia, Dec. 11.—Nikola Pachitch, famous radical leader of the Balkans and former prime minister of Jugo-Slavia, died yesterday at the age of 81.

Death came as the result of a long illness, added to the infirmities of old age.

Haskin's Letter

scientific laboratories. It is estimated that there are made annually 180,000 tests, the results often saving the public millions of dollars. Thirteen hundred and fifty publications have been issued during the twenty-five years the Bureau has been in existence and these have materially aided industry and science.

The work of the Bureau of Standards with regard to automobile tires alone saved the American public $40,000,000 a year. The Bureau helped to develop both the fabric tire and the cord tire from specifications and tests. Later, comparison showed that the use of cord tires would save the public the tremendous amount cited, and the manufacturers withdrew the fabric tires. This is only one instance of what the Bureau is doing.

The range of work done at the Bureau of Standards is inconceivably wide. The studies of the scientific and technical experts range from atoms to stars—one measures the forces binding the atoms together and another the temperature on the continents and snow caps of the planet Mars. Last summer the Bureau experts achieved the actual temperature measurement of Mars and found that it was about the same as that of New York City at noon. This proved conclusively for the first time that life could exist on this much discussed planet.

The testing of the Stevenson Creek Dam in California has been placed in charge of the Bureau. This dam was built entirely for testing purpose and tests are being made to find the yielding point.

Not long ago a huge crushing machine at the Bureau was used to test the girders of the great Delaware river bridge. One of the most interesting sights at the Bureau is the giant testing machine which has a pulling power of 1,150,000 pounds and a crushing power of 2,300,000 pounds. It can crush to destruction a huge structural column or tear apart a steel shaft five inches in diameter. It will record the crushing force of a thousand tons or that required to crush an eggshell.

The Bureau not only makes high precision gages, but has evolved a method of testing them, so that they are now produced regularly with no error greater than one two-hundred thousandth of an inch. The Bureau actually ruled scales for the most famous gage-makers in the world, with divisions accurate to one-hundred-millionth of an inch. This was done without any material standard of length.

One of the latest accomplishments of this wonder-working institution is a radio-beacon which gives promise of the automatically steering by radio of a true course for airplanes. Since getting off the course is one of the particular dangers of night flying, this should prove a tremendous boon to aviation when it is finally developed to a point of common usage.

Studies at the Bureau of Standards made it possible to photograph through fog from a two-mile elevation in one one-hundredth of a second, when the object could not be seen with the eye. An automatic observer and recorder of sixteen items or road performance of automobiles was developed so that designers can study the efficiency of road performance of their cars.

It was here that the first radio direction finder was designed and operated. This device is for the purpose of promoting safety at sea.

The first regular radio broadcasting station in the world was established here and operated by the Bureau for the Department of Agriculture to demonstrate and inaugurate the national broadcasting of crop reports.

Levulose, sometimes called the supreme sugar, which is 75 per cent sweeter than ordinary sugar, was first crystallized by the Bureau of Standards from a water solution produced from an American weed. It is now being made at the Bureau on a semi-factory scale to determine experimentally the process standards for its economical industrial production, and thus to lay the scientific foundation of a new industry.

One might go on indefinitely naming the wonders and marvels, as well as the everyday aids to the people, which this bureau has performed. It has been called by none other than Thomas Edison, "the 100 per cent government bureau."

KENNETH ORMISTON FIGHTS MOVE TO EXTRADITE HIM

LOS ANGELES RADIO MAN IS IN CHICAGO

TRIAL WITNESS

"Keyes Wont Get Me Back to California," He Says.

CHICAGO, Dec. 11.—Kenneth G. Ormiston will fight extradition to California, it was announced today by Attorney Edward H. S. Martin following a conference with the one-time radio operator of Angelus Temple.

"Ormiston cannot be arrested until warrants, accompanied by copies of the indictments against him, reach Chicago," said Martin. "When he is arrested he will give bond and fight his removal to Los Angeles."

Martin declared Ormiston flatly denied that Mrs. McPherson was his sweetheart or that he spent ten days with her in a Carmei, Calif., cottage.

CHICAGO, Dec. 11.—Kenneth G. Ormiston, long sought radio operator wanted at Los Angeles in connection with the Aimee Semple McPherson case, was an interesting "visitor" in Chicago today.

The elusive former broadcaster at Aimee's Angelus Temple reached here last night from Harrisburg, Pa., where he was discovered last Wednesday, living under an assumed name, by a Chicago reporter and two detectives. Ormiston was induced to return with his "captors" to Chicago.

Immediately upon his arrival here, Ormiston went into conference with his attorney, Edward H. S. Martin. During the consultation it was decided that Ormiston will fight every effort to extradite him to California where he is under indictment charging subordination of perjury and conspiracy to defeat justice.

Extradition papers already are being prepared in Los Angeles, where Ormiston is wanted as a vital witness in the McPherson case now pending before the courts, according to telegrams from that city today.

Ormiston and the woman evangelist stand accused of having occupied a cottage at Carmel-By-the-Sea during the time Mrs. McPherson claims she was held by kidnapers in Mexico. Ormiston admits occupying the cottage, but claims his companion was not Mrs. McPherson, but a mysterious "Mrs. X."

After the conference with his attorney, Ormiston determined just how much he will tell about his association with Mrs. McPherson if District Attorney Asa Keyes of Los Angeles succeeds in obtaining an extradition order.

"But Keyes won't get me back to California," Ormiston said defiantly. "I don't believe he wants me back there. He hasn't proper material on which to base an extradition request. Keyes and his associates can't prove any crime against me. I have done nothing wrong and have nothing to fear."

It was decided at the conference that if a warrant for Ormiston is received here he will post a cash bond immediately. He will maintain headquarters here until the McPherson case is disposed of.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKETS

NEW YORK, Dec. 11.—Responding to the week-end reports of a broad expansion in retail trade throughout the country, and the ability of the market to maintain the highe r price ranges established this week, stocks showed every evidence of improvement in the short session of the market today.

The railroad stocks swung along in the upward movement inaugurated on Friday, while copper stocks and motors reached the highest price level of the week in some sections in active trading, in which the outside public were reported to have participated. A slightly better tone was in evidence in the better grade of oil stocks, including the Standard oils and a few of the prominent independents which have figured in the favorable news dispatches of the week.

Continental Baking class A jumped 5½ points to 72 on its first sale as a result of the action of the directors in declaring the regular $2 quarterly dividend this completes a 14-point rally from the low of the week, the stock having dropped to 58 on the "bear rumors" of an impending cut in the dividend rate.

Chile was a leader in the copper stocks, advancing 1 ½ to 36 1-4 on reports that the outstanding $35,000,000 of convertible 6 per cent debentures would be called and retired at 110 and accrued interest in April. Anaconda and American smelting were strong and active. Universal Pipe common was a feature in the specialities, with large scale buying above 30.

TREE-TRIMMING NECESSARY IN PHONE SERVICE

Leaves and Branches Affect Communication, Says H. C. Hyatt.

PLANT MEETING

Ohio Bell Supervisor Launches Educational Campaign.

"It was not until I joined the telephone company that I learned that leaves or branches touching telephone wires make telephonic communication bad and at times impossible."

The speaker was Harry C. Hyatt, of Cleveland, a plant supervisor for the Ohio Bell Telephone company, addressing a meeting of plant employes at the company's East Liverpool office.

The meeting signified the launching in East Liverpool of an educational program to teach telephone employes the scientific methods of tree-trimming, the objective being to keep trees and shrubbery from damaging contact with telephone lines and doing this work in such a way that it will not interfere with the natural growth.

Harry C. Hyatt

Classes in tree-trimming are being held through the company's territory. Speakers last night included Hyatt, who was formerly city forester of Cleveland, and F. C. Mohr, of Cleveland, Ohio Bell toll maintenance supervisor. Several employes from other wire-using companies in East Liverpool, Wellsville and the vicinity were present.

Conductor of Electricity.

"Before joining the telephone company I did not know of the damage to telephone service caused by leaves and branches touching the wires, although I have devoted my life to the study of horticulture," said Hyatt.

"A living tree, owing to the liquid sap in its branches, leaves and trunk, is a good conductor of electricity. When it is wet from rain or snow it is an even better conductor.

"When every one in Ohio knows that, realizing how important telephones are in daily life, and knows that when we trim their trees they will be trimmed as well as the highest paid so-called expert or tree surgeon could do the work, then our problem will be simpler.

"There are instances where it would be good business for us to pay the property owners to move their trees back. In such cases, we explain to them that their trees can't mature, we can't dodge them, and will pay them for the work of moving the trees.

"If property owners will grant us permission to trim their trees, we will trim them properly, as correctly as it is possible to trim them. Recently a great deal of experiment and development has been done along the lines of tree surgery, or arboriculture. We want to standardize our tree-trimming methods throughout the state, so that our work will be of the highest type and along the latest scientific lines."

NEXT SATURDAY IS BUNDLE DAY

Boy Scouts Will Collect Cast Off Clothing, Toys.

Next Saturday will be "Bundle and Toy Day" for the Salvation Army.

Cast off clothing for men, women and children, so long as it is not too badly worn, and toys wil be collected by Boy Scouts and turned over to the Salvation Army for distribution.

Plans for the campaign were discussed at a meeting of representatives of the American Red Cross, Salvation Army and city officials, in the Chamber of Commerce rooms last evening. The meeting, called by Mayor Ralph Benedum, was to discuss plans for Christmas relief and also to take steps to prevent duplication of Yuletide relief activities. Rev. A. H. O'Brien, chairman of the Red Cross executive committee, presided.

An effort is being made to arrange for a clearing house at which various organizations participating in relief work will list the names of families securing assistance.

Another session will be held at the Chamber of Commerce rooms at 7 o'clock next Tuesday evening, which representatives of the B. P. O. Elks, Moose, Eagles and other lodges, church organizations and individuals, engaging in relief work will be invited to attend.

HEALTH SEAL SALE NEAR END

School Pupils to Submit Reports Next Week.

Reports on the sale of Christmas health seals by East Liverpool school children this week are expected to be made to Mrs. Louis Steinfeld, seal committee chairman, early next week. Pupils in the public and parochial schools collected approximately $800 last year.

Funds derived from the sale of seals here are being used in helping to pay the salary of Mrs. R. H. Leeper, public health nurse, Mrs. Steinfeld said. Mrs. Leeper devotes part of her time in looking after persons afflicted or threatened with the white plague. She is now assisting in arranging for the chest clinic which will be held at the Baptist church next Tuesday when contact cases will be examined by physicians from Youngstown and Mt. Vernon sanitoriums.

Mrs. Leeper yesterday took an 11-year-old boy, suffering from tuberculosis of the hip, to a sanatorium, where he will undergo treatment. The Christmas seal committee is paying all expenses of this case.

Mrs. Steinfeld said that fraternal orders and other organizations are "responding splendidly" in the appeal for support of the drive. The lodges have been asked to purchase bonds which come in denominations of $5, $10, $25, $50 and $100.

The committee in charge of the booth at the postoffice yesterday collected $18.25. The workers included Mesdames W. H. Jack, Owen Buxton and James Hocking.

Dr. Mel Morris At Baptist Church Mission on Hilltop

Evangelist Mel Morris, Greensboro, Md., will preach at two services Sunday at the Pleasant Heights Baptist mission. There will be no service tonight.

Subject of his discourse for the afternoon meeting at 2:30 o'clock will be "The Divine Knocker." By special request, he will repeat his famous sermon, "The Second Coming of Christ," at 7:30 p. m.

The services this week have been largely attended despite the inclement weather conditions. Gospel chalk talks were featured each evening and already 24 persons have professed conversion.

The meetings will continue for another week, services being at 7:30 o'clock each evening with the exception of Saturday.

other establishments were for candy and other merchandise.

"The California Gold Mine," it is charged, contained 3,000 chances at 5 cents per chance, representing returns of $150. The prizes amounted to $67, leaving the proprietor a profit of $78. The owner, police say, also held a secret key which told where the big money chances were located.

Copy of Suspension Order.

Here is a copy of the order served on the Liberty and also on the other four with the exception of the term of suspension:

"In conformity to our admonition, given at a conference held in the city building early in the present year, it becomes my duty to enforce the provisions of Ordinance No. 1778, said measure being an ordinance to regulate and license billiard and pool rooms and bowling alleys.

"The measure above designated provides that for a second or subsequent offense, the mayor may revoke the license of such offender for the remainder of the year and that the matter of granting a license for the next or subsequent year is left to the discretion of the mayor.

"In lieu of the literal enforcement of the provisions of the said ordinance No. 1778, you are hereby commanded to suspend all privileges of the said license granted under the terms of said ordinance, as designated for a period of 10 days from 12 o'clock (noon) today, December 11, 1926, and not to resume said privileges until noon of December 21, 1926.

"If the penalty and conditions as stipulated above, are not willingly and promptly complied with, your license will be revoked for the remainder of the year 1926 and, as previously stated, the matter of granting a license for the year 1927 will, under the provisions of the said ordinance No. 1178, rest with the discretion of the mayor."

Rebuttal Begins in Sensational "Oil Scandal."

20-DAY FIGHT

Prosecutor Attacks Alleged "Secrecy Agreement."

On the fourth anniversary of the signing of the naval oil reserve leases, for which E. L. Doheny, millionaire magnate, and former Secretary of the Interior Albert B. Fall are standing trial for conspiracy, opposing counsel today closed the presentation of evidence and their rebuttal, and court adjourned until Monday morning when final arraignments will be made to the jury.

BY GEORGE E. DURNO.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11.—Final determination of the guilt or innocence of former secretary of the Interior Albert B. Fall and E. L. Doheny, oil magnate, standing trial for conspiracy, drew near today, when, after 20 days or more or less sensational testimony, the defense rested and rebuttal began.

Soon after the day's session began, Frank J. Hogan and Wilton J. Lambert, chief of defense counsel, formally announced they had completed the presentation of their case.

The first defense angle Roberts attacked was the alleged "secrecy agreement" between Fall and former Admiral J. K. Robison, whereby the latter was to have withheld information from members of congress about the leasing activities in the naval oil reserves.

Robison's Letters Read.

Over defense objection, he read to the jury letters Roison had written to three congressmen in 1922, in answer to their requests for information.

Robison had stated it was to be the government's policy to keep drilling activities "as low as practicable," adding that offsets wells were to be sunk only where private wells were located directly across the border.

Roberts then offered the minutes of a navy council meeting at which Secretary of the Navy Denby said:

"This oil leasing business is both difficult and dangerous. It is full of dynamite, and I don't want to have anything to do with it."

Court May Rule

Ruling in the case of Anderson, twice convicted for manslaughter and under sentence of a term of from four years and eight months to 20 years in the penitentiary, was to have been handed down at the Harrison county term of court at Cadiz during the week of November 29, but because of the absence of Judge James Roberts of Ashtabula county, who was called to Cincinnati by the serious illness of his sister, the decision was deferred. Ruling in the Fultz case was to have been made at St. Clairsville this week.

Judge Roberts returned from Cincinnati this week and assisted in the Belmont county cases at St. Clairsville.

The Jefferson county session is the last scheduled for this year, although an extra session may be necessary. The first session in 1927 will be held in Ashtabula county during the last week in January.

"Wooster Day," Marking 1901 Fire, Is Observed Here

Dr. C. H. Bailey, of this city, was a student at Wooster college when the "Old Main," four-story building in which all classes were held, was destroyed by fire on December 11, 1901, just 25 years ago today.

The Presbyterian college then had an enrollment of 229 students, Dr. Bailey being a member of the class of 1904. The origin of the fire, causing a loss estimated at $250,000 with but $60,000 worth of insurance, was never determined.

To commemorate the fire, "Wooster Day" is being celebrated throughout the country today. This day was first celebrated in 1921 when a movement was started under the direction of John D. McKee, alumni secretary, and since then it has been an annual affair.

REVIVAL MEET CLOSES SUNDAY

Rev. O. A. Newlin Will Speak at Three Services.

"Goodbye, Lord! See you next Sunday in church if it is not too nice to go out in the car," is the mental attitude that epitomizes many so called Christians these days," affirmed Rev. O. A. Newlin, of Winona Lake, Ind., in an unequivocal resume of the responsibilities of parents in teaching Scriptural truths in their homes, at the First United Presbyterian revival last evening.

With teachers flanking their classes and many seated together "Sabbath School Night" as the occasion was arranged, fulfilled its purpose in greatly increased attendance.

With one day of the campaign remaining, the three services Sunday are certain to attract crowds in every instance. At all three meetings Rev. Mr. Newlin will speak. In the morning at 11 o'clock his theme will be, "A Royal Exhortation;" in the afternoon at 3 o'clock he will conclude his sermon began last Sunday afternoon on "The Triumphal Climax." His concluding message at 7:30 o'clock in the evening will be on the subject, "Crossing the Bar."

Following the usual song service Prof. John C. Ussher and Emmet Gaston, accompanied by the church organist, Miss Adda McLain, sang "My Soul Panteth for Thee." After a period of "silent prayers" Rev. L. J. Davison, the pastor, made the invocation.

Taking cognizance of the presence of many Sunday school pupils Rev Mr. Newlin paid a tribute to the Bible as the text book which they study. He deprecated the small amount of time available but 52 times in a year to its consideration in the average churches.

Infielder Bohne Released.

NEW YORK, Dec. 11.—Sammy Bohne, utility infielder of the Brooklyn Dodgers during the 1926 season, has been released outright to the Minneapolis club of the American association, it was announced today by Brooklyn officials.

STATE CALLS 40 WITNESSES FOR TRIAL OF PAT M'DERMOTT

Coroner and Mellett's Widow to Testify Monday.

KASCHOLK STAR

Prosecution Hints Surprise Testimony May be Offered.

By Paul E. Brokaw.

CANTON, O., Dec. 11.—The first of approximately 40 witnesses who will be relied upon by the state of Ohio to convict Patrick E. McDermott, of the murder of Don R. Mellett, publisher of the Canton Daily News, were to be subpoenaed today.

Coroner T. C. McQuate and Mrs. Mellett, widow of the slain man, and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Vail, who were in the Mellett home when the editor was slain last July, were to be the first ones subpoenaed, it was announced.

It is known that the state will depend largely the stories of Steve Kascholk, Nanty Glo, Pa., miner, and Peggy Cavanaugh, pretty Cleveland waitress and girl friend of the dapper Pat.

Surprise Witness.

McClintock, indicated today that one surprise witness, whose name has never figured in the case, might offer testimony that would eclipse Kascholk's tale—as far as sensational revelations are concerned.

The state's attorney refused to identify the surprise witness or even hint at the possible trend of the testimony he will offer. Ora Slater, Cincinnati detective, several Canton policemen, who went to the Mellett home shortly after the murder was reported, and perhaps one or two newspapermen, were also expected to be included in the list of state's witnesses.

With the court adjourned until Monday, the light of interest in the case shifted temporarily to Laredo, Texas, where a man who claims knowledge of the Mellett murder was being held.

The man, Jack Lopez, thought possibly to be a brother-in-law of Carl Studer, underworld "dandy" now under a prison sentence, was taken by immigration authorities in the Lone Star state yesterday, according to reports reaching police officials here from Texas authorities.

County Prosecutor C. B. McClintock did not place much credence in the story of Lopez but was awaiting further word of any additional developments on the matter.

BLACKSTONE'S KING OF MAGIC

Great Showman Closes Ceramic Engagement Today.

Herrman and Keller were remarkable exponents of the magic art but today it is almost universally conceded that the palm of 'foremost magician of the world' must be awarded to Harry Blackstone, who closes his engagement at the Ceramic.

Blackstone is a great showman. His dynamic personality is felt as he appears on the stage and during the whole of his performance he grips you with that compelling magnetism which makes you believe you are being taken into his confidence and that you are to learn his precious secrets, only to realize at the finish that you have been utterly mystified and astounded by his extraordinary cleverness.

Audiences marvel at the sensational illusion of "The Bride's Chamber," the Vanishing Horse" and his latest spectacular effect, "Broadcasting a Woman," all of which are carried out and shown with more than the usual detail and scenic effects. Blackstone carries a wealth of scenery, a company of 25 artists and assistants as well as flocks of pigeons and ducks, and a horse. He offers an entertainment of the highest order, varied to suit the taste of the most blase theatre-goer.

RECORD IS MADE BY FARM CLUBS

Eighty and three-tenths percent, or 22,675 of the 28,229 boys and girls finished the task they started last spring as members of 4-H clubs in Ohio. The national average for club completions last year was less than 60 percent, according to County Agent Floyd Lower.

Mr. Lower stated that in Columbiana county 430 boys and girls enrolled last spring and 305 or 70.9 percent, finished their project at the county fair exhibit last September. The enrollment for the state was larger this year by 3,578 than last year, Mr. Lower pointed out. In the 88 counties in the state interested in this 4-H club work, Columbiana county held 15th place.

Damage Case Dismissed.

The $10,000 automobile damage case that has been pending in common pleas court since Sept. 1st, 1924, has been dismissed on the motion of Ralph Wolf, the plaintiff in the case against James Heckathorne. Judgment for the costs in this action has been rendered against Wolf. The action was the outgrowth of an automobile accident wherein the plaintiff claimed he was injured.

FOUR DIVORCE DECREES GRANTED

The divorce action pending in common pleas court since May 12 last wherein Helen E. Robinson sought a decree of divorce from her husband, Donald Robinson, has been finally disposed of by the court granting the plaintiff a decree on the grounds of extreme cruelty and gross neglect of duty. The matter of alimony has been agreed to by counsel. The custody of minors has been awarded the plaintiff.

On the grounds of gross neglect of duty, a decree of divorce has been granted Rose Whitaker against her husband, John A. Whitaker. Judgment for costs in this case has been entered against the plaintiff.

Wilful absence for over a period of three years was charged against Charles Edwin Williams in the divorce petition filed against him Oct. 15th last by his wife, Floy Williams. She has also been restored to her maiden name, that of Floy Bruner.

Extreme cruelty and gross neglect of duty were the grounds upon which Judge Lones has granted Frances R. Holcomb a decree of divorce against her husband, Frederick R. Holcomb, the original petition having been filed Sept. 24 last.

Custody of minors in this action was awarded the plaintiff, and Holcomb has been ordered by the court to pay $10 per week for the support of the children, this payment to begin Dec. 10th.

Sheep Claims Paid.

Checks totaling $4,593.40 were mailed from the county auditors' office Saturday in the settlement of sheep and animal claims as recently approved by the county commissioners. Other claims will also be paid before the close of the year, it has been announced.

DIVORCE RULING IS DEFERRED

A temporary order of injunction has been issued by the court in the divorce action filed in common pleas court by Mrs. Lucy Tucker against her husband, Dallas Tucker, under the prayer of the petition, and without bond on the part of the plaintiff.

In the divorce action there has been a trial of the case to the court, but a decision has been reserved until Dec. 17. This action was filed in common pleas court Oct. 23, last.

Divorce Granted.

On the grounds of gross neglect of duty, a decree of divorce has been granted by Judge W. F. Lones to Joseph F. Clunk against his wife, Mildred L. Clunk, the petition being made a matter of record Oct. 21 last. In this case the court has ordered the plaintiff to pay the costs.

Highs Complete Plans For Two-Game Trip To Cleveland

Will Battle Rocky River And Marshall In Opening Clashes

Ten-man Squad, in Charge of Coach N. F. Lorah and Faculty Manager Decker Will Make Trip, Leaving Next Friday Morning; Squad Shows Form in Workouts.

WITH less than a week of practice days intervening before the first clash of the campaign, high school's court squad is rapidly rounding into shape for what is expected to be an exceptionally good season. In charge of Coach N. F. Lorah, who has been assisted in recent days by Bill Watkins, Tri-State referee, the Blue squad has been performing diligently and results of its efforts thus far indicate that Captain Jimmy Hamilton will lead one of the most efficient outfits in recent years.

According to present arrangements, both Pusey and Larkins will play the floor with Todd dropping back to defensive guard. This outfit forms one of the most balanced squads in several years, with every man a potential scorer; plenty of speed and a strong defense trio in Larkins, Todd and Pusey.

The opening of the campaign will find the Blue in action at Cleveland on a two-game trip next Friday and Saturday, playing John Marshall in the first tilt and Rocky River in the second.

A 10-man squad will make the trip, it was announced today, in charge of Coach Lorah and Faculty Manager Decker, and the following players: Hamilton, McKeever, Todd, Larkins, Pusey, Deidrick, English, Wiblood and McConville, accompanied by Manager Bill Swaney. The team will leave next Friday morning in automobiles.

Outfits—10 in all—arrived here yesterday. The team will be clad in white jerseys, trimmed in blue, with "Liverpool" diagonally across the front; and white trunks, trimmed in blue. The sweat jerseys will be blue, with white trimming, adorned with an eight-inch "L."

Jerseys and other equipment used by the varsity last season will be given over to the Reserves who will play out a regular schedule this winter.

Stanford Eleven To be Togged Out With Silk Pants

PALO ALTO, Calif., Dec. 11.—Following the innovation by Purdue and Notre Dame, the Stanford football squad will wear silk football pants henceforth. The new equipment will probably be used when the Cardinals play Alabama at Pasadena on New Year's day, it was revealed today.

INSIDE GOLF

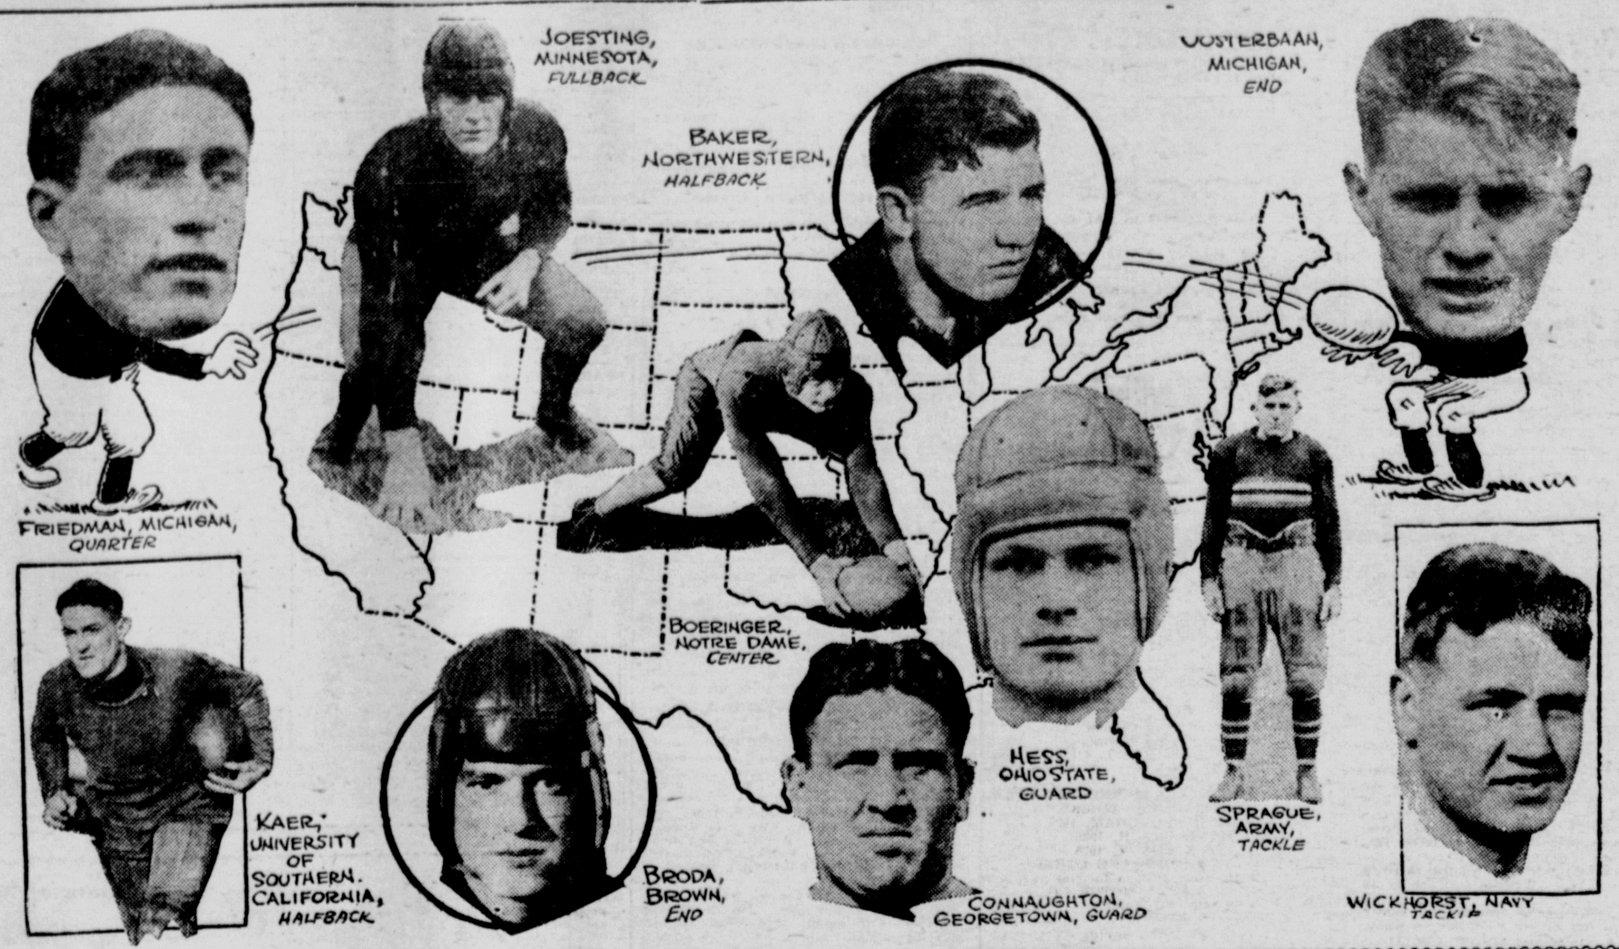

By CHESTER HORTON,

Now we will observe the effect of a right grip on the right arm in the back swing. You can readily demonstrate this by taking a club and trying out what I shall here detail for you. With the right hand tucked up close against the left, so that the V of the right thumb and forefinger are directly in front of the V of the left thumb and forefinger, and both pointing slightly to the right of your face, you will note as you start the club back that the natural tendency of the right forearm is to keep tucked in close to the side. If anything the right hand pushes forward against the left hand, instead of pulling backward and upward. Then, as you sweep the club upward the right elbow keeps its place—pointing to the ground—and ultimately you find it—at the top of the back swing—directly under the shaft, the forearm pointing straight down and the elbow out, say, six or eight inches from the side. This is correct position. Now try it over again, and this time take the wrong grip with the right hand, letting the wrist point directly away from the shaft, the right palm not touching the left thumb. Then observe where your right arm goes to in the back swing, and note how easily it slips in back of you and out of correct position.

Over Million Grid Fans Picked This All-American Eleven

CLEVELAND, Dec. 11.—Announcement was made today of the final results of the first All-American football team selected by over a million football fans throughout the country. The poll was conducted through the medium of 400 newspapers, clients of the Central Press association, under the supervision of Norman E. Brown, sports authority.

And the poll shows these facts to be true:

That the American football fan knows his game. He is familiar with it wherever played, from the upper Peninsula of Michigan to the skirts of the everglade region in Florida.

That the fans themselves were glad of a chance not only to have a hand in selecting the real All-American eleven, but were confident they could do it as evidence by the flood of ballots.

That sentiment is not sectional, that is, fans in any given part of the country have a fair perspective on the outstanding figures of the other sections.

That the fan gets as much pleasure, and probably more satisfaction out of making up his own All-American than he does in reading the opinions of a single expert or a group of experts.

That the quick and efficient coverage by the newspapers of the games in all parts of the country is appreciated and digested by these fans.

ALTMANS BOW TO ROSELAWNS

Clothiers Lose Three Straight in Liberty Matches.

Roselawn bowlers of the Liberty Duck league copped three in a row from the Altmans in last night's matches, the Clothiers giving their foes a run for their money at that. Wurtzell, of the Roselawns, was high with a score of 427 for the series.

The Standing:

	W.	L.	Pct.
Chryslers	11	1	.917
Smith News	5	4	.555
Bankers	6	6	.500
Turk Nash	4	5	.444
Roselawns	5	7	.417
Altmans	2	10	.167

Next Week's Schedule:

Monday—Altmans vs Smith News.
Tuesday—Roselawns vs Turk-Nash.
Friday—Chryslers vs Bankers.

Next week's contests will complete the first quarter of play in the circuit. The teams will play around then once more to complete the first half, after which play will be started all over. Winners of the second half season will clash with the first section champs for the title.

Fred Adams established a new duck pin mark for the Christmas award by rolling 222 last night, topping the previous mark of 218 held by Bill Welch. Nate Simms still is high in tenpins with a score of 245.

SCHALK SEEKS SECOND SACKER

That, in effect, was the S. O. S. of Schalk when he let it be known today that he is in the market for an all-around, A-number one, second sacker.

Ray Morehart, who alternated with former Manager Eddie Collins on second base last season, is a polished fielder, Schalk said, but is a little light at bat.

Aaron Ward, of the Yankees, Schalk said, is the man he would like to have, but when Col. Ruppert talked of trading him only for Ted Lyons, ace of the White Sox pitching staff, the hose pilot declared the deal was "all off."

Fight Results

Sammy Vogel, of New York, won decision over Clicky Clark, of Holyoke, Mass., eight rounds.

AT GRAND RAPIDS, Mich.—Mike McTigue, former light-heavyweight champion, knocked out John (Soldier) King of Grand Rapids, in the fourth round.

DELANEY PLANS WINTER DRIVE

Although he had been out of the ring for some time because of an injury, the champion outclassed his colored opponent from the start and knocked him out in the third round of their scheduled 15-round bout.

Delaney floored the "Kid" four times in the final round and won after 1 minute 13 2-5 seconds of fighting. A right to the jaw was the finishing blow.

MEHLHORN SETS TOURNEY PACE

Only Entry to Make Par in Monterey Open.

DEL MONTE, Cal., Dec. 11.—Strangely quiet, "Wild Bill" Mehlhorn, of Chicago, who once showed a penchant for climbing trees during golf tournaments, today was out in front in the Monterey Peninsula open, with the pleasing prospect of cashing in on a portion of the $5,000 prize money.

Mehlhorn was the only golfer to make par on the pebble beach course yesterday. He made the first 18 holes in 72 strokes, leading his fellow townsman, Al Espinosa, by one stroke. Hutt Martin, of Los Angeles, also had a 73.

Willie Hunter, of Los Angeles, Bobby Cruickshank, of New York, and Curley Hueston, of Seattle, were in a triple tie, each taking 74 strokes. One stroke behind them came Jack Hart, of Fresno; Bert Wilde, Washington; Johnny Golden, New York; Tommy Armour, Washington; Cyril Walker, Harry Cooper, Al Watrous and Charley Guest.

The final 18 holes will be played today.

More Value than the Price Suggests

Yet during this period more important improvements were incorporated than in any year in Dodge Brothers history. Advances were made in engineering and body designs. The cars possess a greater degree of smoothness, silence and ease. They are more comfortable, more beautiful.

Current prices — made possible, of course, by constantly mounting sales — are therefore not an obvious measure of value. Prices, in fact, have never told the full story of Dodge Brothers dependability and basic worth.

But now, more than ever before, there is far more value than the price suggests.

CLAIM BONDS COST $125,000

Committee of Citizens Cites Points in School Election.

The following statement relative to the proposed school bond issue of $60,000 to be voted on at a special election next Tuesday, was issued today by a committee of Chester citizens:

"The school board asks for a bond issue of $60,000 that will cost tax payers over $125,000, including interest. These improvements provide for an assembly room, auditorium, gymnasium and athletic field, and do not provide for much needed class rooms or paring present indebtedness on the present high school building.

"The bond issue if carried will exhaust the school district's borrowing capacity. What are we to do in the very near future with no class rooms provided?

"The board of education has attempted to fix this levy for 1927 taxes at this time. This is clearly illegal as the law provides the fixing of these levies in July, 1927, when they have all the facts before them—and they do not have these facts before them at this time and they threaten you with an increase in taxes for 1927 if you do not vote them the $60,000.

"If we pass the bond issue are we not sacrificing necessities for the grade pupils in order to provide luxuries for high school athletics?

"Mr. Renter you are interested, as increased taxes means increased rents. One prominent landlord who favors the bond issue has made the remark openly, "I will increase my rents if the bond issues carries." Don't do something in the voting booth Tuesday that you will have cause to regret for the next 25 years, beginning in 1928.

"Now voters think when you go to the polls to vote on Tuesday, December 14."

INDIAN MEDICINE INCREASES MAN'S WEIGHT QUICKLY

Erie Restaurant Proprietor Comes Out With a Joyous Message.

To increase your weight there is nothing quite as good as Redwood's Tepee Tonic, which contains upwards of fifty different kinds of rare roots, barks and herbs, is the claim of many thousands who have used this medicine.

Redwood

Nick Poppas, 152 E. Tenth St., Erie, Penna., says: "My stomach had too much acid in it and about everything I ate soured and caused a disagreeable taste in my mouth. It was natural that I should keep on losing weight. I often had attacks of indigestion that lasted for hours. My nerves were so restless that I couldn't sleep soundly and I usually woke up with a headache. But I am not nervous any more and I feel better than I have felt for six years. I am gaining weight right along and I am thankful to Tepee Herb Tonic as it is the only medicine that ever gave me any relief."

If you don't feel well try Redwood's Tepee Tonic. It is recommended and sold by Carnahan's Drug Store in East Liverpool and by other well stocked drug stores everywhere.

Stop Coughing—Very Quickly Effective.

Here is the basic reason why, without opiates or chloroform, Foley's Honey and Tar Compound stops coughs so quickly and heals the distressing cause. Because it combines the curative virtues of pure Pine Tar and other healing ingredients, together with the mollifying demulcent effect of clear fresh Honey—a valuable combination. Coughs and throat irritations bronchial and "flu" coughs, croup (spasmodic) and troublesome night coughs are quickly controlled by Foley's Honey and Tar. The name tells the story. Ask for it. Sold everywhere.

WAGES REDUCED BY SMALL MINES

The demand for coal miners has fallen off 50 per cent in the last 10 days and some of the smaller companies are cutting wages from 15 to 20 per cent under the general increase authorized several week ago, it was said at the federal state labor bureau yesterday at Charleston.

The wage cuts, however, are being made only by small, independent companies, it was said, the reduction putting the wages of the miners employed by them at about 10 per cent above the 1917 scale.

None of the larger coal companies have announced any change in the present wage scale, although it was said that the market price of coal has gone far under what it was when the general increase in wages was granted.

The decrease in the demand for coal miners became noticeable at the labor bureau two weeks ago and by yesterday, it was said, the demand had fallen 50 per cent under the demand of a few weeks ago.

DEPUTY SHERIFF WRIGHT RESIGNS

Wright, who succeeded George Tope, brothers of the sheriff, was formerly connected with the Weirton police department. He had been a deputy for the past two months.

His successor has not been named.

SETTING MARRIAGE LICENSE RECORD

The Brooke county marriage license bureau expects this year to break all standing records for marriage license issued in that county. Thus far 2,859 licenses have been issued, with but 153 being required to reach the high mark set last year, when 2,948 were issued. Each year for the past several years the marriage license business in Brooke county has been steadily growing, and many records have been broken.

HERRINGTON'S MOTOR SALES HOME OPENED

HERE 18 YEARS

Butter and Egg Man First to Drive Truck in City.

"A square deal for everybody" is the policy of the O. J. Herrington Motor Sales company, which recently took over the distribution of the Oakland and Pontiac cars in the East Liverpool district with headquarters at the corner of East Fifth street and Broadway.

Herrington, general manager of the company, has been a resident of East Liverpool for about 18 years, coming here from Pittsburgh on December 1, 1908. He launched a butter and egg business, soliciting orders and making deliveries with a basket at the beginning. At this time, the country was in the midst of a panic and pottery workers were being paid in script instead of money.

Despite hard times, Herrington's business prospered and within a few months he purchased a hrose and buggy. Later he acquired a wagon. In 1913 a horse-drawn equipment was disposed of and a light motor truck purchased. Herrington's machine is said to have been the first light delivery truck used in East Liverpool.

In 1917 a second truck was added to the business and since then two trucks, manned by four men, have been used in the business, which now includes butter, eggs, cheese and other dairy products.

Resigns from Council.

Two years ago Herrington was elected councilman-at-large. Because of the automobile business to which he intends to devote his entire time, he tendered his resignation about a month ago.

Herrington has turned his butter and egg business over to his son, Oliver J. Herrington, jr. The business at the present has approximately 2,400 customers, daily deliveries being made in East Liverpool, Wellsville, Newell, Chester and as far down the river as Steubenville.

The elder Herrington has announced the same policies in his automobile business that have featured his butter and egg enterprise. Associated with him in the business is J. S. Logan, sales manager, and Marshall Morgan, service manager.

Interior of the sales rooms and service department of the garage formerly occupied by the McCamon Motor Car company, has been redecorated. A new lighting arrangement has been installed.

The company has the exclusive Oakland and Pontiac agency for the southern half of Columbiana county and the upper section of Hancock county from a point just above Weirton. Associate dealers will be appointed in Wellsville, Salineville and New Cumberland.

Formal opening of the garage and sales headquarters was held last Saturday, between 750 and 850 persons visiting the establishment during the day.

Shortage of bricklayers and plasterers in England has caused a desertion by home builders from the usual brick to the wooden or concrete house.

Athens, once the center of culture in Greece, will not use ordinary cabs in its taxi lines, but has purchased 120 passenger cars for the service.

Karlsborg, Sweden, has a boom in radio interest in anticipation of the erection of a large broadcasting station.

In Tangier, Morocco, which has 60,000 population, there are only two motorcycles.
